SHOUTS OF 'WILLY! WILLY BRANDT!'

Divided Germany Leaders Confer

ERFURT, East Germany (AP) - Shouting "Willy! Willy Brandt!" thousands of East Germans broke through police barriers today to greet the West German chancellor shortly before he sat down to his historic meeting with East German Premier Willi Stoph.

The heads of the two German governments met for the first time since the division of Germany 25 years ago and promptly agreed to hold a second meeting in an undetermined West German town near the border. Brandt proposed they meet in May, though a specific date was not set.

Before the two men held their one-hour and 45-minute morning session, Brandt was given a noisy and friendly welcome as he and Stoph walked 50 yards from Erfurt's main railway station to the hotel where the discussions were held.

"On the agenda is the permanent, basic settlement of the relations between the GDR (East Germany) and the FRG (West Germany). It can only be achieved through the establishment of relations according to international law and on the basis of full equality," Stoph said in his opening address.

Stoph further demanded that West Germany pay East Germany $27.3 billion for economic losses caused by the flight of three million East Germans to the West before the 1961 construction of the Berlin Wall. While Brandt called the Wall "lamentable," Stoph praised it as "an act of humanity."

"It served the vital interests of our people and the preservation of peace in Europe," he added.

Brandt rejected Stoph's demand for formal recognition, but suggested in its stead that the two governments appoint permanent representatives in their respective capitals of Bonn and East Berlin.

The cancellor underscored, however, the "for the normalization of relations formal documents alone do not suffice. The people here West and there East must gain something from the normalizati."

He suggested a whole cata-

GYPSY JOKER QUITS RUNNING

Park Killing Suspect Gives Himself Up In San Rafael

By MARY LEYDECKER

A 22-year-old Gypsy Joker motorcycle club member, tired of running from the law, turned himself in last night at the Marin County Jail to face charges stemming from a fatal shooting last summer in Golden Gate Park.

Donald Stuart Lawson, who lived in San Francisco until he fled last July when he read in a newspaper that he was wanted on charges of murder, conspiracy and felony assault, was the last of eight persons to be arrested in connection with the shooting.

They are accused of being responsible for the death of Gino Heinicke, 22, of San Francisco, who died after being shot during a June 29 rock concert attended by hippies and motorcyclists.

"I wouldn't have come back if I san done all tae things they say I did," Lawson said last night.

His surrender at the jail came after Lawson contacted Ralph Finley, a San Rafael bail bondsman who, Lawson said "had done things for us (the Jokers) in the past." Lawson also said he trusted Inspector Carl Selby of the San Rafael Police Department, who arrested him.

Lawson said that he chose Marin County as his place of surrender because "we've always been treated fairly here." Finely added that he had found that members of the Gypsy Jokers kept their promises unlike some other motorcycle group members.

Lawson, a thin and nervous long-haired youth, described his months of flight which he said "cost me everything I had."

He and another wanted man, Dan Toplikar, loaded their motorcycles into a truck and took off as soon as they read there was a warrant out for their arrest. Lawson, whose right arm and leg were in casts from an accident which happened before the June 29 shooting, said that he had never been in trouble with the law before.

He was vague about where and Toplikar spent the intervening months but mentioned a stay in New Mexico, a favorite gathering place for hippies. "New Mexico was beautiful," he said "I left because I didn't want to get busted there and hurt the people I stayed with," he added.

"I was really scared sometimes," the youth said, adding that he couldn't get medical treatment for his broken limbs and finally took the casts off himself.

"I really thought I had it made before this happened," he added. "I had a job (in the San Francisco post office), a house, motorcycle and a girl friend."

Only the girl friend remains, because Lawson spent all his savings, had to sell his cycle and feels he will have difficulty getting a job again. He plans however, to marry the girl friend "when I get this cleared up."

Lawson resents being described in bulletins as "armed and dangerous when I was neither."

He considers the Gypsy Jokers as his family and calls the other members "brothers." The youth, who left home when he was 17, said he has not seen his parents since then. He declined, however, to say where they were "as this might hurt them."

He described the strict rules of the Jokers about drugs.

"You can't have 30 guys riding together and one of them stoned out of his mind," he said, adding that he once had used drugs, "but no more. They slow me down too much. Besides, when I was running, I was too scared to use drugs."

"This is sure a hard thing to do," he concluded as he was booked.

Lawson had hoped to post the $6,250 bail set for him but an FBI hold due to his interstate flight kept him in jail today for delivery to San Francisco authorities.

His friend, Toplikar, who turned himself in to San Francisco police, remained in jail there today.

Other Areas Eye Walkouts

NEW YORK (AP)—The nation's first letter carrier strike continued to spread to wider areas of upper state New York, New Jersey and Connecticut as the city's mailmen defied a back-to-work court order.

Meanwhile, the 3,000-member Brooklyn Postal Union, representing clerks, drivers, mail handlers, and maintenance men voted today to join the letter carriers in the strike.

As postmen in many cities across the nation prepared to vote on whether to strike, work halted in post offices throughout northern New Jersey this morning.

EFFECT WIDENS

Paterson, Hackensack, Jersey City and Bayonne were the major New Jersey cities affected. All mail deliveries were canceled at Stamford, Conn., when carriers there walked out at midnight, and letter carriers struck at White Plains, serving a large area of suburban Westchester County. A union official said the walkout at White Plains would virtually halt work in many outlying post offices.

The second of two temporary restraining orders issued Wednesday was served today on the Brooklyn Letter Carriers, Branch 41, ordering its 3,500 workers not to strike or picket. The other injunction was served Wednesday on the union branch representing Manhattan and the Bronx.

QUICK IMPACT

There was no immediate indication of how Brooklyn union officials would instruct their members.

A national embargo ordered at the start of the day-old strike already had diverted tens of millions of pieces of mail addressed to New York to storage bins in post offices around the nation. Mail chutes and outside boxes in New York City were sealed.

The impact of the strike was immediate. It was felt in brokerage houses, banks, businesses and law offices.

Housewives receive no magazines, bills or coupons. Relatives received no word by mail from servicemen in Vietnam. The business of the huge Manhattan-based corporations and government agencies was disrupted.

PICKETS FIRM

Although picketing here was minimal as union delegates toured post offices, telling the strikers to go home, most of the striking mailmen expressed determination to let the mail pile

Nixon Asks Needy Youth College Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon proposes to congress today a plan to guarantee needy youths loans of up to $2,500 a year to finance their college education.

They would be given as long as 20 years to repay the loans, at low interest rates.

In a special message to the House and Senate outlining a Higher Education Opportunity Act, Nixon said, "No qualified student who wants to go to college should be barred by lack of money. That has long been a great American goal. I propose that we achieve it now."

Nixon's proposals included expansion and charges in federal programs for loans and grants to students concentrating on those from low income families,

Clean Air Staff's Proposals Trimmed

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO—A tough new limit on odor from industrial air pollution, proposed by the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District's staff, was relaxed by more than half yesterday by the district's technical committee after industry complained it "would be extremely difficult to meet."

The staff proposed that the ground level limit on sulfur dioxide, one of the primary odors that tend to blow into Marin from Contra Costa County's industry, be .5 parts per million for any three consecutive minutes. Dr. Milton Feldstein, director of technical services, told the committee that citizens' complaints about odor shot up whenever this limit was exceeded.

But committee member Joseph D. Coons, citing industry's objections, won a 7-2 vote on his motion to hike the three-minute limit to 1.5 parts per million.

Industry's principal spokesman, Armand L. Labbe, manager of American Smelting and Refining Co. plant near Crockett, said industry had no objection to Coons' motion.

Labbe, speaking for the Bay Area League of Industrial Associations, conceded the limit would not eliminate odor. "It's a nuisance, that's true, but in the world today there are limits on what can be done," he said.

Labbe also asked that any limit of .5 parts per million be allowed for several hours, but did not object when the committee raised to seven minutes the staff proposal of three minutes.

Union Denies Vandalism Connection

San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21 today disavowed any connection with window smashing and other acts of vandalism against Independent-Journal advertisers since the union began its strike against the I-J Jan. 7.

The disavowal was contained in the following letter received today from the San Francisco legal firm of Brundage, Neyhart, Grodin and Beeson, attorneys for the union:

"This office represents San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21 and I am writing on behalf of that organization.

"I am enclosing a xerox copy of an article which appeared on page 1 of the Independent Journal of March 10, 1970 entitled "Window Vandals Do $20,000 Harm". This article conveys the impression that San Francisco Typographical Union ordered, directed, participated in or was responsible for the acts of vandalism which are described in the article. This representation is false in its entirety and constitutes a libel against the Union.

"Demand is hereby made that the impression and/or representation that San Francisco Typographical Union No. 21 is in any way responsible for the acts of vandalism described in the article be retracted, and that said retraction be published in the Independent Journal in a comparably conspicuous place as occupied by the article of March 10, 1970.

Cambodian Assembly Gains 'Full Power'

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—The National Assembly granted what it called "full power today to Premier Lon Nol, the rightist general behind the ouster of Prince Norodom Sihanouk, and declared a national emergency.

Announcements from government outlets said articles 4, 9, 10 and 12 of the contstituion had been suspended because of the "dangerous situation", giving the government broad powers of arrest and to prohibit public assemblies.

The situation in the capital was calm, with Cambodians taking Sihanouk's ouster favorably, but troops continued their vigils around government buildings and the Phnom Penh Radio.

(In an Associated Press dispatch from Washington, was reported the State Department had reestablished communications with its U.S. embassy, reporting the situation quiet and all 11 members of the staff safe.)

Agence Khmer Presse and the government radio said the new leadership—Lon Nol is a staunch anti-Communist—would nevertheless remain neutral. Sihanouk was described as a corrupt playboy who helped the Viet Cong.

Lon Nol, who served as premier under Sihanouk, was the driving force behind recent anti-Communist demonstrations in Phnom Penh and the demand for the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong to get their estimated 40,000 troops out of the country.

Exactly what the term "full power" meant was not made clear. The parliament named Cheng Heng, the National Assembly President, as acting chief of state Wednesday.

Intelligence reports from Thai officials said the Cambodian Army was moving large units into the northeast corner of the country, where most of the guerrilla troops are bivouacked in sanctuaries from the Vietnam War.

Cheng, 50, issued a communique this morning saying Cambodia would remain neutral in the Southeast Asian cauldron of war, continuing "to practice a policy of independence, neutrality and territorial integrity."

Governments from Tokyo to Kuala Lumpur to Washington had been waiting for an indication whether the new leadership would lean toward the Allies or Communists or neither as Sihanouk had done.

Sihanouk arrived in Peking to a war official reception interpreted as a sign the Communsit Chinese were backing him. Peking Radio continued to refer to him as the head of state, as did Moscow.

An official dispatch from the new leaders in Agence Khmer Presse pulled no punches in outling the charges that led the parliment to vote Sihanouk out of office Wednesday.

U. S. Gives New Regime Full Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States recognizes the new regime in Cambodia, the State Department said today.

A spokesman said the U.S. Embassy in Phnom Penh had received formal and official notification from the foreign office that Prince Norodom Sihanouk had been deposed as chief of state and had been succeeded by Cheng Heng.

"Our position," the spokesman said, "is that the question of recognition does not arise." Under questioning he said that means that recognition continues.

He added that it does not rise "for constitutional reasons."

Press office Carl Bartch also reported that State Department communication with the embassy had been reestablished early today and the ranking U.S. diplomat Lloyd M. Rives reported the situation was calm and that the Americans in the country are safe.

There are 11 Americans in the embassy and about half a dozen U.S. permanent residents plus less than 100 tourists and a few newsmen, Bartch said.

Red Troops Roll On In Laos

Laotian military sources said the North Vietnamese pushed out from the Sam Thong base they captured Wednesday and attacked an outpost five miles north of Long Cheng.

The sources also said the North Vietnamese fired four rockets at Long Cheng, headquarters of Gen. Vang Pao and his 7,000-man guerrilla army of Meo tribesmen which the United States finances, equips and trains. The rockets burned several houses, but no casualties were reported, the informants said.

The sources said as many as 18,000 civilians and soldiers had been evacuated from the Long Cheng area because of the buildup by the North Vietnamese and their Pathet Lao allies.

At the Vientiane airport 80 miles to the south, Air America transport planes unloaded both civilians and soldiers from Long Cheng. Most of the soldiers were in uniform and carrying weapons. Some were wounded but able to walk.

Long Cheng is 10 miles southeast of Sam Thong, and Sam Thong is 15 miles southwest of the Plain of Jars, which the North Vietnamese recaptured in February.

Since the 1962 Geneva agreement that was supposed to make Laos a neutral state, Communist forces had never pushed into the Sam Thong-Long Cheng area although they held the Plain of Jars until last summer. Many observers had thought they would content themselves in the current offensive with a drive west across central Laos to the Vientiane-Luang Prabang highway, taking

General Hurt, Colonel Dead In Viet Helicopter Crash

SAIGON (AP) — A helicopter carrying the commanding general of the U.S. Army's Americal Division crashed on a jungle hillside two days ago, killing two men and injuring the general and the other five persons aboard, the U.S. Command announced today.

The command also announced that 101 U.S. troops were killed in action last week and 620 wounded. It was the second week this year that the number of American battle dead exceeded 100.

The Americal Division's commander, Maj. Gen. Lloyd B. Ramsey and other survivors of the helicopter crash were rescued Wednesday after an all-night ground and air search. Helicopters lowered medical personnel to them on slings through a 100-foot double canopy of jungle trees because the choppers could not land. Then the survivors and the two bodies were lifted out in helicopter slings.

Ramsey, 51, broke his left arm and suffered other lesser injuries, sources in his division said. He was reported in good condition. The other five injured men were reported in fair to good condition, most of them with lesser injuries than the general. But all were suffering from exposure to rain and cold after waiting all night on the mountainside.

They were hospitalized in Chu Lai, the divisions headquarters on the coast seven miles east of the crash site.

U.S. spokesmen said the cause of the crash of Ramsey's command helicopter was not known but it was not hit by enemy fire. News of the crash was withheld until the next of kin were notified.

Those killed were Lt. Col. Robert J. Thomas of Reston, Va., who had arrived in the division only three days earlier, and Spec. 4 Ray Murphy of Connersville, Ind., the helicopter crew chief.

The crash occurred at 4 p.m. Tuesday as Ramsey was returning to Chu Lai from visits to units in the field. Thomas, who was to take command of a battalion, had gone along to familiarize himself with the area.

Tate Case Young Mother May Win Freedom As State Witness

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If she agrees to tell all she knows about the bizarre murders of actress Sharon Tate and six others, a pretty young mother charged with murder-conspiracy in the case may go free.

Prosecutors declined to label as true or false reports that Linda Kasabian, 20, will turn state's witness, saying a court secrecy order forbade such statements. But they said that so far she has not been granted immunity from prosecution.

In an interview Wednesday, Deputy Dist. Atty. Aaron Stovitz, co-prosecutor in the case, said he considered the reports "premature ... like announcing she gave birth when she's just expecting."

The brunette Mrs. Kasabian gave birth in jail last week to her second child. She is scheduled to stand trial with four of five other persons charged with the crimes on March 30. However, a co-defendant, Charles M. Manson, was to appear in court today to ask for postponement and a separate trial from the others. His attorney is also asking that he have a psychiatric examination.

A report in the Herald-Examiner, which gave no source, said Mrs. Kasabian would take the stand at the joint trial to tell a story similar to that of another defendant, Susan Denise Atkins, 21, whose key grand jury testimony led to the indictments.

A week ago, Miss Atkins, considered the prosecution's star witness, hired a new attorney who said she would refuse to repeat her story at the trial. He indicated that she and several defendants—including clan leader Charles M. Manson—were banding together for a united defense.

Reports of bargaining between prosecutors and Mrs. Kasabian's attorneys said the prosecution would agree to sever her trial from that of Manson and others if she testifies. The prosecution has requested a joint trial.

Stovitz said that should Mrs. Kasabian testify for the state "her attorney probably would insist on immunity."

He said that to win immunity, a person must be deemed of no danger to society to be released. Miss Atkins, he said, was not promised immunity for her testimony, but added, "We don't have as airtight a case (against Mrs. Kasabian) as we have against Miss Atkins." He noted that in her grand jury testimony Miss Atkins did not identify Mrs. Kasabian as one of the murderers and said she remained outside of both murder houses.

Judicial Watchdogs Ease Income Reporting Rules

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The judicial Conference, rule-making body for the nation's 500 federal judges, has softened the regulations requiring judges to report money they make on off-the-bench activities

The change will mean that, for the time being anyway, judges will not have to report their income from investments. They will be required to report money received from lecturing, serving on boards, writing and other activities

The whole question of financial disclosures arose with the resignation of Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas last May

He left the bench after it was revealed he had received $20,000 a year from the family foundation of Louis Wolfson, a man later jailed on charges involving the sale of unregistered securities

The latest disclosure rules, announced Wednesday by Chief Justice Warren E Burger, are less stringent than the ones endorsed by former Chief Justice Earl Warren.

Before his retirement in June, Warren persuaded the conference to forbid acceptance of fees for any off-bench activities by judges. On Nov. 1, after Burger took over, the conference suspended that rule and required only that judges report to a committee their receipt of such payments. These reports are not made public.

Under the Warren disclosure program, judges also would have made annual reports of their income from all sources, including "investments and other assets." The character of U.S. Circuit Court Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr.'s investment portfolio was one of the factors that led to the rejection by the Senate as Fortas' successor.

But by virtue of Wednesday's conference action, a federal judge will report only income from services and gifts of more than $100 to him or his immediate family.

MAJ. GEN. WILLIAM A. KNOWLTON
No academy stranger

New West Point Chief Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has chosen a scholarly, combat-decorated general with previous West Point experience to take charge of the U.S. Military Academy in the wake of the My Lai scandal.

He is Maj. Gen. William A. Knowlton, 49, now serving in one of the Army's key jobs in the Pentagon: general staff officer to Army Secretary Stanley Resor.

Knowlton replaces Maj. Gen. Samuel Koster, who stepped down as academy superintendent after being charged with suppressing information about the alleged massacre of South Vietnamese civilians in 1968.

Associates describe Knowlton, a native of Weston, Mass., as "one of the brains of the Army" and say he is intensely interested in education.

He is no stranger to the academy, having graduated from West Point in 1943, ranking seventh in a class of more than 400. Knowlton returned in 1955 for a three-year stint to teach courses in economics and international relations.

Furthermore, Knowlton will be able to tell the 3,700 cadets at West Point what the Vietnam War is all about. He went there in August 1966 for a 17-month assignment in headquarters of the U.S. Command, working closely with the program to improve security against the Viet Cong.

The general has quite a military family, with two of his three sons in the Army.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Tuna Deadline

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Fishermen are racing a midnight Sunday deadline for unrestricted fishing of yellowfin tuna in waters off the western coasts of north and south America.

The date announced Wednesday by the Inter-American Tropical Tuna Commission is a month earlier than last year. It has fishermen of 60 big tunaboats scurrying to sail out of San Diego Harbor before the deadline.

The conservation commission allows any boat at sea before the deadline to catch yellowfin tuna without restriction. Otherwise, they cannot land more than 15 per cent yellowfin in catches the rest of the year.

Plan Collapses

CALCUTTA (AP) — Efforts to form a new government in West Bengal collapsed today and Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's central government began preparations to take over control of the strife-torn state.

Mrs. Gandhi called a special meeting of her cabinet in New Delhi tonight, and formal approval was anticipated for a takeover of the state administration.

Under the Indian Constitution, the central government can administer a state for six months and the period can be extended by parliament.

The decision to impose federal rule in West Bengal was taken after none of the political parties in the state was able to show it had the support of a majority in the state assembly.

Bible Project

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican donated $25,000 today to finance meetings between Roman Catholic and non-Catholic scriptural scholars working on an ecumenical Bible project.

It was the first time the Catholic Church had contributed money to the project, although Catholic scholars have been working with the Protestant United Bible Societies since 1966.

The Bible societies are at work on translations of the scriptures in 610 languages, not including English. Roman Catholics have joined 100 of these projects, wherever agreement has been reached locally among the churches.

Consulate Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Russia are expected to announce this spring the opening of consulates in Leningrad and San Francisco.

Officials said agreements have been worked out and all that remains is to find suitable premises for the consulates.

The United States' only consulate in the Soviet Union is attached to the embassy in Moscow.

Russia withdrew its consulates in New York and San Francisco in 1948, a move that forced the U.S. to close its consulates in Leningrad and Vladivostok.

Oil Fire Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Interior Committee is launching an investigation into the big oil fire and attendant pollution in the Gulf of Mexico off the Lousiana coast.

Committee Chairman Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., announcing the inquiry, said his group is disturbed at the apparent failure of the Chevron Oil company to comply with safety regulations.

Jackson said Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah, would confer with Interior Department officials for results of their recent on-the-spot investigations of the fire and pollution.

Advances Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has approved by voice vote a bill to ban cigarette advertising on radio and television beginning Jan. 2 and require a stronger health warning on cigarette packages.

In taking the action Wednesday, the House decided to give manufacturers a seven-month grace period before they would have to print new labels reading: "Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous To Your Health."

The Senate must approve the seven-month grace period before the bill is sent to President Nixon.

Israeli Action

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli troops crossed the Lebanese border early today and blew up two isolated houses in the village of Blida, a Lebanese military spokesman said.

Shortly after, Israeli troops mortared the outskirts of another border village, Nakoura, and did slight damage, the spokesman said.

Abortion Vote

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—The state Senate, on a 31-26 vote, passed a bill Wednesday to give New York the most liberal abortion law in the nation.

The measure, passed after five hours of sometimes emotional debate, would allow a woman and her doctor to decide the question of abortion without restricions. The present law, 87 years old, permits abortions only when the mother's life is endangered.

The proposed new law is expected to be debated in the Assembly next week.

25,000 Watch Swallows Return

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif. (UPI)—Bells pealed this morning as some 2,000 white swallows swooped down on this historic mission, on the 193rd anniversary of the day a Franciscan padre gave them a home.

Legend has it the birds were chased away by an innkeeper and were welcomed at the mission, in whose eaves they have made their home ever since, returning on the same day each spring.

The padres said some 25,000 persons were crowded into the little Spanish town to watch the annual phenomenon.

Investor Protection Legislation Proposed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Investors in thrift and loan companies need better protection, says Sen. Lewis F. Sherman, R-Berkeley, who proposes having the state insure investor deposits.

Sherman said Wednesday he is drafting legislation to set up a state fund similar to federal bank insurance, an idea suggested by Corporations Commissioner Anthony R. Pierno. The fund would be paid for by thrift and loan companies themselves.

Californians now have $217 million on deposit in "thrift passbook accounts" with 22 California thrift and loan companies, Pierno said, and it's all uninsured.

The problem, Sherman and Pierno said, is that most small savers are not aware of the difference between these "thrift passbook accounts" and passbook savings accounts of banks and savings and loan companies.

Bank and savings and loan accounts are insured by federal government trust funds for up to $15,000 per account, they said, while thrift and loan passbook accounts are really only investment certificates in what are sometimes highly speculative businesses.

The thrift and loan industry gained wide public attention a month ago when it was revealed that the California Association of thrift and Loan Companies gave Sen. Jack Schrade a $5,000 campaign contribution last June a month before Schrade voted in committee for a bill giving thrift and loan companies more lending authority.

A Sacramento County grand jury investigating the legality of the payment to the San Diego Republican has scheduled its fourth closed-door session on the matter tonight.

Pierno announced last week that he was dissolving one of the smaller companies, Hamilton Thrift and Loan Co. of Huntington Park, to pay off creditors.

He said $4 million in deposits of about 2,000 Hamilton savers have been frozen since last Dec. 8. He said those depositors would undoubtedly suffer some loss but he wouldn't estimate how much until loan contracts of the company are finally sold.

In addition to taking a loss, the depositors will have to wait at least nine months before receiving even partial payment, Pierno said.

He said Hamilton was the second thrift and loan company to fold during the past 10 years in California. Hamilton's trouble, he said, stemmed in part from financing equipment for small beer bars and topless clubs.

Pierno said he is recommending assessing the thrift and loan companies a percentage of deposits until the fund reaches $1 million. If claims against an insolvent company exceeded $1 million, Pierno said, the fund would be divided proportionately among investors and then assessments would be resumed to eventually pay them in full.

"One million may sound low, but the existence of a fund will allow early takeover of a company which is obviously in trouble," Pierno said.

"Our problem now is that we are afraid to move too quickly when a company is in trouble because the takeover may hurt investors. Therefore we are inclined to take a chance and hope a company gets over its troubles. If things get worse instead, then investors are hurt even more."

Pierno said the guarantee fund he is recommending would cost thrift and loan companies more than Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation coverage costs banks and savings and loans even though the proposed state guarantee is only $10,000 per account.

New Loyalty Oath Pitch Killed By Assembly Panel

SACRAMENTO (UPI)— Legislation providing a new loyalty oath for state employees and officers designed to comply with a 1967 state Supreme Court ruling is dead for the current legislative session.

The bill and proposed constitutional amendment by Assemblyman Robert Burke, R-Huntington Beach, was killed Wednesday by the Assembly Criminal Procedure Committee on a split voice vote.

The stricken oath required a state worker to swear he was not a member of an organization which advocated the overthrow of government by force, violence or other unlawful means.

Burke said his version would be constitutional because the employee had to swear he does not "knowingly belong" to such an organization and does not have the "intent" to further its aims.

Burke conceded "this is a watered-down loyalty oath" but added if a subversive lied while taking the oath, it would be grounds for dismissal.

"I think if you understand the minds of people who really want to overthrow the government, they would be the first to take this oath," Miller said.

The California Highway Patrol said George J. Gotelli of 148 Alta Drive suffered a scraped head and hand in the 3 a.m. mishap and declined hospital treatment.

Gotelli, according to officers, said he fell asleep at the wheel.

The existing limit is .5 for five and a half hours, a limit designed to prevent plant damage. The staff proposals were triggered by the state Air Resources Board's decision last fall to set odor limits for the first time. The state board set its limit at .5 for one hour, or .04 average for 24 hours.

The limits voted by the committee still would meet the state limits, Feldstein said.

Coons, a resident of San Rafael and a consulting engineer who has represented the Bay Area League of Industrial Associations, said the district did not have to meet the state standards. "All we're obligated to do is to have a reasonable justification to the Air Resources Board why we haven't met a standard," he said.

Differing with Coons was the district's counsel, Matthew S. Walker. "Our obligation is to attempt to meet the standards," Walker said. He noted that the ARB, if it found the district had failed to follow the state standards, could step in and enforce them itself.

Labbe's argument against the staff's proposed limit was that it was impractical to expect to correct an excessive condition in three minutes.

But Walker warned that "people smell this stuff, and it stinks, and if they smell it five minutes, they are mad all day."

The district's supervising engineer, Warren Crouse, argued that industry had said nothing about running plants more efficiently or using higher grade fuel.

The reason industry had been silent on these points, he suggested, was that such steps cost money. But the district's board of directors had instructed the staff not to be concerned with economics, but rather with whether the technology was available to meet the new limits, Crouse said.

Lawrence Coleman, a specialist on air and water pollution for Standard Oil of California, argued there was no point in passing regulations "that can't be met. This must be considered by the committee, since it apparently hasn't been by the staff," he said.

Labbe also objected to the staff proposal to cut the "primary limit" on sulfur dioxide emissions, as measured at the smokestack, from 2,000 to 100 parts per million. Industries emitting more than the "primary limit" must install ground level monitors, and Labbe said the lower limit would mean "you'll have everyone in the Bay Area monitoring."

Coons commented that the existing limit still was "very workable."

Labbe also asked that the ground level limits apply only outside the property of an industry, and that the minimum number of ground level monitors be cut from three to two.

The committee made no decision on Labbe's three proposals, agreeing that a further meeting will have to be set to discuss them.

Feldstein said that only two monitors at a plant would be inadequate, but Coons noted that the regulation provided that "at least" two be provided by an industry required to monitor, thus the district still could require three.

The committee's recommendation on ground level limits will go to the district's advisory council for its ratification at 1:30 p.m. on Wednesday in district offices at 939 Ellis Street.

Also left unresolved was a proposal to impose tougher pollution limits on any new or expanded industry, limits that eventually are to be imposed on all industries.

The technical committee's chairman, Dr. Theodore K. Cleveland, did not indicate when another meeting will be held.

STRIKE

up until their pay demands are met.

"If we don't get what we want, there's no sense in going to work ever," said one, "because we're being paid coolie wages."

Many interviewed outside nearly empty post office buildings were most bitter at Congress.

"Nothing will make Congress act," said one. "They have their money and their free trips and don't give a damn about anybody. If people don't get their mail, watch how fast these lazy old men will listen to us."

And a mailman's wife, who said her husband takes home $102 a week after seven years in the service, said angrily:

MAIL PILES UP

Meanwhile, a New York City postal official said the situation had "worsened," with mail accumulating at the rate of 15 million pieces daily and 90 per cent of postal employees in the metropolitan area away from their jobs, as compared with 85 per cent Wednesday.

Gus Johnson, head of the striking Manhattan-Bronx local of the AFL-CIO National Association of Letter Cariers, publicly appealed to his men to return to work. The union attorney conceded in court that "the strike is illegal."

But Jack Leventhal, president of the striking Brooklyn local, said the union's constitution required three days notice before a membership meeting to vote on whether to obey the injunction.

SATURDAY VOTE

That meant the earliest such a vote could be held was Saturday and the decision meanwhile on whether to return was left to the individual workers.

At the heart of the dispute is congressional inaction over long-sought pay increases. The mailmen had demanded an annual wage scale of $8,500 to $11,700 to replace the present $6,100 to $8,442.

In Washington, Postmaster General Winton M. Blount said the question of pay increases for postal workers was the responsibility of Congress and there was little his department could do about it.

In his budget, President Nixon provided $175 million for postal raises retroactive to last January. But he noted that a 5.4 per cent postal pay raise that was to have taken effect last October still was bottled up in Congress.

Accident Held A Misdemeanor

Only a misdemeanor charge of drunken driving was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against Larry Dean Hatfield, 28, of San Rafael, who had been booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of felony drunken driving after an accident Tuesday night.

Hatfield is accused of being the driver of a car which collided with one driven by Antonio Anici, 49, of Novato, after Hatfield, heading the wrong way on Third Street ran a red light. Anici and a passenger, James Karkazis, 33, of San Rafael, were treated for injuries, as was Hatfield.

Rogers To Visit Madrid In May

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers will visit Madrid late in May, the State Department said today.

The announcement also said Spanish Foreign Minister Gregorio Lopez Bravo will return to Washington in miid-April for another round of conferences on the future of U.S. air and navel bases in Spain.

Lopez Bravo was here this week for a two-day conference on a 15-year-old defense agreement which expires Sept. 26.

Buskirk-Noble Plan Approved For Tiburon

With a literal sigh of relief, the Tiburon Planning Commission last night unanimously approved the Buskirk-Noble plan for downtown development and sent the oft-discussed plan to the city council for consideration and, hopefully, approval.

Commission approval came at the end of last night's public hearing on the plan, the fifth such hearing.

Wayne E. Moody, the city planning director, called the commission's action "a milestone" and said he felt the plan would now be adopted by the city council.

Next Monday night the city council will set the dates for further public hearings on the matter.

FOURTH PLAN

The Buskirk-Noble plan is the fourth to be considered by the planners and city council since 1965.

Last night's hearing took about three hours but saw little participation by the 15 persons who attended. Most of the time was taken up by Philip K. Buskirk who went through the plan in detail.

The plan includes harbor development, a system of pedestrian and bicycle paths and a professional office complex and conference center, and covers 51 acres, including 6.25 acres as a harbor, 9.15 acres in city parks and 9.76 in city streets.

Other acreage allotted under the plan was: conference center, 2.8; parking, 3.45; executive office park 2.34; retail and professional office space, 5.47; Hillside housing, 3.5; lagoon housing, 2.76; fire house .5 and Tiburon Peninsula Club recreation, 5.2.

Of the 9.15 acres allotted to open space, 5.74 is set up for the Linear Mar West Park, .81 is set aside for the Town Square and Waterfront Promenade and 2.6 for the parkway and sidewalk mini-parks.

The commission made no recommendations for changes to the plan but Commission Albert H. Sennett said he felt there should be some sort of financial feasibility statement attached to the plan's policy statement.

"What happens if a developer comes in a few years from now and says he can't follow our plan because he can't make any money on his investment," Sennett said. "How will the council be able to justify the plan or defend it financially?"

SOME DISAGREE

The other members, however, disagreed, saying that it would be impossible to make any sort of feasibility study now since land costs are changing frequently and nobody was sure just exactly what types of businesses would be attracted to the downtown area.

Buskirk told the council that the development of his plan "would be expensive" but said it was designed in such a way as to attract high rent clients.

He said it would be up to the city to attract people willing to make a substantial investment.

Several commissioners also raised questions concerning parking for customers of the ferries, but chairman Allan Littman cut off discussion saying that a special committee was studying this problem and said he didn't feel a discussion was appropriate at last night's meeting.

Merchants Offer To Fund Policing

Members of the Sausalito Chamber of Commerce indicated yesterday they would be willing to pay double their current business license taxes to provide the city with money to hire additional policemen for a daily foot patrol for the downtown area, according to Sandra Healey, chamber secretary.

Mrs. Healey said the group will begin circulating petitions to obtain the signatures of merchants who will agree to the increased tax. The petitions will be presented to the city council, she said.

Sausalito Police Chief James Wright has said three additional policemen, at a cost of between $10,000 and $12,000 a year per man, will be needed for a daily foot patrol. City Man. George M. Patterson told chamber officials he will prepare estimates of how much of an increase in the license tax will be needed to provide the necessary money.

Landscaping Plan Rejected

Landscaping plans for the pedestrian mall at the Ross Department Store in the downtown shopping center were rejected last night by the plan review committee, according to Gary Holloway, senior planner. Hoytt Development Co. had submitted plans for the walkway between the new department store building and the T. G. and Y. store at Seventh Street and Grant Avenue.

The committee did not like the total screening of the parking area, the planting at the south end was too small as was the one between the two buildings. It asked for another set of revised plans.

Reds Claim U.S. Spreads Asia Strife

PARIS (UPI)—The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong negotiators accused the United States today of trying to save itself from defeat in Vietnam by attempting to expand the war to all of Indochina.

U.S. Ambassador Philip C. Habib said in advance he would not reply to the expected charges but the South Vietnamese envoy said it was North Vietnam's invasion of Laos and Cambodia that brought the current crisis.

In blunt statements at today's 59th session of the Vietnam peace talks the two Communist delegations reacted angrily to Wednesday's ousting of Prince Norodom Sihanouk, Cambodia's neutralist chief of state,

North Vietnamese delegate Nguyen Minh Vy said Washington wanted to turn Cambodia into another Laos or South Vietnam and added:

"It is perfectly clear that the Nixon administration, in order to save itself from defeat in Vietnam, is not only stepping up the war in Laos, but seeks to broaden the war onto all of the Indochina Peninsula, thus raising a grave threat to peace in Southeast Asia."

The Hanoi delegate's accusations were echoed by the Viet Cong's delegate, Nguyen Van Tien, who charged "the Nixon administration is creating an extremely tense situation in Indochina."

only what they lost last summer when Van Pao's army drove across the Plain of Jars.

Britain today called on 10 nations which signed the 1962 agreement on neutrality of Laos to help restore peace in that country.

The British move followed an appeal for international consultations made by Prince Souvanna Phouma on Feb. 28.

Souvanna's appeal was addressed to Britain and the Soviet Union as cochairmen of the 1962 Geneva Conference.

The Soviet Union three days ago rejected a British suggestion to join together in commending Souvanna's appeal to the signatory countries.

Wounded Youth's Case Referred

The case of Philip David Harrison, 19, of Sleepy Hollow was referred yesterday to probation officers for a report as to whether he is acceptable to Marin Juvenile Court.

The youth, who was shot by a police officer early yesterday, is accused of burglarizing Shakey's Pizza Parlor in San Rafael and of resisting arrest. Police said that he and a 17-year-old companion fled after officers found them inside the closed pizza parlor. Harrison suffered a minor wound in the shoulder when shot by the officer.

His case was continued to next Wednesday for a report in municipal court.

The other youth, Fredrick Blanchard Harrington III, of San Rafael, was turned over to juvenile authorities.

entering an accredited college would be eligible for a combination of federal grants and subsidized loans sufficient to give him the same ability to pay as a student from a family earning $10,000," Nixon said.

He said the new student financial aid would come through changes in four major existing student aid programs now administered by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare — quaranteed student loans, national defense student loans, educational opportunity grants and college work study grants.

As part of the plan, Nixon asked for establishment of a National Student Loan Association which would play substantially the same role in student loans that the Federal National Mortgage Association plays in home loans,

The association would raise initial capital through sale of stock and make low interest loans to students.

A guarantee of the loans by the federal government would assure that the interest rate would be 1 or 2 per cent less than the normal market rate, Nixon said, and payment could be made over periods of up to 20 years.

Nixon estimated the association would be able to furnish up to $2 billion in student loans by the 1971-72 school year if the plan is adopted.

The maximum annual student loan is now $1,500. It would be increased by $1,000.

In addition, the President proposed creation of a new program for career education in HEW under which $100 million would be available for helping states begin community and junior college development.

The grants would be made under a special formula developed by HEW.

The President's program also called for establishment of a National Foundation for Higher Education. It would be funded at $200 million in fiscal 1972, to provide funds for supporting innovation and experimentation in colleges and universities.

The foundation would be primarily a granting agency — similar to the National Science Foundation —to make funds available to individual institutions, communities and states for innovative programs limited to five years each.

MILL VALLEY ISSUES

Hopefuls Differ On Voting Age

By DAVID DIETZ

In a discussion that ranged from downtown development to hippies, three candidates for the Mill Valley City Council found little ground for disagreement today.

The contestants—incumbent Edward J. Boessenecker, an attorney; conservationist Jean Barnard and real estate salesman Dolph F. Jaeger—appeared on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board." In addition to Boessenecker's, the seat of Mayor Dean N. Meyer, who chose not to run again, is up at the April 14 election.

In one area which met with disagreement among the candidates, Boessenecker and Mrs. Barnard offered reasons against lowering the voting age to 18—subject of a proposition on the April 14 ballot—and Jaeger said flatly he was against such a reduction, adding he would favor a voting age of 20.

But he added, "I think any person in the armed forces should automatically get the right to vote."

Boessenecker said he wuld prefer a reduction to 19 and Mrs. Barnard, while saying she would vote in favor of the non-binding proposal, expressed regret that members of the city's youth commission who offered the ballot question to the city council had not offered that alternative.

The possibility of North Ridge development and accompanying new access to Corte Madera also was the source of mild controvery among the candidates.

Mrs. Barnard argued against continued consideration of a street plan for the area, saying she felt it was helping to promote development, but Jaeger felt such a move would leave the city unprepared in the event of development.

Boessenecker, saying he did not "look forward" to North Ridge development, hoped "some philanthropic citizen will buy the land and give it to the city." He cautioned against multiple development on the city's highlands, citing Mill Valley's experience this past winter with drainage problems.

Of North Ridge, he said, "The city is not promoting development. The question is, 'Who says where the streets will go? I say the city has to say where the streets go."

On other topics, the candidates generally favored more study of placing a mall at Lytton Square—a proposal raised in the city's 701 plan and which has come under attack by merchants—and agreed that no new ordinance was needed to deal with the so-called "hippie problem."

Mrs. Barnard noted the city had recently enacted ordinances to control camping, stray dogs, rubbish and parking and that their enforcement was sufficient.

Jaeger agreed, but felt adding more policemen was essential. He said residents have a right to protection from "outsiders" who may disrupt community life.

Boessenecker advised prompt complaints of ordinance violations to the police. "There's nothing you can do if you don't like to look at 'hippies,' " he said. "The city cannot legislate them out of existence."

All the candidates, in discussion of new development of the city, placed repeated stress on the need for protection of environmental characteristics as the first consideration.

Boessenecker opposed a plan by the Marin Municipal Water District to absorb the operations of three neighboring sanitary districts whose effluent is treated at Mill Valley's plant.

Mrs. Barnard, dealing with a proposal contained in the 1967 Brown and Caldwell report that area sanitary districts construct an outfall line to the Pacific Ocean instead of discharging into Richardson Bay, said there was now concern over pollution of the ocean itself and advised investigation of tertiary treatment that would result in drinking-quality water for discharge into Richardson Bay.

Egg Hunts Set In South Marin

Recreation officials and firemen in Southern Marin are planning Easter egg hunts and parties for children.

In Mill Valley, John Garber, city park and recreation director, said a hunt is planned for 1 p.m. Sunday on the Little League diamonds at Boyle Park. A pancake breakfast, sponsored by the Boy Scouts and Lions club, will be held at 8 a.m.

The Tiburon Fire Department has scheduled a party for children under 10 at 10 a.m. March 28 at Fire Station No. 1.

In Tamalpais Valley, parks and recreation officials have scheduled their annual hunt for 1 p.m. Wednesday at Tam Valley School.

Stereo is Taken

A stereo phonograph worth $140 was stolen between 4 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. Saturday from the office of Dr. Don M. Griffith at 711 D Street, San Rafael, by a thief who dropped into the room through a skylight, police have reported.

Marinites Ask End To Unification Vote Rule

A resolution urging elimination of the state requirement for school unification elections every four years was passed last night by the Marin County Committee on School District Organization.

The committee also agreed to ask other organization committees throughout the state to pass similar resolutions, reported assistant secretary Robert E. Spain. The law now requires districts to hold unifications no later than every presidential primary election, until unification passes.

The resolution backs Assembly Bill 597, written by Robert H. Burke, R-Huntington Beach, which would end the requirement.

The committee took no action on two other Burke Bills, AB 596, which would reduce the areawide tax to 60 cents instead of $1 per $100 assessed valuation, and AB 598, which would provide a $20 per student bonus in all districts which have held unification elections.

The committe named a results of the pending tax changes proposed by the governor before taking action on the other two bills, Spain said.

The committe enamed a three-member subcommittee to work with Chairman Rachel P. Conner to study the feasibility of surveying all California school districts on the pros and cons of unification. Members are Dr. George C. Stone, Alyce Farkas, and Joyce Ladar.

Law Student Seeks Equalization Post

SACRAMENTO (UPI) - Lowell S. Mengel II, a 26-year-old law student from Eureka, has declared his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the 3rd District seat on the State Board of Equalization.

Mengel made his announcement Wednesday. Paul Leake, the Democratic incumbent from Woodland, said Tuesday he would not seek reelection.

Richardson Bay Span Job Funds Thaw

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO—Widening of Richardson Bay Bridge should begin sometime in December according to the state Highway Commission, which yesterday announced 33 projects worth $32.2 million have been restored to the highway budget.

The projects, including the $3.1 million Richardson Bay Bridge improvement, were delayed last fall to help curb inflation. The commission unfroze $1.6 million allocated for this year.

The funds were part of $126 million in state highway projects frozen by Gov. Ronald Reagan at the request of President Richard M. Nixon.

Reagan ordered construction of the delayed highway projects to proceed after Nixon lifted the anti-inflation freeze Tuesday on federally assisted state and local construction projects.

A district spokesman for the Division of Highways in San Francisco said today, the Richardson Bay Bridge project had not been delayed by the freeze, because the division had continued design studies during the interim. He said the $3.1 million project would take about 18 months to complete.

It will involve installation of 84 concrete piles to widen the bridge to eight lanes, an addition of one each way.

Union Wooed To Attend Rail Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Assistant Labor Secretary William J. Usery said today he will continue efforts to convince the Sheet Metal Workers Union to end its boycott of deadlocked contract talks between shopcraft unions and the nation's railroads.

He said that without their cooperation, it will be "hopeless" to reach a settlement before the April 11 strike deadline.

Officials of the Sheet Metal Workers refused Wednesday for the second time to attend a meeting called by Usery of negotiators for both sides.

The other three unions have ratified contract terms negotiated in December, but the rank and file of the Sheet Metal Workers voted down the proposed contract because of a controversial work rule that would allow members of each craft to do incidental work in other crafts.

Congress has ordered a no-strike period which expires April 11, to allow lawmakers more time to consider a proposal by President Nixon to impose the December contract terms on the four unions, and in hopes the two sides would reach a voluntarily settlement. A House Committee opens hearings Monday on the President's proposal.

Recreation Fund Question Still Remains Unanswered

The San Rafael Board of Education's committee on physical education and recreation failed this week but will try again April 6 to draft a recommendation for the board on disposition of $25,000 of community service tax revenues earmarked for recreation.

The high school district collects nine-tenths of a cent per $100 assessed valuation and the elementary district 1.2 cents per $100, according to Supt. John F. Plank, who said revenue totals $161,000.

Board members formed the committee to determine if the district should continue supporting recreation with the funds.

For the past five years, the entire amount budgeted for recreation has been allocated to the San Rafael Parks and Recreation District which in turn provides recreational programs for district students.

Meeting Tuesday night in the San Rafael High School cafeteria, the committee was requested by representatives from three outlying areas within the high school district to recommend the funds be distributed to recreation districts whose residents pay the taxes.

John A. Colistra, a member of the Terra Linda Recreation and Park District board, asked that the money be proportionately divided among the recreation districts based on the assessed valuation of each.

Andrew F. Snyder, director of the San Rafael Parks and Recreation District, said the amount of money from which other districts could draw was only $12,700. About half of the total comes from the elementary school district rate, which the other recreation districts were not a part of, he said.

Thus, said Snyder, Terra Linda, Lucas Valley, and Marinwood have a total of $1,200 to split if their recommendation was accepted.

Claiming they could only provide duplicate programs to those he offered, he suggested that the policy of the school board remain the same with the San Rafael Recreation District getting the whole package.

After about four hours of discussion, William Monti, a physical education instructor at San Rafael High School and chairman of the committee, introduced another proposal to keep the recreation funds within the school district. The district could then establish its own program, he added. The committee, however, tabled the matter until its next meeting April 6.

Four Hurt In Two-Car Crash

Four persons were hurt yesterday, none seriously, in a two-car crash at Lucky Drive and Fifer Avenue outside Corte Madera.

The California Highway Patrol said the accident happened at 7:50 a.m. when a car driven by Mary P. Gerstner, 45, of 163 Via La Cumbre, Greenbrae, pulled into the path of one operated by Deborah Fulton, 16, of 101 Wolfe Grade, Kentfield.

The drivers and two of Miss Fulton's passengers, Peggy Cooney, 16 of 9 Kentdale Lane, Kentfield, and an unidentified 16-year-old youth, declined hospital treatment for bumps, scrapes and various pains.

Roth Refuses To Cut Bail On Dynamite

Judge Hadden W. Roth of Marin Municipal Court refused yesterday to reduce bail for an 18-year-old Larkspur youth who is charged with having a cache of stolen dynamite, blasting caps and a blasting plunger.

Gerald Clair Crane remained in jail in lieu of $10,000 bail and a probation officer suggested that the court appoint a psychiatrist to examine the youth.

Crane, son of the former wife of television personality Les Crane, was arrested Sunday and is accused of two counts of burglarizing the Hutchinson Co. rock quarry as well as possessing 100 pounds of dynamite. Police said he led them to hidden explosives after he was arrested outside the quarry.

Deputy Probation Officer Stephen Fitzpatrick said yesterday that he thought the youth was having "fantasies about events in the past" and also did not realize the seriousness of the charges against him.

The youth's attorney, Terence Hallinan, said that the case "had been blown all out of proportion" and had no connection with recent bombings. He described it as a "juvenile delinquent problem," and said that Deputy Dist. Atty. Gary Ragghianti asked the high bail because three members of the press were present.

Judge Roth agreed to reconsider the bail question on Friday after hearing the psychiatrist's report.

Reagan's First Tour A Security Nightmare

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's first statewide campaign tour was a huge financial and political success but a security nightmare, aides agreed today.

It was by far the most riotous political trip in recent state history—marred by bomb scares, arrests, rock throwing, destruction, minor injuries, constant heckling and obscenities.

Reagan said it would "be naive" not to expect additional violence during the gubernatorial campaign because "the revolutionaries have made it very clear their goal is to disrupt the 1970 elections."

The 59-year-old governor's initial vote-stumping effort ended Wednesday on the streets of Santa Barbara where he faced his eighth demonstration in a week.

Reagan, accompanied by his wife, Nancy, was jeered and cursed by young militants, many of them believed to be University of California students.

Mrs. Reagan, a petite former actress, was asked how she felt about the violence.

"Kind of with mixed emotions," she replied slowly. "Yes, it is frustrating. Yes, you get angry. It's not pleasant to hear those things yelled. At the same time you feel kind of sorry the youths are so hate-filled . Someday you have a feeling they're going to be awfully embarrassed."

After the closely guarded governor and his wife departed hand-in-hand from a mid-town fundraising function, the demonstrators spilled over onto State Street, Santa Barbara's main thoroughfare.

Traffic was blocked and rocks, sprinkler heads and eggs thrown before law enforcement officers with clubs could sweep the streets and bring the rebels under control. Several arrests were made.

Reagan strategists agreed the Republican governor picks up votes every time he faces such a mob. But they said they still don't like it.

"I can figure an easier way to get votes," Reagan told newsmen Wednesday. Campaign co-chairman Tom Reed put it this way in an interview: "If I were a real hack I'd go out and goad these guys. We'd send the governor to a campus every day because you can just hear the votes rolling in. It's offensive to the voters. But from an operational sense, it's a nuisance. And it's bad for the state."

After being heckled and booed while attempting to "communicate" with College of Redwoods students near Eureka Tuesday, Reagan announced he will not again go on a campus to address a large crowd.

Northern California Chairman Paul Haerle said he originally thought it would be "a good idea" for the governor to try to establish a "dialogue" with large college groups.

"But now," he said, "I'm inclined to think it has turned out to be kind of demeaning to the office of governor."

Reed said the $2 million will finance the "central overhead part of the campaign" — the salaries, office space, poll taking and communications systems. Funds for advertising and additional tours will be raised later.

School Staffers May Ask Raise

The San Anselmo School Employees Association will consider requesting a 6.7 per cent cost-of-living increase when it meets tonight, according to Rosemary Gicker, association president.

The increase was discussed by representatives of the association when they met with two trustees of the San Anselmo School District board Monday night.

Trustees Franklin C. Latcham and Basil H. Scalabrini, the board's negotiating committee, reviewed other subjects with the nonteaching employees, including the establishment of an employer-employee relations committee and the setting aside of a percentage of the budget for salaries of classified employees.

GI Benefit Hike Goes To Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill boosting GI education benefits by 35 per cent is expected to go to President Nixon next week after winning quick House approval.

The Senate is expected to act Monday on the bill that raises monthly payments for unmarried veterans from $130 to $175 monthly.

The action Wednesday in the House came one day after Senate-House conferees agreed on the $45 monthly increase in education benefits.

An estimated 1.4 million veterans would benefit from the increases.

The bill also boosts allowances for vocational rehabilitation, farm cooperative educational assistance and apprenticeship programs.

John Harold Von Feldt, 35, of the Bermuda Palms motel, San Rafael, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a felony charge of assaulting a San Rafael police officer Tuesday.

His case was continued today for entry of plea.

Von Feldt was first arrested on suspicion of disturbing the peace after he allegedly pushed his car into another man's vehicle in the Safeway Store parking lot at B and First streets. Police said that when the man, Mike Naumcheff, of Petaluma, came out to get Von Feldt's license number, Von Feldt let the air out of the other man's tires.

On the way to jail Von Feldt began banging his head on the side of the patrol car and climbed over the seat, landing in the lap of Patrolman Scott Nelson, who was driving, police said.

Nelson lost control of the car and it skidded across two lanes of traffic on Highway 101 spinning to a stop on a shoulder of the road.

Petalumans Urge Speed On Overpass

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The State Highway Commission told Petaluma representatves yesterday that a new overcrossing of Highway 101 at Caulfield Lane could be completed by the summer of 1972.

Mayor Helen Putnam and City Engineer David A. Young told the commission that voters had approved $800,000 in bonds to build connecting streets to the overcrossing and urged that construction begin as soon as possible.

Commission engineers said that work had been scheduled for the 1972-73 fiscal year, but expected that the date could be moved up if money is made available in January of 1972.

Young said he would discuss with the engineers the possibility that the city contract excavation work on the approaches to save time since the ground must settle for six months before construction. He said an agreement could be reached to have the state reimburse the city when the project is completed.

Youth Arrested In Cycle Case

Greg James Hendrix, 15, of no known address was booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall Tuesday and Sausalito police are seeking another youth after Frederick A. Alban, 258 Glen Drive, Sausalito, saw the two youths riding a motorcycle he had reported stolen on Sunday.

Police said Alban told them he questioned the pair and the motorcycle's driver, who identified himself as John Forsythe, ran off. Alban brought Hendrix to the police station and officers said the boy told them he had been picked up by Forsythe while hitchhiking in San Francisco.

The missing youth is between 16 and 19 years of age, five feet, nine inches tall, 150 pounds, police said.

Coastal Communities Order Sewage Plans

A joint sewer system for Bolinas and Stinson Beach has come a step closer to reality with boards from both communities voting to ask a San Francisco engineering firm to prepare preliminary plans for the system.

According to Jane Phillips, secretary of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District, the district board and the Stinson Beach County Water District board voted Tuesday night to retain the firm of Kennedy Engineers for the project.

A 30-year-old San Rafael man was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of forgery and possessing a check with intent to defraud, San Rafael police reported.

Donald Richard Storkan of 830 B Street was in lieu of $500 bail and was to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

A cashier at the Safeway Store on B Street refused to cash a $77.43 check for Storken made out to Fred K. Hasfield of 1893 Lincoln Avenue, according to police. Storken told the cashier he would get a driver's license for identification, according to police, but failed to return to the store.

Storken was later arrested at his home, police said.

Rights Panel To Eye Rental Issue

The difficulty families with children have finding rental housing in Marin will be discussed tonight by the Marin County Human Rights Commission at 8 p.m. in the planning commission chambers at the Civic Center.

Persons have been complaining that rents are raised for families with children, executive director Austin J. Thompson said yesterday. The issue will be discussed from the floor, he added.

The commission will also discuss residence requirements of the Lease Housing Program established by city and county governments for the federal government's partial payment of rent.

Riles Backs Accountability, Claims Rafferty Ineffective

A California education system based on the principle of accountability was proposed by Wilson C. Riles as he opened his Marin campaign for the state superintendency with a press conference yesterday afternoon.

Riles, deputy state superintendent of public instruction for program and legislation, seeks to wrest the top job from his boss, Max Rafferty, whom he charged with "a dearth of leadership for the last eight years."

"I'm really hard pressed to think of a single program that was initiated by Max Rafferty and carried through," said Riles at the press conference at San Rafael's Holiday Inn. "Most of the innovations have come either from the state board or the Legislature."

He called it significant that Gov. Ronald Reagan "had to set up a commission on educational reform" and did not invite Rafferty to serve on it.

Accountability, he said, must include both teachers and students. It should begin with teacher training, he declared, advocating an internship program while the prospective teacher is attending college, to eliminate those who find that teaching does not suit them or they do not suit teaching.

WILSON C. RILES
Seeks accountability

It should be applied to the students by setting realistic goals for accomplishment each year, said the candidate. Teachers should then be rated on how well their classes succeed in achieving the goals.

Such a performance rating, he suggested, should be reflected in teachers' salaries. "If I'm elected, I will do something about salary schedules based solely on units of college credit," he declared. "I don't feel this is helping the person to help the child."

Asked his feelings regarding teacher tenure, Riles responded:

"I'm for modifying any method that would support incompetent people." Although Rafferty has called tenure "the protector of the poor," Riles said "he has done nothing about it."

The candidate, first man of African descent to seek the California state superintendency, said he expects support from members and leaders of both California Teachers Association and California Federation of Teachers, although "I don't always agree with them."

He will "not be anybody's captive candidate," he declared.

Riles said school financing is the No. 1 problem, and more of the load must be taken off the local real estate tax. He said he endorses the principle of the CTA's tax initiative on the June ballot but opposes the idea of fixing state support at 50 per cent of education costs.

"An inflexible formula is wrong," he declared. "I would support the CTA plan only if there were no alternative."

He said he has not yet familiarized himself with Governor Reagan's school support plan.

The Louisiana-born Riles, who is just back from the Anglo-American Conference on Education for the Less Privileged in London, participated in a panel discussion of new educational approaches last night at College of Marin. He plans to visit Marin again April 9 and 14.

Expo '70 Attendance Passes Million Mark

OSAKA, Japan (AP) -The attendance at Expo '70 passed the million mark at 5 p.m. today, Expo officials announced.

Expo opened Sunday in the Senri Hills, about 10 miles northeast of this west Japan city. Expo officials earlier predicted attendance would pass the million mark Tuesday and blamed bad - unseasonably low temperatures accompanied by light drizzle - for the poor turnout.

Speeding Check Leads To Jail

A 22-year-old San Anselmo man, stopped for speeding early today in San Rafael, was booked into Marin County Jail after a routine check disclosed a warrant had been issued for his arrest.

Alan Steven Glogovsky of 25 Oak Knoll Road is being held in lieu of $3,120 bail and will appear in Marin Municipal Court today on charges of possessing stolen property and transporting it cross state lines, police said.

Glogovsky was speeding at 2:30 a.m. at Fourth and Second streets, police said.

Rohnert Park Mayor Hits Site Refusal

The federal General Services Administration has turned down the offer by the Rohnert Park City Council to donate a site for a federal office building.

Mayor James W. Rogers said the letter to him indicated that Santa Rosa would be a more desirable location because it is the county center for business and finance as well as the seat of county government.

Although disappointed, Rogers said he would pursue the matter. The council had offered the government 10 acres on the Rohnert Park Expressway originally set aside for future civic center.

"Although the reply received is a typical fast brush-off by federal authorities whenever a program is presented that might save the federal government a substantial amount of money, we intend to continue and try to convince the General Services Administration of the wisdom of locating in such an area as Rohnert Park where accessibility by those using the offices of a federal building will be much greater than in downtown Santa Rosa," Rogers said.

"It is discouraging that individuals back on the East Coast and in Washington, D.C., can make snap judgements about legitimate offers from communities such as Rohnert Park," he said.

Shoulder Injured In 101 Accident

Joseph B. Knighten, 27, of 716 Drake Avenue, Marin City, suffered a shoulder injury today when his car left northbound Highway 101 north of the Corte Madera exit and smashed a fence on the shoulder of the freeway.

The California Highway Patrol said Knighten, who fell asleep at the wheel, declined hospital treatment after the 1:45 a.m. mishap.

Mental Health Budget Drafted: Up $240,000

The Marin County Mental Health Advisory Board last night adopted a $2,480,633 budget request for 1970-71, to be presented to the county board of supervisors, according to chairman Peter W. Palmer.

The request is a $240,000 increase over the present budget, but Palmer said increased state funds and income from patient fees would offset the increase and that actually the county is being asked for $20,000 less than this year's $395,302 support.

Included in the proposed budget are funds for new programs including an alcoholism detoxification evaluation and referral program, a children's day center and a group homes network for adolescents, and expanded services for the mentally retarded.

The board also voiced support and recommended continuation of the drug abuse school operated by Catholic Social Services after hearing a report on the program by Denis Ragan of CSS.

The board cited the widespread community interest in the program, Palmer said, and recommended that it acquire state funding for next year. The program is now completely funded by the county.

The board recommended last night that the program acquire 90 percent of its funds from the state.

Approval was also give to the board of supervisors' administrative reorganization of county mental health services last month.

The supervisors established an administrative structure consisting of a director of community mental health services and a separate program chief responsible for the operation of the mental health center.

Shoreline Highway Collision Clarified

A vehicle driven by Carolyn Ophilia Pearson, 35, of 14 Brighton Boulevard, Mill Valley, was stopped on Shoreline Highway at Highway 101 to make a left turn when it was struck from behind by a car driven by Molly-Ruth Davis, 43, of Harbor Drive, Sausalito, last Friday night.

Cause Still Unknown In Auto Death

The cause of death of Marine Sgt. Ronald William Richmond, 42, of Tustin, Orange County, who died after an auto accident in San Anselmo Tuesday night, will not be known until an autopsy is completed, a coroner's deputy said today.

Keith Craig of the coroner's office said that the injuries suffered by Richmond, a passenger in a pickup truck driven by his brother, Sheriffs' Deputy Robert F. Richmond, 41, of San Rafael, were not severe enough to cause death.

Craig theorized that Richmond died either from shock or asphyxiation or both.

The accident occurred when Deputy Richmond swerved to avoid a motorcycle and ran into a ditch on Red Hill Avenue. Another passenger, Reva M. Lane, 39, of San Rafael, was hospitalized with bruises and a concussion.

Commuter Bus Toll Cut Voted In Committee

A committee of Golden Gate Bridge District directors today voted unanimously to cut commuter bus tolls from $2 to 10 cents per round trip.

The cut was recommended by Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring in order to increase bus patronage, thus perhaps reducing auto congestion.

The recommendation, voted 7-0 by the joint transportation and finance-auditing committee, will go before the full board on March 27.

William L. McCracken, general counsel for Greyhound Lines West, assured the committee that the full saving would be passed onto Gryehound commuters. He declined, however, to guarantee a complete roll back of the 90 cent increase in 20 ride commute books Greyhound won last month from the Public Utilities Commission.

That increase was triggered by the December increase of tolls for all buses on the bridge from 26 cents to $2. McCracken explained that because the cut voted by the committee would apply only to commuter buses, it was unlikely that the full 90 cent increase could be eliminated on commuter books.

McCracken said that under PUC rules, Greyhound merely was a conduit for tolls.

Luehring's recommendation, as voted by the committee, defines commuter buses as those operating over routes within a radius of 26 miles from the toll plaza. This definition eliminated commuter buses from Sonoma County.

Director Michael Wornum suggested that school buses be included in the 10 cent toll, but dropped the idea at the insistence of several other directors.

Conditional Permit For Child Center

The Sausalito Planning Commission last night approved a conditional use permit to allow Dr. David Fisher of the Behavior Therapy Institute to operate a children's learning center at 70 Santa Rosa Avenue, according to H. Eric Borgwardt, planning director.

Borgwardt said the permit was granted for a one-year period, subject to review and renewal at that time.

The commission also approved a request from Alexander Anolik that he be allowed to alter an existing dwelling at 911 Bridgeway that does not conform to city regulations, providing the alterations are in accordance with city rules.

A request for a variance from John Carmack to construct a two-car garage with no side yard setback at 33 Sunshine Avenue was put over until the commission's April 7 meeting.

The commission approved a request from Joseph Kane to divide a 35,195 square-foot lot at 60 Atwood Avenue into three parcels of unequal size.

Flournoy Faces New Opponent

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Herman Sillas, a Mexican-American attorney from East Los Angeles, has declared his candidacy for the Democratic state controller nomination.

Sillas, 36, Wednesday said Republican Controller Houston Flournoy has not kept his promises to reform the tax structure and the inheritance tax appraiser system.

He said if elected he would not put the appraisers under civil service, as Flournoy proposes. He said under the present appointive system the state can get better results.

"The system is a good system," Sillas told a news conference. "I'd really be concerned about putting it under the tent of civil service."

Now, research scientists at Standard Oil Company of California have achieved the most long awaited gasoline development in history! It's a new gasoline additive – Formula F-310*– that sharply reduces dirty exhaust from dirty engines. And helps toward cleaner air.

Tests conducted by Scott Research Laboratories, an independent research group, showed that Chevron gasolines with F-310 reduced unburned hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide exhaust emissions dramatically.

F-310 also improves mileage, because dirty exhaust is really wasted gasoline. So F-310 literally keeps good mileage from going up in smoke.

How does an engine produce dirty exhaust in the first place? As a car accumulates mileage, deposits build up. The amounts of gasoline and air fed into the engine get out of balance. This causes the engine to "run rich", wasting gasoline. As a result, excessive unburned hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide exhaust emissions go into the air. F-310 can correct this condition. Just six tanksful can do the job.

Formula F-310, a patented gasoline additive, is now in all three grades of Chevron gasolines, and is available at all Standard Stations and independent Chevron Dealers.

In its formula and effectiveness, F-310 is unlike any other additive in any other gasoline.

A FAIR DAY FOR HUNTING BUNNIES

Bunnies were everywhere yesterday and today at the Marin Art and Garden Center as Pixie Parents of Marin staged its annual Easter Egg Hunt and Fair for pre-school children. The children, disguised as bunnies after a visit to the Be-A-Bunnie booth hunted for candy eggs, petted real bunnies and geese, rode ponies and ate cotton candy served by the club's members who were also pretending to be bunnies for the day. Left, Cheryl Ann Gallagher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gallagher of Ft. Barry, touches the soft Easter bunny loaned by the Boyd Marin Museum of Science. Right, Mrs. Arlen Ellis of Greenbrae helps Kevin and Christin Lyndon, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Lyndon of Mill Valley. Jamaecke Haugen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geir Haugen of Mill Valley and Elizabeth Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Evans of Mill Valley select balloons.

TAKING A hot dog break after some exhausting egg hunting are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Haney of San Rafael. Left is Heather and right is Kristi.

BUNNY-FOR-a-day, Eleanor Cameron of Mill Valley, tries to catch a bite of cotton candy which nearly took off in the wind at the Art and Garden Center yesterday morning. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cameron.

MICHAEL LEE, a cowboy-bunny from Novato, took a few turns around the ring on a Shetland pony at the sunny-day fair in Ross. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

What If Father And Son Plan To Marry A Mother And Her Daughter?

DEAR HELEN:

How can I ever face my father again? It started when I introduced my girl friend's mother to him. I can understand that Dad is lonely since my mother died, but—why must he choose this woman?

Last night Dad announced he was going to marry her. I want to marry her daughter. That would make her my step-mother and mother-in-law, too, and the same goes for my future wife and my father. We all like each other, but:

Can you think of anything more tragic?—JOHN

DEAR JOHN:

Easily. What if you all hated each other?

So what's the big problem?—H.

DEAR HELEN:

Once again I agree with your answers. I was the type of girl friend who thought it was unmasculine for my fiance to help in the kitchen or with housework, so when he offered, I told him to go sit down. Well, it was as you said, Helen. After marriage, he had learned his lesson well. (But he made up for it by installing a dishwasher.)

But those Saturday cleaning days made me miserable, and I began to feel very sorry for myself. I felt trapped. I missed my old surroundings, my roommates and other female friends, dates, knowing I couldn't fall in love again. Also, being somewhat naive, I believed all the books I'd read, so sex was somewhat of a disappointment.

So I'd be quiet, and my poor husband didn't know what was happening. This could have led to a break-up, except for the fact that I had a very patient and understanding man. He got me to talk it out, and now we share work and fun.—SHARON

DEAR HELEN:

I have two big problems: My father and mother. Mainly my father. He won't let me have anything I really want. I asked for a pair of white rats that my teacher no longer wanted. He said, "No, they'd multiply." He let me have a hamster, but it just sits there and looks stupid.

Then I wanted a bow and arrow and he said I might hurt someone. Same with a mini-motor bike. I also asked for a B-B gun and a chick incubator. Still, "No!" "Not in the city."

You'd think I was my eight-year-old brother instead of almost 13. How can I get any experience if my parents won't let me have anything?—BILL

DEAR BILL:

Maybe you could settle for a small dog?—H.

DEAR HELEN:

I am 14 and not allowed to go on dates except with the crowd, like to skating and swimming parties.

One night some girls asked me on a cook-out and said no boys would be there, but I found out different. More boys than girls showed up, and when the party got wild, I mean really wild, I slipped off and ran home.

At school next day the girls told me to keep my mouth shut about what was going on or I'd be sorry. I got strange phone calls and letters afterwards, threatening what would happen if I didn't keep quiet.

Then rumors started up about me, which brought down my popularity a lot. I'm afraid to tell my parents, or I'll be grounded, for they already half-way believe some of the lies. What can I do?—SCARED TO DEATH

DEAR SCARED:

Do now what you should have done the night of the party: Tell your parents the whole story. You'll be blackmailed until these kids know they can no longer scare you.—H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

DR. JOHN GWYNNE stands in front of the free abortion clinic he opened in West Los Angeles. The 28-year-old obstetrician and gynecologist said he expects to be arrested for openly challenging California's abortion laws. He believes present abortion laws will be ruled unconstitutional.

Young Doctor's Free Clinic Challenges The Abortion Law

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A young doctor says he expects to be arrested for challenging California's abortion laws with his free abortion clinic.

"Women now are forced to go to too many persons other than doctors for abortions," Dr. John Gwynne told newsmen as he opened the Community Service Center and Abortion Clinic in a two-story building in West Los Angeles.

"I BELIEVE in abortion. The only way to change the law to come out and challenge it ... I'm sure we can win and that the new law will be declared unconstitutional."

Gywnne, 28, said the clinic may perform 10 to 15 abortions a day.

Under the law a woman may have a legal abortion if doctors attest that having a baby will harm her physical health or if two psychiatrists declare that childbirth would harm her mentally.

BUT EXPERTS have said that many women unable to get help from physicians or psychiatrists are driven to dangerous, illegal abortions.

Harvey Karman, 46, the clinic's psychologist, says that 25 women in the United States die daily from unsafe abortions, mostly selfadministered.

Karmas estimated that the clinic, operating in various locations out of the public eye for four years, has arranged for about 5,000 abortions.

"The clinic is operated by women volunteers an a donation basis," Karman said. Overhead is about $1,000 a month, he said, supplied by "a lot of individuals" and two feminist organizations, the Women's Liberation Front and NOW — the National Organization of Women.

NO FEES ARE charged, but donations are asked. Karman said the donations average $20.

Gwynne, a resident at Cedars Sinai Medical Center, said he has performed more than 20 legal abortions during hospital training and 15 to 20 other abortions at the clinic "for girls who couldn't afford to go elsewhere."

Gwynne and Karman didn't disclose how many doctors and others would work at the clinic, but Karman said, "We have more than a dozen doctors willing to back Dr. Gwynne if he's arrested.

State Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, has introduced legislation that would make Gwynne's arrest impossible. The senator proposes reducing the law to one point: requiring that abortions be performed by physicians.

Mrs. Jerrold Ladar Is Elected To Head Mill Valley P-TA Council

Mrs. Jerrold Ladar, current president of the Alto Parent-Teacher Association, has been elected to head the Mill Valley P-TA council, composed of all presidents of Mill Valley units. It includes seven elementary schools and Tamalpais High School.

"We expect to expand the information service of the council this year," says Mrs. Ladar, "through an enlarged study program for all units and through a newspaper we have just started, 'The Commentator,' which will go into all Mill Valley homes."

MRS. JERROLD LADAR

Joyce Ladar has been active in the Parent-Teacher association for four of the seven years she and her husband, an assistant U. S. Attorney, have lived in Mill Valley with their two sons, Jeffrey, 9, and Jonathan, 8. She is also active in the Mill Valley Branch of the American Association of University Women.

Her most enjoyable activity, she says, is taking karate lessons at the Marin School of Defense in Larkspur "because it is beautiful exercise and excellent discipline." She is also very much interested in sculpture and has studied with Mill Valley sculptor Phillip Dizick.

A graduate of Stanford University with major in sociology, Joyce was employed as a social worker in Alameda while her husband attended law school.

Other new officers are Mmes. Frederick S. Joslyn Jr., vice president, Andrew J. Norton Jr., recording secretary; Lee Charett, corresponding secretary; and Jack V. Crellin, treasurer.

New Report On Soviet Arms Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has tested more than 30 long range missiles since Strategic Arms Limitation Talks started last November, sources say.

During the same four-month period, the United States has test fired 15 missiles.

This 2-1 Soviet margin in missile testing is one comparison cited by Nixon administration officials challenging recent Russian statements attacking U.S. weapons policies.

In essence, the Soviets have accused the United States of stimulating the arms race, particularly by moving to deploy multiple warhead—MIRV—missiles this June.

NEW PROPAGANDA

Pentagon offciials see this as a propaganda campaign aimed at weakening the American position at the upcoming arms talks by playing on U.S. public opinion.

Defense officials said while Russia charges the United States with heating up arms competition, the Soviets are pushing ahead vigorously with their own intercontinental ballistic missile, submarine-launched missile, and antimissile programs.

Sources indicated the 30 or so Soviet missile tests since mid-November have included huge SS-9's, carrying triple warheads, as well as other types of ICBMs.

Among the 15 U.S. test firings were six missiles designed to carry multiple warheads.

U.S. intelligence analysts believe on the basis of Soviet testing the Russians could deploy multiple warheads late this year.

LEADS U.S.

The Russians already have more land-based ICBM launchers than the United States—1,200-plus to 1,054—and are still increasing them, while American forces remain constant.

U.S. intelligence also is watching anxiously an apparent strong Russian effort to catch up with the United States in Polaris type submarines.

Last year, the Soviets had up to nine Yankee-class submarines in the water, with an additional eight to 12 under construction.

Pair Nabbed As Suspects In Burglary

A Novato man and a 16-year-old Greenbrae girl were arrested on suspicion of burglary last night after police found them allegedly stealing garden supplies at a supermarket, San Anselmo police reported.

Police said a patrolman passing at 11:30 p.m. saw a Volkswagen bus parked beside the garden supply area of United Market, 100 Red Hill Avenue, side door open. As police approached, a man ran away.

Inside the fenced garden area, police said, they found Mary Gayle McCall, of 30 Manor Road, Greenbrae, hiding under a table. She was booked at Marin County Juvenile Hall.

Police impounded the bus at a Fairfax garage. About one hour later, John Joseph Winters, 24, of 1930 Novato Boulevard, Novato, called to report his Volkswagen bus had been stolen.

The patrolmen who interrupted the alleged burglary met Winters, identified him as the man who had run and booked him at Marin County Jail, where he was held to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

In the bus, police said, were 54 seed packets, two pairs of gloves, 20 plants, a hand cultivator and a can of garden spray.

The old California Mission of San Luis Rey, founded in 1798, was named after King Louis IX of France.

MUSIC REVIEW

Debussy's Only Opera Is Still Tough To Conquer

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York City Opera Company tried hard Wednesday night with a new production of "Pellease and Melisande" but it could not overcome the inherent inertia in Debussy's only opera.

The symbolist three-hour work based on a drama by Maurice Maeterlinck has managed to survive for 68 years but may never make it to the end of the century. It is far too repressed in its passions for the "now" generation,or even their parents.

Carmen, Violetta, and La Gioconda endure as heroines with whom opera-goers still identify. Melisande seems as remote, as unmotivated as the langorous beauties painted by the pre-Raphaelites. Soprano Patricia Brooks invested the low-keyed femme fatale with vocal and dramatic distinction but Melisande's credibility gap is unbridgable.

The beautiful score, a tone-poem depicting the shadowy emotions of Melisande's autumnal world, captures the imagination briefly in the opera house but leaves little in memory after the final curtain. There are no arias, only declamatory recitatif that was revolutionary in 1902 but no longer a novelty and even something of a bore in its repetitive figurations.

The good news Wednesday night was the debut with the company of Andre Jobin in the role of Pelleas, a hero of singularly slow reactions until he watches Melisande comb her long golden hair. Jobin, 37, has a serviceable if not a very rich voice, athletic good looks and a sense of dramatic movement that can illuminate even a pallirole.

Jobin is the son of famed Metropolitan Opera tenor Raoul Jobin. Like his father, he has specialized in the French repertory and has made his mark as Pelleas in Paris, Berlin, Brussels and San Francisco. He is a welcome addition to the opera stage in New York.

Director Frank Corsaro gave the action more movement than this reviewer can remember in productions at other houses, and Lloyd Evans' fairy-tale sets and costumes and Hans Sondheimer's eerie lighting provided just the right mood for Debussy's work.

Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr., the Metropolitan Opera angel who is now sharing her largesse with the New York City Opera, bankrolled the production.

Plans On Drug Abuse Due Study

Resolutions prepared by a state task force on drug abuse will be considered when the three committees of the Marin County Board of Education meet jointly at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the county schools office, 201 Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera.

The resolutions deal with training programs for drug abuse, but no text has been received from the task force yet, a county schools official said.

The committees also will hear progress reports on a planned regional occupational education program and on a request for improvement of facilities at Bayview School in San Quentin Prison.

Pension Sought By Ex-Policeman

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO—Salvatore Polani, 49, former San Francisco policeman who recently completed serving a four-year prison term for burglarizing the San Francisco home of Sausalito restaurant owner Sally Stanford, has refiled an old application for disability retirement pay.

Polani and three others were convicted of attempted burglary in 1965 after falling into a trap which Robert K. Worthington, then a Point Reyes Station contractor, helped set.

Polani had filed shortly before his arrest for disability retirement benefits, claiming he had suffered a heart attack in 1961 while a policeman.

He has now requested hearings with both a State Workmen's Compensation Appeals Board referee and with the San Francisco City Retirement Board.

Injuries Minor

Kalisa S. Fallon, 21, of 112 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley, suffered bruises and facial cuts at 6 p.m. Tuesday when her car struck a bridge railing on Panoramic Highway near Franks Valley Road, the California Highway Partol reported Tuesday. She was treated at Marin General Hospital.

Goldovsky To Lead College Opera Study

Russian-born Boris Goldovsky, internationally known opera educator, will conduct a summer opera institute from Jun 22 to July 3 at Sonoma State College, Dr. Peggy Donovan-Jeffry announced today.

Dr. Donovan-Jeffry, chairman of the college music department as well as opera and stage director trained under Goldovsky, will also teach during the institute, and Dr. Arthur Schoep, a stage director for the Colorado Springs and Omaha opera associations, will be a guest director.

The institute will offer two weeks of concentrated study in all phases of operatic acting, characterization, repertoire, diction and musical pantomime. Eligible are young professional singers, stage directors, opera producers, coaches, college and public school music educators and others interested in lyric theatre.

The institute will be divided into two sections, individual instruction and group instruction. Applications for individual instruction will be accepted until May 1, and selection of students will be by auditions in San Francisco and at the college during April, with dates to be announced.

Applications for enrollment in the group instruction section will be unlimited until May 15. No special audition is required for participation in this section, Dr. Donovan-Jeffry said. Anyone who loves opera and wants to know more about it is eligible.

Goldovsky is known for his touring opera company, which has performed in 38 states, his TV productions viewed all over the world, training of many famed American singers in his Goldovsky Opera Institute in New York's Carnegie Hall, his training of teachers and leaders in opera, and his commentaries during the Metropolitan Opera's weekly broadcasts during its season.

Complete information on the institute may be obtained by writing or phoning: Office of Educational Services and Summer Sessions, 1108 Stevenson Hall, Sonoma State College, Rohnert Park.

'69 BUICK SKYLARKS

These low mileage factory cars look so new and clean — you'd think they were brand new but they actually have been driven from 7,000 to 14,000 miles.

These almost new little Skylarks still carry the G.M. new car warranty and the purchaser will be registered to receive the balance of the 50,000 mile, 5-year warranty.

Fully equipped including V-8, automatic, radio, heater, power steering, tinted glass, w/w tires, wheel covers, custom all-vinyl interior and custom vinyl top.

We have two 4-Dr. hardtops and eight 2-Dr. hardtops in a wide choice of colors.

Haynsworth Supporter Is Opposing Carswell

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, announced today he would vote against confirmation of Judge G. Harrold Carswell to the Supreme Court.

Gravel was the only northern Democrat to vote in favor of confirmation of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth, whose earlier nomination to the Court was turned down by the Senate.

Gravel's announcement brought to 29 the number of senators either publicly opposing Carswell or leaning against his confirmation.

But 52 senators are either committed or leaning favorably toward Carswell, giving him a clear majority of the Senate so far.

Gravel said he based his decision almost entirely on Carswell's civil rights record. He said the judge used "his judicial position to delay and frustrate orders of higher courts in matters of desegregation."

Gravel recalled a 1948 speech by Carswell pledging unending fidelity to white supremacy, and said:

"Judge Carswell's actions in ensuing years, up to the present day, have merely shown an ability to express these same beliefs in more subtle and sophisticated ways."

The offices of the 18 senators still publicly uncommitted reported their mail was running heavy against confirmation — one office said the ratio is about 20 to 1 against the 50-year-old U. S. appeals court judge from Tallahassee, Fla.

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., who lists himself as "leaning for" concedes it is "an agony" to make a decision.

Pointing out he voted against Nixon's position on the Safeguard antiballistic missile and on Haynsworth, Hatfield asks: "How far can you go in not supporting your administration."

Working for Carswell, he said, is a certain amount of "senatorial fatigue" after the long torment of the Haynsworth debate.

Senate Committee Favors Draft Chief Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Armed Services Committee today approved the nomination of Curtis W. Tarr to be the nation's third Selective Service director.

The approval, which sends Tarr's name to the Senate for confirmation, came after a hearing in which Tarr expresed reservations about the feasibility of an all volunteer army.

Tarr, 45, a former college president, declared also he believes most student and occupational deferments from the draft should be abandoned.

No opposition to his appointment was expressed at the hearing.

Tarr said he has no intention of following either the life style or the administrative methods of Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, 76, who retired last month after heading the draft system through most of its 30 years of existence.

Tarr said he doubts that enough inducements could be offered to bring sufficient manpower into an all-volunteer military force by June 30, 1971, the date the current draft law expires.

Tarr disagreed with those who have said an all-volunteer army would surely become mostly black, and get its volunteers from young men with little education and a disadvantaged background.

"I think the important thing is whether we can find the right men to do the jobs that need to be done," Tarr said. "I'm not afraid of an all-black force, but I don't think we will have one."

Tarr also opposed using the draft to punish protesters against it and against the government.

Marin Gives $37,000 To March Of Dimes

Marin contributions to the 1970 March of Dimes fund raising campaign during January totaled about $37,000, the foundation has reported.

According to Lawrence B. Malkin, the campaign director for Marin, $22,600 of the total was raised through door-to-door solicitation by volunteers. The remaining amount came from mail contributions, he added.

Sanitation Board Will Meet Wednesday

The meeting of the San Rafael Sanitation District board, originally scheduled for yesterday, has been postponed until 5 p.m. next Wednesday at San Rafael City Hall, reported Virginia Congdon, district clerk.

The regularly scheduled April 1 session has been changed from the regular hour of 5 p.m. to 11 a.m. because directors are scheduled to have a luncheon meeting with representatives of the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board that day, she said.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Salmon-Colored Rash Often Puzzles Young Adult In Spring

Pityriasis Rosea is a generalized rash that many young adults develop in the spring and fall. The lesions are easily mistaken for ringworm, and unless the condition is diagnosed correctly, the victim is likely to receive a lot of unnecessary treatment.

The eruption is not serious, disappears spontaneously within 6 to 12 weeks, leaves no scars, and is followed by permanent immunity.

IT BEGINS WITH a single blemish (about an inch in diameter) that is known as the herald or mother patch. The rosy, pimplelike lesion begins to fan out in all directions. As it grows, the center clears leaving a red bordered halo.

Later, the middle becomes fawn-colored with fine, adherent scales. If the spot is compressed between the thumb and index finger, it crinkles like a crumbled cigaret paper.

About two weeks after the appearance of the herald patch, many smaller spots appear anywhere on the body but not on areas exposed to light such as the face, neck, and hands.

THE LESIONS ARE easily recognized because the long axis ot the oval patches follow lines of cleavage—that is, the lines where the skin folds or wrinkles.

The rash probably represents a mild infection which is neither contagious nor severe. The causative microbe is not known but it probably enters the body at the site of the herald spot. Within two weeks, the microbes have multiplied sufficiently to attack the remainder of the epidermis.

THE observation that the lesions do not develop on areas exposed to the sun gives a clue to treatment. If the skin is exposed to ultraviolet light or to the sun during the first two weeks, the disorder often is aborted.

If not, daughter lesions develop and gradually fade away at the end of 6 to 12 weeks. Omitting fish, shellfish, cheese, strawberries, excessive sweets, and spicy foods may hasten the cure.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.

LAZY BOY

Mr. J. V. writes: Could laziness in a 9 year old be due to a physical disorder? According to his teachers, my son is not dumb but he neglects his homework and has to cram when it comes time for examinations. He prefers resting to studying.

REPLY

Yes. Laziness, lack of motivation or appreciation are possibilities, but give the boy the benefit of a doubt; take him to a physician to determine whether his fatigue is due to a physical or an emotional disorder.

HAIR DYES

Miss L. writes: How can a woman tell if her system is being harmed by prolonged hair dyeing?

REPLY

Hives, eczema, or irritation of the scalp may develop if she is sensitive to any of the ingredients. In the past, many hair dyes contained lead but this is not true today.

BENEFITS OF TONSILLECTOMY

C.R. writes: Is it true that children eat better, grow taller, and have fewer colds after their tonsils are taken out?

REPLY

Yes, provided the tonsils were diseased to such an extent as to affect the child's health and well-being.

WOUND UP, NOT RUNDOWN

W. L. A. writes: Can the change of life lead to a rundown condition?

REPLY

No. If anything, most women start life anew. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on the menopause.

Today's Health Hint—Toys for tots should be nonbreakable and free of sharp, pointed edges.

Innocent Plea To Manslaughter

San Quentin Prison guard Denton Stanley Dixon, 45, of Bodega Bay, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal court to charges of manslaughter and felony drunken driving stemming from death of another San Quentin guard early Monday morning.

A preliminary hearing was set Tuesday for April 14.

Dixon is accused of being responsible for the accident in which Hector Cantu, 27, of San Francisco, died. Cantu was standing near his own car at Front Street and Hoag Avenue in San Rafael when he was struck by Dixon's car, according to police.

Items Are Stolen

Gauges, regulators, a cutting torch, hoses, and an oxygen and an acetylene tank with a total value of $225 were stolen before 8 a.m. Monday from a construction yard at 4488 Redwood Highway, San Rafael police reported today.

'Animosity' Claimed By KRON Attorney

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An attorney for KRON-TV is attempting to show that Albert Kihn, of Mill Valley a former news cameraman at the station whose complaints have brought about a hearing on the station's license renewal request, harbored "a feeling of animosity" toward his former employers.

Robert Heald, representing KRON-TV and KRON-FM, in FCC hearings on their license applications, said Wednesday that Kihn did not get along with Mel Kampman and Bill Cothran, who were news directors while Kihn was employed by the station.

Asked by Heald if he resented remarks made at various times by Kampman about him, Kihn said, "Perhaps so."

Asked a similar question about Cothran's remarks, Kihn replied, "I probably did."

The testimony came in cross-examination of Kihn during the second day of the hearing, where some 200 witnesses are expected.

Heald asked the question while attempting to have Kihn's diary, referred to repeatedly by the former cameraman, entered into the record as evidence.

Heald said the diary "indicated Kihn had a feeling of animosity towards the news directors."

Kihn said several letters he wrote to the FCC regarding the news operations of KRON-TV were not "filed as a petition to deny renewal of the KRON license."

But Heald charged that the letters were written "to get the KRON renewal application into difficulty."

Cameron To Seek Post Of Controller

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES—Ronald Brooks Cameron of Whittier, a former state assemblyman and congressman, today announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination as state controller in the June 2 primary election.

Cameron, 42, said he was running to help counter what he termed "a continuous deterioration in all phases of life in this state" under the Reagan administration.

A certified public accountant, Cameron served in the Assembly from 1958 to 1962, when he successfully challenged John H. Rousselot for the House of Representatives. Rousselot is a former executive director of the John Birch Society, and Cameron's campaign and victory attracted national attention.

Cameron was reelected in 1964, then left Congress in 1966.

He then founded a firm that manufactured motor homes.

Harpo's Widow Enters Politics

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Susan Marx, widow of Harpo Marx of the Marx brothers, has confirmed that she will seek a seat in the state legislature.

Mrs. Marx, 51, a Democrat, had taken out nominating papers last month but did not formally announce her candidacy until a news conference Wednesday.

TV REVIEW

Pro Grid Games Next On Mondays

By Rick Du Brow

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Can professional football knock off some of television's hottest prime-time series in a weekly head-to-head battle for the ratings?

That's what the video industry is waiting to see next season when ABC-TV, for the first time on a weekly basis, puts National Football League games up against the potent Monday night lineups of CBS-TV and NBC-TV.

The games will start at 9 p.m. EST, and since they will be live across the nation they will —because of the time differences — actually have a crack at every Monday night series on the opposing networks.

That means that the gridiron contests will square off against CBS-TV's lineup of "Gunsmoke," "Here's Lucy," "Mayberry R.F.D.," the Doris Day show and the Carol Burnett hour.

NBC LINEUP

It also means the games will go up against NBC-TV's lineup of Red Skelton, "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" and the Monday night movie.

For some time now, Monday night has been a disaster area for ABC-TV. Show after show has fallen before the opposition. Only recently, when ABC-TV switched its Wednesday night movies to Mondays, have things picked up a bit.

And, although these ABC-TV Monday movies will be bumped to make way for the football games in the fall, it is widely believed that the network will again put on the motion pictures when the gridiron season is over.

One of the interesting and amusing things to speculate about in regard to the Monday night football games is the battle for control of the television set in those hours in homes that have only one set, and where wives may not be keen on watching sports.

DELIGHTFUL

You've heard of television's weekend football widows. Now they may be forced to accept what they consider another day of video torture. For us football buffs, of course, ABC-TV's Monday night series of games is delightful to contemplate. Besides the Monday night head-on competition, other matchups next season will be watched with interest.) For example, can Red Skelton, who is moving to NBC-TV from CBS-TV, make headway against "Gunsmoke," a powerhouse of the network that canceled him?

ABC-TV's "Mod Squad," meanwhile, will have to compete with the new Don Knotts variety show, and new Mary Tyler Moore situation comedy and "To Rome With Love," transferred from Sunday to Tuesday.

Danny Thomas, returning to ABC-TV with a situation comedy, will have to go up against "The Virginian" and a new series called "Storefront Lawyers" Andy Griffith's new comedy show has as its foes "The Name of the Game" and "The Partridge Family," about a mother and her offspring in a traveling rock and roll band.

The all-Negro version of "Barefoot in the Park" will have to compete with the Thursday movie and "Ironside" And Flip Wilson's variety hour goes up against Jim Nabors, "Family Affair" and Vince Edwards' drama entry, "Dial Hot Line"

Guilty Plea Entered To Reduced Charge

Michael Edward Finn, 31, of San Anselmo, has pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced misdemeanor charge of possessing a check with intent to defraud. He had earlier been charged with a felony count of the same offense.

Judge Peter Allen Smith Tuesday set sentencing for April 10.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedienne Goldie Hawn, the giggling blonde pixie of television's "Laugh-In," has a new legal name.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Singer Pearl Bailey, star of the musical "Hello, Dolly!" was hospitalized with chest pains and canceled a scheduled performance Wednesday night.

A theater spokesman said she expected to be well enough to appear in the musical tonight.

Gleason In New York For Divorce Filing

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Jackie Gleason, who is seeking a divorce from his wife of 34 years, arrived in the city Wednesday with Beverly McKittrick, a blonde ex-secretary he says he wants to marry.

Gleason and his wife Genevieve have been separated since 1954. The comedian obtained a New York court ruling earlier this year that he could seek a divorce under a new state law which makes prolonged separation grounds for a decree.

Ecumenical Housing Plan Given Nod

Plans by the Ecumenical Association for housing for a 100-unit low and moderate income development on the Hilarita site has cleared a major hurdle with approval by the Tiburon Board of Design Review.

The three members of the board also sit on the planning commission, which two weeks ago had expressed reservations about the project's density.

But after hearing reports Tuesday night from Ecumencial Association representatives that any density less than 100 units wasn't economically feasible, the design board sent the project master plan back to the commission with its endorsement, according to Planning Director Wayne Moody.

The 100 units—townhouses and apartments for persons of low and moderate income—would be developed on eight acres of the 12.8-acre site. As to the rest of the property, the board said it hoped for a plan that would leave a hilly area in open space, Moody said.

The Marin County Housing Authority, owner of the Hilarita site, intends to sell the hilly portion to a private developer. The Ecumencial Association has an option on the major slice of the property.

In other matters, the board conditionally approved a sign and lighting for a Mobil service station at 1600 Tiburon Boulevard and passed a sign permit for the Tiburon Pet Shop at 7 Main Street, but said further work was needed on a sign for the Tiburon ferry.

Beards Are Out For Celebration

The latest victim of the beards that are sprouting everywhere these days may be the beard itself—at least as a curiosity.

Novato's Western Weekend Fair board has abolished the annual beard contest, according to Billie Garl, board secretary.

Action on the hairy problem grew out of lack of interest in the contest, she said yesterday. In past years it's been one of the best ways of advertising the celebration, but beards are no longer uncommon enough to make the contest interesting

Several weekend committee chairmen have been named: George McDaniel, program; Charles E. Lewis and Worth Fenner Jr., entertainment; Jack Whitcomb, special events; and Dorothy Merla, publicity.

Nicasio Trustees Rehire All Teachers

The Nicasio School District board has rehired for next year the district's three teachers.

Discussion of the district's questioning of its electric bills and the purchase of property from the Marin Municipal Water District was postponed Tuesday night because there were no new developments in either situation, Beverly Alberigi, secretary to the board, reported.

Jail Escapee Faces New Felony Charge

James Winton Gastmann, 26, of no fixed address, the first and only person to escape from the new Marin County Jail in the Hall of Justice, was arraigned yesterday on a new felony charge.

Gastmann, who received superficial wounds by slashing his wrists while in a Hall of Justice holding cell Monday, was accused yesterday of socking a jailer in the face on Tuesday.

Bailiffs prevented Gastmann from seriously hurting himself by grabbing his arms and forcing him to drop a razor blade Monday. On Tuesday Deputy William E. Brown said that Gastmann struck him in the face as he went into the maximum security area.

Judge Hadden W. Roth yesterday ordered that Gastmann be examined by a psychiatrist. He also set the most recent case for a preliminary hearing next Tuesday.

Gastmann is still awaiting trial on the escape charge. He crawled through an opening on the roof of the exercise area at the jail on March 1 but was captured 45 minutes later in Terra Linda. He was in jail on earlier narcotics charges.

Homeowners Urge Novato To Purchase Land For Park

The San Marin Homeowners Association board on Tuesday, recommended the City of Novato to purchase the 4.6 acres on San Marin Drive which are designated on the master plan as a park, publicity chairman Bruce Smith reported yesterday.

The acreage was purchased by Terrance V. McGuire who planned on building apartments. When his development application was denied by the city, he filed a claim for $175,000 against the city.

The San Marin Homeowners Board Also:

ISLANDS — Heard a report that the contract between Sunset International Petroleum Corp, and the City of Novato for maintenance of the center islands on San Marin Drive expires this year. It is expected that the total cost will be raised through a tax of 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation with the city doing the work.

BASEBALL — Voted to sponsor both Little League and Babe Ruth baseball teams this year.

SAN MARIN CLUB — Received notice from Commonwealth United Corp. that the San Marin Club has been sold and the money is now in escrow. The buyer was not disclosed.

EGG HUNT — Voted to hold an Easter egg hunt for children 12 and under on the park site on San Marin Drive using 100 dozen eggs. Final plans are yet to be made.

Floral Show Set For Mill Valley

The displays of potted chrysanthemums and lillies will remain at least through Easter Sunday, kept fresh by members of Mill Valley Brownie troops. Dressed as bunnies, the girls will make regular visits to stores, equipped with watering cans.

The chamber project will include the annual display of live animals from Monday through March 28 on the city hall lawn. Chickens, rabbits, ducks and a goose will be loaned by the Marin County Humane Society. Girl scouts will care for them.

Braun And Maine Plead Insanity In Washington

EVERETT, Wash, (UPI)—Thomas Braun and Leonard Maine have pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to first-degree murder charges in the death of Deanna Buse of Monroe, Wash.

Judge Thomas G. McCrea of Snohomish County Superior Court ruled Tuesday that he would hear the case but he did not set a trial date.

Braun, 21, and Maine, 22, both of Ritzville, Wash., led authorities to Mrs. Buse's body near Echo Lake. She had been shot in the head. She was believed to have been abducted in August, 1967, when her car was stopped on the freeway near here.

The two are serving terms for convictions in California for the murder of Timothy Luce, Ukiah, and the kidnaping and rape of Luce's girl friend, Susan Bartolomei. They were brought here last week for arraignment in connection with the Buse case.

Candidate Coffee

A coffee for Edward J. Boessenecker, incumbent candidate for the Mill Valley City Council, will be held at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fillipi at 50 Buena Vista Avenue.

Policy Drawn On Unwed Mothers' Aid

Parents of an unwed teenager who becomes pregnant should be required by law to help support the girl, except in certain cases, the Family and Children's Advisory Committee has decided.

The exception would be in cases where, in the judgment of the Department of Public Social Services, notification of parents would do more harm than good.

The committee members recommended Tuesday night that "No pregnant minor shall be denied social services and medical and financial services because she refuses to have parents notified."

The recommendations will go to the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The advisory committee also appointed a subcommittee to provide more work incentive for general relief recipients. Named to the subcommittee were Eldon Hasstedt of Novato, W. Robert Lomax Jr., Winifred Frederick of Lagunitas, Marjorie Harmon of Mill Valley, Georgette Vilas of Nicasio, Lynne Bishop of Larkspur and Janey Rice of Mill Valley.

U.S. Steel Faces Pollution Counts

CHICAGO (AP) — U.S. Steel Corp. and the superintendent of its Chicago plant were indicted by a federal grand jury Wednesday on charges of polluting Lake Michigan.

The firm was charged with five counts of pollution. Charles Kay, superintendent of the company's South Work plant in Chicago, was accused of aiding and abetting in the deposit of solid wastes into the lake.

The company declined to comment until it received official notification of the indictments.

The indictment alleges that on five occasions between Sept. 26 and Sept. 30, the plant discharged iron oxide and other blast furnace waste solids from the steel manufacturing process into the lake.

Two San Quentin Escapers Indicted

The Marin County Grand Jury has indicted two San Quentin convicts on charges of escaping from the prison.

Accused Tuesday night of felony escape were Theodore Raymond Keener, 36, and Clarence Milton Sprague, 32, both of whom are serving five years to life terms for armed robbery.

Keener escaped on Jan. 21 and Sprague on April 18. They are now back in prison.

Keener was convicted in Fresno County in 1967 and Sprague in Los Angeles County in 1963.

Carl Beam, Master Distiller, is just as particular about the ingredients that go into his Bourbon as his wife is about the fruits and vegetables she puts up for winter. That's because Carl is the fifth generation of the only Kentucky family that's made the same Bourbon since 1795.

NCAA Basketball Swings Into Semifinals Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Coach John Wooden of defending champion UCLA says he believes Jacksonville University has a slight edge in the NCAA basketball finals but he also wouldn't bet against his Bruins.

In fact, Wooden, whose teams have won five out of the last seven basketball titles, says only one of the four in the tournament has real problems—St. Bonaventure.

HAS TO HURT

"I'm not knocking St. Bonaventure," he told newsmen, "but the loss of Lanier had to hurt them. They have other good boys but it's pretty late for them to change their style."

The Bonnies lost 6-foot-11 All America Bob Lanier in the regional tournament last Saturday. He underwent surgery Sunday for repair of a torn knee ligament.

"Had St. Bonaventure not lost Lanier, this tournament would have been wide open with no one having the edge," said Wooden, who will be seeking an unprecedented fourth straight. "Now the three other teams appear to be in good shape with Jackson having a little break but not much."

Jacksonville, rapidly growing to be the sentimental favorite because it is the Dolphins' first time in the NCAA championship, meets St. Bonventure tonight in the eastern finals scheduled to begin at 4:30 p.m.

UCLA, which has reeled off 22 straight victories in NCAA tournament play, takes on New Mexico State in the western finals nightcap scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m., and will be televised in color on NBC.

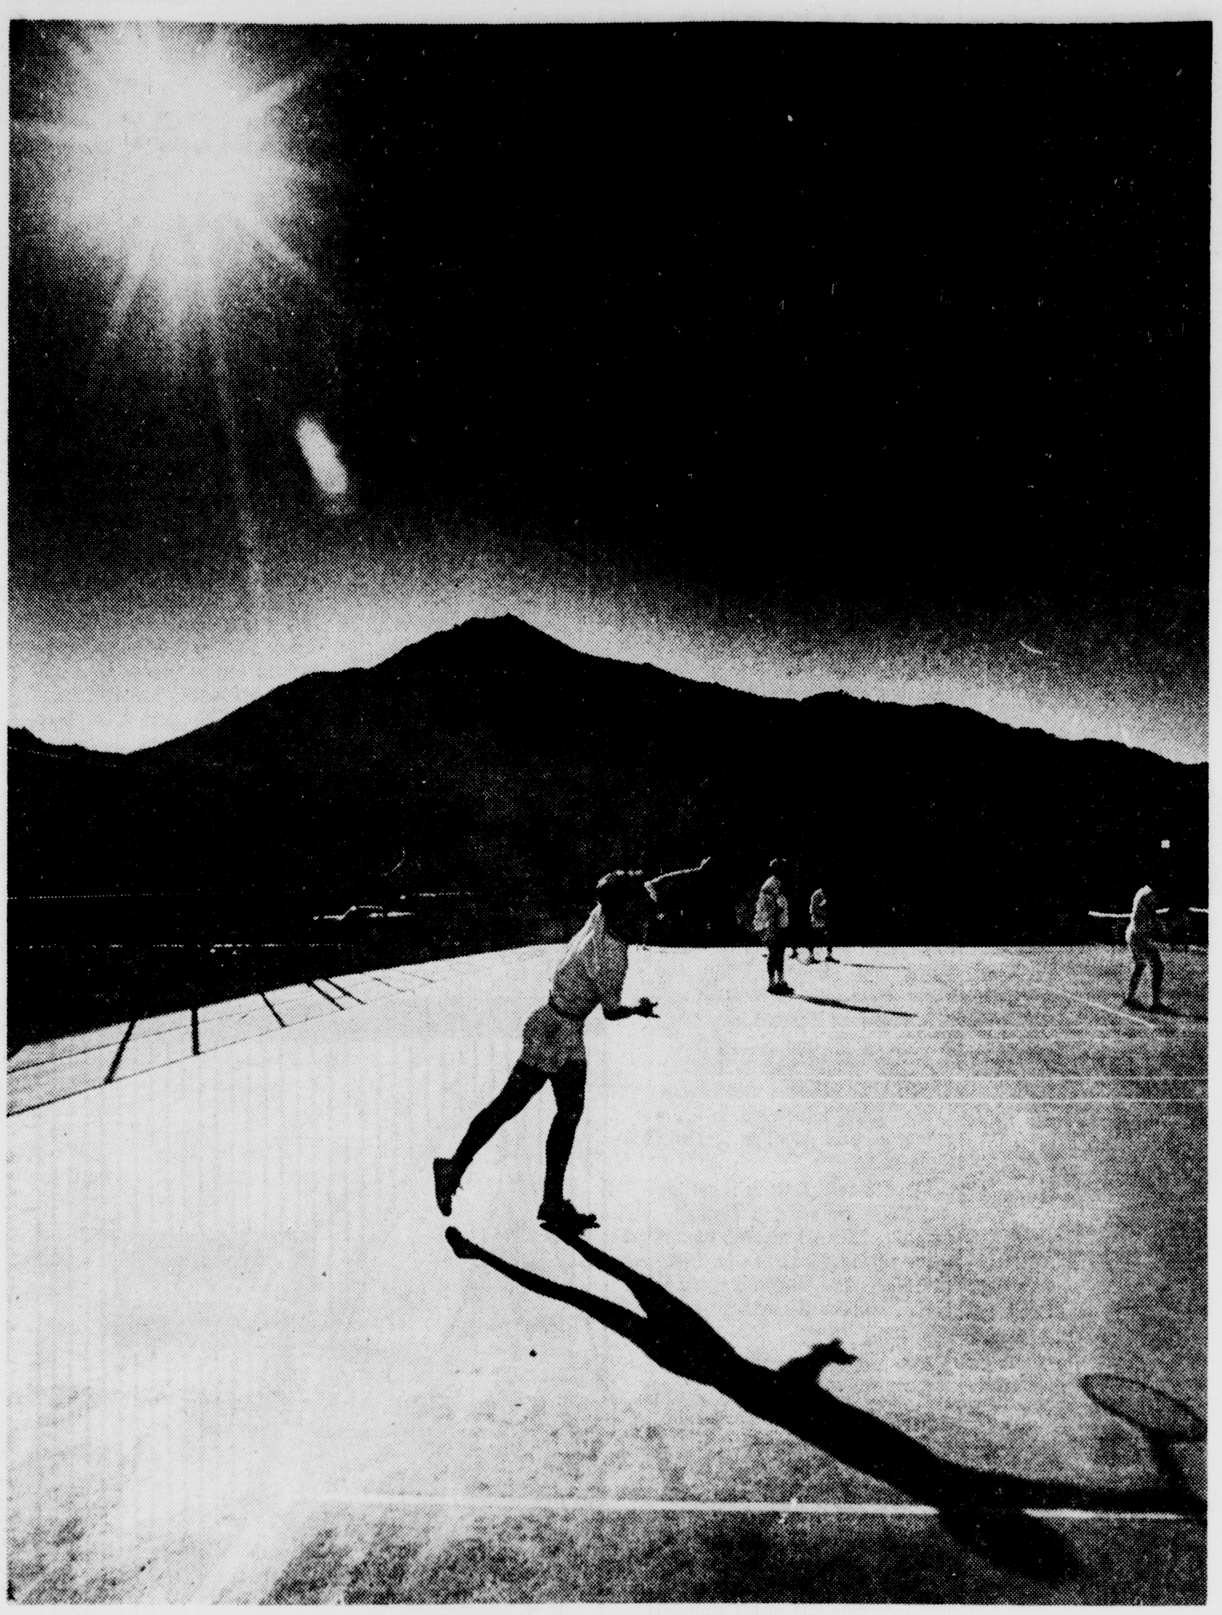
The winners of the two games meet Saturday at 1 p.m. on national television (NBC) for the NCAA championship.

TALL TEAM

Jacksonville has won 26 and lost 1 while St. Buonaventure is 25-1. UCLA and New Mexico State sport 26-2 records.

Wooden said he isn't looking but would like to have a 7-foot Lew Alcindor, who led his UCLAns to their past three titles before going to the Milwaukee Bucks, if he should meet Jacksonville Saturday afternoon. The Dolphins boast 7-foot-2 Artis Gilmore, 7-foot Pembrook Burrows III, and 6-foot-10 Rod McIntyre.

His primary worry, however, is New Mexico State which, he says, will be looking for revenge. UCLA defeated the Amazin' Aggies, as they like to be called, in the first round of the western regionals the last two years.



A DUEL IN THE SUN

Marin Hockey Squirts Set Attendance Mark

Marin Junior Hockey Club's Squirt team for 12-year-olds and under set a club attendance record last night while playing Belmont to a scoreless tie.

A crowd of 7,575 saw the little kids. I've checked all available records and have come to the conclusion that it was the largest audience ever to see a Marin squirt team play on a Wednesday night in March. School nights are usually rough on the gate.

Of course, the game was held in the Oakland Coliseum Arena at intermission of the Oakland Seals-Montreal Canadiens National Hockey League game, but that's incidental.

I-J hockey scribe Dave Dietz reports the major league crowd was delighted with the kid hockey show, particularly the sight of Belmont's pint-sized goalie.

As for his team's appearance on the big league ice, Marin coach Allan Southern said: "It's been the talk of the week." I can well imagine.

A Word Or Two From 'The Toe'

AND NOW WE hear from Gordon "The Toe" Tovani, the free-lance place kicking coach and lecturer:

"Hey, last week Bob Ghiringhelli of the Deer Park Villa in Fairfax asked me to put on a kicking exhibition for a fathers-sons get-together at St. Rita's Church.

"Well, after the exhibition I thought it would be a good idea to have a kicking contest among the kids and told them that the winner could take his whole family to free dinner at Deer Park Villa, compliments of Mr. Ghiringhelli.

"Know who won? Mark Parnow. Poor Ghiringhelli almost fainted. Mark has 10 brothers and sisters. Ha-ha-ha-ha. . . ."

Sneak Preview For Andretti

MYSTERY GUEST at Sears Point International Raceway this month will be 1969 Indianapolis 500-mile classic winner Mario Andretti to test the road course for the U. S. Auto Club's 150-mile race for Indy cars on April 4. Mario's practice sessions will be strictly private. (I can't even tell you the date he'll rent the Sonoma facility.)

TVS television network, which was scheduled to cover the big race live, has cancelled out for lack of sponsor, which means a $22,000 kick in the Sears Point pants.

Another SPIR item: Kevin Bartlett of Australia will drive an Indy road car designed and built by personable, gregarious, loveable, fun-loving Marvin Webster of Mill Valley.

NO RENEWAL

Sebring Race To Close Shop?

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Practice opened today for Saturday's 12 hours of Sebring amid indications the famed endurance race may be on the verge of closing shop after 20 years.

Chris Amon's lap record of 2:40.19, or 116.898 m.p.h. for the 5.2 mile course was expected to become a casualty early in the first official shakedown runs.

NOTICE

A new 4.5 liter Porsche 917 and a three-liter Alfa Romeo already had given notice that new speed standards would be set. The Porsche, driven by England's Brian Redman, lapped at 122.593 m.p.h. in tests two weeks ago. The Alfa, with Italy's Andre de Adamich at the wheel, posted 120.779.

Three sections of two hours each were scheduled today, including the first night practice tonight. A similar schedule will be followed, during which drivers will qualify for starting positions in the 70-car field.

Lap speeds will determine a driver's positon for the 11 a.m. start for the first time since the Sebring inaugural in 1950. The colorful LeMans start, in use here since the beginning, has been dropped in favor of a rolling start.

Meantime, there were indications that only one more Sebring 12 hours will be held.

The contract which founder and promoter Alec Ulmann holds for the Sebring airport course expires with the 1971 event and attempts to renew it have failed.

ROUTE 66

Ulmann had purchased a 600-acre track on Route 66 near here and announced he would build a new course but the longtime supporter of road racing and his wife, Mary, put the property up for sale early in February. They had paid $196,400 for the site.

The Ulmanns will not comment on their future plans, but sources close to them say the straw that broke the camel's back came last December when a race for the U.S. Formula A championship drew only a handful of people and was a financial failure.

Seals Blow Too Many Chances

By DAVID DIETZ

OAKLAND—Because of persistent jitters around the enemy net, the Oakland Seals failed last night to grasp a share of coveted fourth place in the National Hockey League West.

They did get a 2-2 tie with the Montreal Canadiens, bringing them to within a point of the Minnesota North Stars, but the score might easily have been 6-2 for the Seals, had they not squandered a bagful of bright scoring chances in front of the Montreal goalie.

WILD SHOTS

Time and again, the Oaklanders had the puck in position to swipe it home, only to fan wildly, clumsily lose possession or send the disk whistling over the net. This disturbing habit is no stranger to the Seals' game of late.

"We've been tight around the net," said wing Billy Hicke, who blew an open net chance in the second period. "I'll bet we've missed 10 goals in the last five games because of it."

Oakland was outshot, 43-21, but hustled and checked throughout and drew praise from coach Fred Glover. "If I can't have all of it, I'll have half of it," he said, in philosophical reference to the failure to pull even with the North Stars, beaten by Detroit last night, 6-2.

A DOUBLE

Montreal scored first at 2:00 of the second period when Yvan Cournoyer lifted a rebound over fallen goalie Gary Smith, but Carol Vadnais tallied twice in a row, the first at 10:42 of the second and the other at 9:45 of the third period, to make it 2-1.

Graying Henri Richard tied it for good two minutes later when he broke around defenseman Wayne Muloin and skated in alone on Smith.

Errors, Walks Spell Doom For Three Marin Teams

Errors and walks spelled doom for three Marin County Athletic League baseball teams that played inter-league games on wind-swept diamonds yesterday.

Novato High committed six miscues in losing to St. Ignatius of San Francisco, 5-1; Tam also made six errors in a 7-0 loss to Vallejo; and Drake pitchers gave up 10 walks while the Pirates were losing to Analy, 6-2.

St. Ignatius got only one earned run and five hits off Novato pitchers. First baseman Steve Pond collected two of Novato's three hits.

All seven of Vallejo's runs were unearned and Tam was held to only three hits as the Indians absorbed their third loss against three wins.

Eight of the 10 walks issued by Drake pitchers at Sebastopol came in the only two scoring innings for Analy and, as Drake coach Dick Creighton noted, "You don't need many hits with all those walks to score a lot of runs."

Drake leftfielder Mark Shepherd hit a two-run double and made what Creighton called "One of the greatest catches I've ever seen" in the fourth inning, a diving grab with his back to the infield.

Sweeney also drove in two runs with a pair of hits. Rick Sack's three hits and Kurt Jastrow's home run were other Petaluma highlights.

Pete Callinan and Rick Papa each doubled for Rancho Cotate.

Japanese Fans To See Mays At First Base

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Japanese baseball fans will see what San Francisco Giants' fans may be seeing more in the future in regular National League play: Willie Mays playing first base.

Giants' manager Clyde King said as the Giants left Wednesday for Tokyo that his 39-year-old center fielder would move to first for the opening game of a nine-game tour, Saturday against the Tokyo Giants.

The game will be televised back to the Bay Area via satellite Friday night, channel 2, 8 o'clock, Pacific Coast time.

It still had not been decided when Willie McCovey, the Giants' regular first baseman and most valuable player in the National League last year, would test his right eye against game-type pitching.

McCovey is taking medication for an inflamed retina, believed to be a side effect of a drug he had been taking for arthritis.

"I think McCovey will be able to tell when his eye is all right," remarked King. "I don't want him in the lineup until I'm sure he's ready."

Bob Burda, who had been taking McCovey's place at first, is expected to miss several games because of a spike wound on a toe of his left foot.

The Giants, first major league team to break a normal spring training routine for a trip to Japan, would play the Lotte Orions in Tokyo on Sunday. They will play every day, but no doubleheaders are scheduled.

Santa Clara Wins

SANTA CLARA (UPI)-Mike Sigman's four-hit pitching led Santa Clara past San Jose State 5-0 in college baseball Wednesday night. That left the winners 10-6 for the year while the Spartans are 11-3.

Harada Is A Teacher For Touring Giants

TOKYO—Cappy Harada put the Giants through their final lesson in Japanese as they winged across the international date line where Wednesday suddenly became Thursday.

Everybody aboard the team's Japan Air Lines chartered jet is thoroughly familiar with the Japanese equivalent of "thank you." It's "ah-ree-gah-TOH." Everybody also knows "goh-MEN-nah-sai" means "pardon me."

There are other romanized Japanese expressions, such as "good morning" (oh-HAH-yoh) and "good evening" (KOHN-bahn-wah), Harada has taught the Giants.

EVEN IF the Giants fail to win a game in Tokyo, Hiroshima, Osaka and Nagoya from the Lotte Orions, Taiyo Whales, Nankai Hawks, Nagoya Dragons or their namesake Tokyo Giants, they should make a nice impression for being polite. Somebody once said nice guys don't win.

However, Harada didn't teach Horace Stoneham's ball players any vulgar romaji expressions. That wasn't the assignment the president of the Giants gave Harada, and American citizen of Japanese ancestry.

Cappy Harada was born in 1920 in Santa Maria, No. 1 son of a poor truck farmer. During the depression of the '30s, Cappy's daily job was to fish so the family would have something decent to eat. Sometimes he had to walk 20 miles for a good catch.

"THOSE WALKS," Cappy now recalls, "helped me later in athletics at Santa Maria High."

Harada was a four-letter man and captained the high school baseball, football and basketball teams. His nickname of Cappy came naturally. Nobody would think of calling him "Paul," his given name. Indeed, the only person in the Giant organization who knows it is the fellow who makes out the paychecks.

Cappy was just completing his second year at Hancock College (then called Santa Maria Junior College) when, as he puts it, "my ancestors remodeled Pearl Harbor."

"NO ONE COULD realize how embarrassing Dec. 7, 1941, was to me and I know that many Americans of Japanese ancestry felt the same way," said Harada.

"When Japanese bombs blasted Pearl Harbor they also blasted a dream I was cherishing. I was to report to the spring training camp of the Cardinals in 1942. Rosey Gilhousen, then scouting for the Cardinals, liked the way I played second base. I dreamed of becoming the first American of Japanese ancestry to play in the big time—the major leagues."

ON DEC. 8 nobody in Santa Maria saw hide or hair of Harada. "They all thought I was a Japanese spy and skipped the country," said Harada.

One day two years later, the Santa Maria Times headlined a dispatch from General Douglas MacArthur's South Pacific Headquarters. It carried the news that one of Santa Maria's native sons was wounded in action in New Guinea and had won a battlefield commission fighting against his ancestors.

Cappy was sent to the Military Intelligence School in Savage, Minn., and after a brief course in jungle reconnaissance work was flown back to MacArthur's command for top secret missions behind enemy lines.

(Tomorrow: More about Cappy Harada)

UOP Gets Third Head Grid Coach

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

STOCKTON — Homer Smith, who coached Davidson to the Southern Conference football title last season, was named head football coach Wednesday at University of Pacific.

Smith, 38, is UOP's third head coach this school year, since Ken Blue, who replaced Doug Scovil, recently left to become linebacker coach of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Blue had been named in December to replace Scovil, named assistant for the San Francisco 49ers after coaching the Tigers to a 7-3 record.

Smith took over at Davidson in 1965 and his teams set most of the school and conference passing marks.

Auto Racing

NEW YORK—Dick Smothers, the auto racing half of the show business Smothers Brothers, signed a contract yesterday to drive in the Sports Car Club of America's 14-race Continental Championship series.

Smothers and professional driver George Winterstreen agreed to race two new Lotus T-70s for Echlin Manufacturing Co., a Connecticut firm which makes its debut as a car sponsor.

The Continental series starts April 19 at Riverside and will be at Sears Point International in Sonoma June 27-28.

Baseball

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—The St. Louis Cardinals announced third baseman Mike Shannon could miss the entire 1970 season because of a kidney inflammation.

Basketball

CLEMSON, S.C.—Taylor "Tates" Locke, Miami of Ohio basketball coach the last four years and former coach at Army, was named head basketball coach at Clemson University.

IOWA CITY, Iowa-University of Iowa assistant basketball coach Lanny Van Eman was named head coach at the University of Arkansas.

CLEVELAND—Bill Fitch, University of Minnesota basketball coach for the past two years, was hired to coach the new Cleveland entry in the National Basketball Association.

Bowling

MIAMI—Mike McGrath of El Cerrito, Calif. averaged nearly 214 for 12 games to take the opening day lead by 11 pins over Tommy Tuttle of King, N.C. in the Cougar Open Bowling Tournament.

Horse Racing

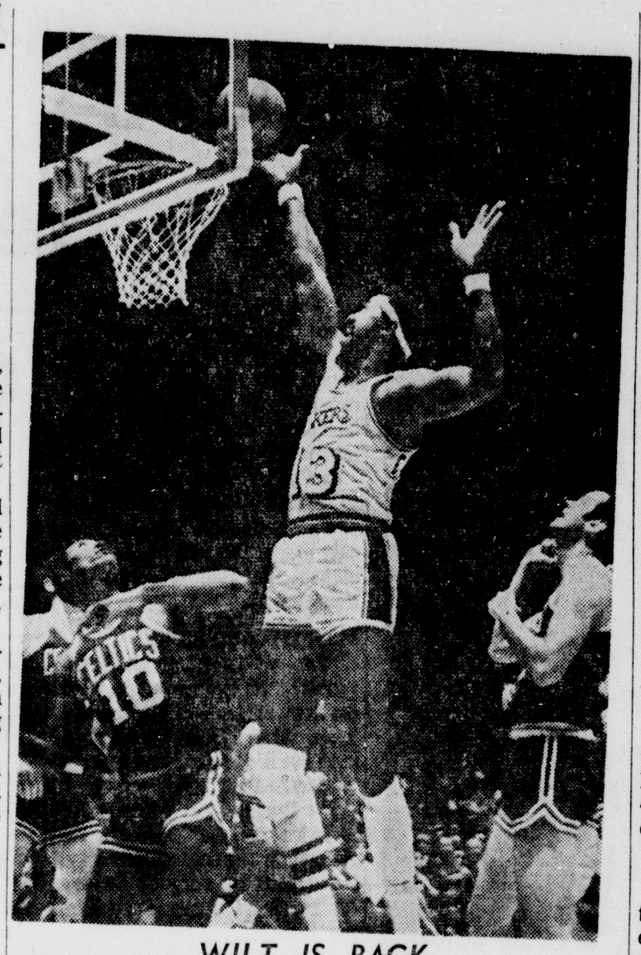
ALBANY, Calif—Little Pirnie, $8.40, won by a nose over Curzon in the top event at Golden Gate Fields.



WILT IS BACK

Wilt Chamberlain, out of action with a knee injury since November, was back to his familiar role of scoring points (15) and grabbing rebounds (9) for the Los Angeles Lakers last night, but the Lakers still lost, 137-122, to the Boston Celtics in the L. A. Forum. Wilt played only 23 minutes. (AP Wirephoto)

NIT Semis In 'Garden' Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — If Pete Maravich had his troubles against lightly regarded Georgetown and Oklahoma, how will he do when confronted with another press, put on this time by jackrabbits and cobras?

No, it's not witchcraft, although it might turn out to be a mystery to Maravich and Louisiana State in one of tonight's basketball semifinals of the National Invitation Tournament.

The Tigers, 22-8, must face eighth-ranked Marquette, the tourney favorite with its 10th ranked defense in the country that forces bad passes and bad shots.

"They jump like jackrabbits and they're as quick as cobras," was the way LSU Coach Press Maravich, Pete's father, described in the Warriors.

Should the Tigers get by Marquette in the 9 p.m. EST game at Madison Square Garden, waiting for them in Saturday's nationally televised 1 p.m. final would be either St. John's, N.Y., or Army. Army, 52.0, is the nation's best defensive team, and St. John's, 63.6 is eighth.

A's, Cubs Use A Lively Ball; Result: 23 Runs

MESA, Ariz. (AP)—The Oakland Athletics have discovered that the experimental lively ball isn't much advantage to them as long as the other team is also swinging at it.

The A's crashed 17 hits off the Chicago Cubs while using the lively ball Wednesday but the Cubs got 15 hits, including four home runs, and won 12-11 in a Cactus League game at Scottsdale.

The A's, now 6-6 for the spring, met the Cleveland Indians today, with Al Downing the A's starting pitcher.

As if the lively ball wasn't enough, the pitchers and fielders had to contend with a wild wind.

The big hits for the A's were Rick Monday's first-inning triple and doubles by four other Athletics.

Pistons To Get Top Prize For Losing

TWO BEHIND

Detroit is currently in the Eastern Division cellar, two games behind sixth-place Boston. The season ends Sunday. San Diego is in last place in the West with San Francisco three games out of the cellar.

The draft will be conducted here Monday with Lanier, the strapping 6-foot-11, 275-pound center for St. Bonaventure and Pete Maravich of Louisiana State among the top choices.

Commissioner Walter Kennedy flipped the coin with representatives from San Diego, San Francisco, Detroit and Boston listening in via a long distance telephone hookup.

CALLS TAILS

Kennedy suggested that the Western Division call the flip and said if the other clubs disputed this, the East would get tails and the West heads.

No one disputed, and Bob Breitbard, president of San Diego, the club with the poorest record, called tails. Kennedy said, "Gentlemen, I'm going to flip a quarter." The coin came up heads.

The Celtics and the Pistons both need a big man like Lanier. San Diego does, too, because they plan to move Elvin Hayes to forward.

Lanier underwent surgery earlier this week to repair torn ligaments in his right knee which he injured last Saturday in the NCAA Eastern Regional championship game. He's expected to recover completely.

EARLY DRAFT

The NBA advanced its draft to March 23 in an obvious effort to catch up with the rival American Basketball Association, which has already conducted the first four rounds of its draft. ABA teams have signed three of their No. 1 selections.

Kennedy said the other NBA teams would draft in the reverse order of their percentage standings. He said his office is checking to see what, if any precedent, had been set in the event of a tie for last place.

Carl Clement with victories in floor exercise and the long horse was top performer for Terra Linda while Chris Van Oeveren contributed two third place finishes.

Young Motorcycle Racer Gets Stiff Test Sunday

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Although 18-year-old Jim Miller of Marinwood can't vote, at least just yet, he sure can ride a motorcycle. And how!

Miller is the young fellow who surprised all the grizzled veterans of the two-wheel motor sport Jan. 1 when he won the Hare Scrambles, a 50-mile, four-hour, sweaty test of man and machine at China Camp near San Rafael.

But Miller, who races his 250 c.c. Husqvarna almost every weekend, will get his stiffest test yet this weekend when he teams with Jim Thompson of Fairfax in the Mint 400, a 400-mile race in the desert just outside Las Vegas, Nev.

DIVIDE TIME

The two riders will split the time, about 14 hours total, going eight laps around the 50-mile cross country racing course. A first prize of $6,000 is at stake when the cyclists begin the grind early Sunday morning.

A senior at Terra Linda High School, Miller had played freshman and junior varsity football before ever riding a motorcycle. Once he got interested in cycle riding it was goodbye football, hello racing.

"I just felt I wasn't getting anywhere by playing football," he said. "Then I started motorcycle racing. I like to win. I like the glory, the personal glory it holds. I guess it's an ego thing with me."

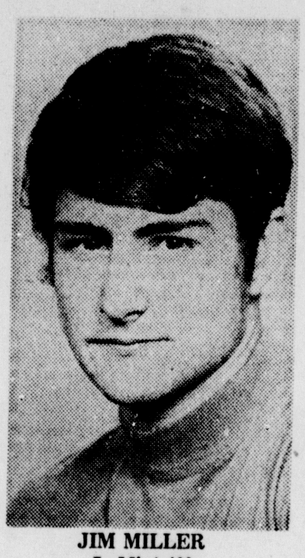
STREET BIKE

When he got his first motorcycle it was a 160 c.c. street bike, not meant for racing. "It was just supposed to be for transportation to school," he said. But he raced it anyway.

Sandy Greenblat, owner of Marin Motorsports, started taking Miller under his wing and had him ride one of his Bultaco 200 c.c. racing bikes and then moved him up to a 250 c.c. "Husky," which he's been racing consistently the last year.

Greenblat has been sponsoring Miller in all his racing adventures. "I can't say enough about him," Miller said. "He's done so much for me and I know it costs a lot of money."

Marin Motorsports will be sharing the sponsorship of the Miller-Thompson team this weekend with Dexter Toyota dealership of San Rafael.



JIM MILLER
In Mint 400

He said motorcycle racing is "six times more strenuous than football. You are physically drained after just 30 minutes of racing," the 5-foot, 10-inch, 174-pounder declared.

He has been racing almost every Saturday and Sunday throughout Northern California, in Oregon, Nevada, once in Los Angeles. He has won three firsts in the last three weeks.

He was to leave today for Las Vegas and get some practice over the course. It will be a specially prepared Swedish-made Husqvarna he and Thompson will be racing.

AUSTRALIAN TENNIS

Gimeno Ousts Emerson

SYDNEY (AP) — Andres Gimeno of Spain ousted Australia's Roy Emerson at the White City Stadium and gained a semifinal berth in the Dunlap International Tennis Tourney.

Although the seventh-seeded Emerson fought back in the second and third sets to win 6-3, 6-4 after losing the first 3-6 Thursday, the 80-degree temperature took its toll and he lost the last two sets 6-2, 6-3.

The fifth-seeded Okker lost the first nine games—and most of his confidence.Taylor, who is unseeded, won 6-0, 6-3, 5-7, 6-4 and now plays American Arthur Ashe in quarter-finals.

Ashe, of Richmond, Va., polished off Bob Lutz of Los Angeles in their resumed second-round match, in which he had a two-set overnight lead. His margin was 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

Australian John Cooper also successfully defended a similar overnight lead against Rumania's Ilya Nastase, the No. 8 seed, though the match went to four sets. Cooper won 6-3, 6-3, 5-7, 6-4.

Stem Christie Good Start To More Fun

The stem christie is not part of my regular repertoire. As far as I'm concerned it is a ski school maneuver — something which should be abandoned before the stemming movements become a habit almost impossible to correct.

A stem is a movement accomplished by using one leg and foot to separate the tails of the skis. A snowplow is sometimes called a double stem and a stem is sometimes called a half snowplow. In today's illustration, you see me traversing a smooth-packed hill. Uphill is to my right. Note that my skis are parallel, my legs comfortably apart, and my body centered and squared directly over my skis. In the second illustration (from right to left) I have started to stem. The lower ski (my left) remains edged and on its traversing course. I have picked up the heel of my uphill ski and moved it away from the lower one in the classic uphill stemming manner. Notice that I have brought forward my lower pole. The stemming action places my uphill ski closer to the fall line that I am about to turn into. The third figure in the sequnece shows me at the moment I'm about to jab my pole into the snow. The moment it is in the snow, I lift my weight to my stemmed ski and move my body to force the heel of that ski.

In the final figure I have crossed the fall line. Note that I have now brought the inside ski of my turn alongside of and parallel to the outside ski of the turn. The stemming action is now over and the christie or skidding phase has begun. From here on, I merely sideslip around the rest of the turn as if I were making an uphill christie. In an earlier lesson, I explained how to move your weight and adjust the angles your edges make in the snow to control the skidding action.

The stem christie must be performed with enough speed to allow the skis to skid easily — that's somewhere between 10 and 15 miles per hour. There's no question about it — skiing becomes really fun once you learn to stem christie — so much fun that too many skiers forget that this is only part of the way up to great skiing. You will never enjoy the full benefits of control and thrills on skis until you discard the stem and become a parallel skier.

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, March 19, the 78th day of 1970 with 287 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning stars are Mercury and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

On this day in history:

Since 1776 today has traditionally been the day when the swallows return to the old Mission San Juan Capistrano.

In 1917 the United States Supreme Court ruled that the 1916 Adamson Act providing for an eight-hour work day on railroads was constitutional.

In 1942 all men in the U.S. between the ages of 45 and 65 were ordered to register with the selective service for nonmilitary duty.

In 1945 the Norwegian underground began operating against Nazi troops which occupied Norway during World War II.

A thought for the day: President Woodrow Wilson said, "Sometimes people call me an idealist. Well, that is the way they know I am an American. America is the only idealistic nation in the world."

Suspect Bound Over On Weapon

William Ralph Cannon Jr. 31, of 912 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of being an ex-convict in possession of a gun.

He is to appear in court Monday for arraignment.

Cannon was arrested after he took a .38 caliber pistol into the Federal Building in San Francisco Dec. 29 in an attempt to challenge federal weapons laws.

Before Launching Crossruffs Cash All The Side Tops

I still remember the day when my father called me into his study. "Son," he said nervously, "it's time we talked about the facts of life. Nobody ever learned how to crossruff by studying the birds and the bees." And he showed me the very hand that you are now looking at.

ACE OF DIAMONDS

Declarer won the first trick in dummy with the ace of diamonds, my father told me. He then ruffed a diamond in his hand, ruffed a spade in the dummy and ruffed another diamond in his hand.

I blushed when my father described this way of playing a bridge hand, and we avoided looking at each other. We live in a franker age today, so I can say quite plainly that East discarded a club when declarer led that third round of diamonds from the dummy.

BETTER TEACHING

Nowadays we teach even young children to cash all side tops before beginning a crossruff. Immediately after taking the ace of diamonds declarer should cash the ace and king of clubs.

When these tricks get by, declarer is safe. He can ruff diamonds in his own hand and spades in the dummy. East may at some stage ruff or overruff with the ace of trumps and lead a trump, but declarer will still get a total of seven trump tricks to add to the three side top cards. Even if you're a bird or a bee, you must agree that it's better to score game and rubber than to be down one.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:

S - A 9 8 3 2
H - None
D - J 10 9 6 4
C - Q 10 7.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four spades.

This leap to game promises strong trump support (often five or more cards), a singleton or void on the side, and not more than nine points in high cards. The idea is to discourage partner from trying for a slam unless he has an unusually powerful hand.

Ex-Employee Denies Car Theft, Trespass

George Edward Taylor, 34, of San Rafael, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of car theft and trespassing. A preliminary hearing was set Tuesday for next Tuesday.

Taylor was arrested Sunday after he allegedly stole a car from a former employer, Arneson Products Inc. of San Rafael, and then abandoned it in a parking lot. He had earlier been discovered in the office of the firm by an employee.

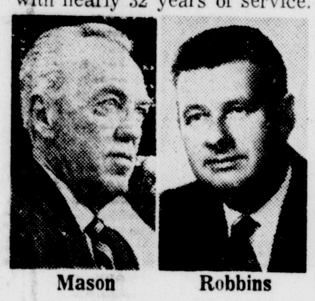
Three Moves In Offing Among Downtown San Rafael Stores

A series of three related moves is being planned for downtown Fourth Street in San Rafael.

One of the stores, Trend O'Fashion at 1136 Fourth, will close by the end of this month. Mrs. Irene Woodhouse, who has owned the shop for two years, is selling out her entire inventory and does not plan on reopening elsewhere for the time being. Instead she will devote all her time to her home in Mill Valley.

The sequel to this, apparently still in the talking stage, is that The Record King, next door at 1134 Fourth, may move into 1136 this summer so that the San Rafael Health and Dietary Food Store at 1132 can also take over 1134 and end up with twice the space it has now.

W. G. (BILL) MASON of Mill Valley is retiring next month from Pacific Telephone after 42 years of service. He has joined the company as a clerk in San Francisco and all of his service has been in that city. For the past 20 years he has coordinated the restoration activities of the company's Bay Area plant men. His wife ANN recently retired from Pacific Telephone's traffice department with nearly 32 years of service.



Mason Robbins

WILLIAM J. ROBBINS JR. of San Rafael has been appointed a vice president of the income property division at the San Francisco regional office of Western Mortgage Corp. He was formerly a vice president of Bryant-Johnson-Chamberlain of San Francisco which became an affiliate of Western Mortgage last summer.

BANK OF AMERICA annual $300 junior college business awards have been presented to College of Marin students Alan Alfred Oldall of San Rafael and Dorothy M. Orchid of Kentfield. Oldall received his award for achievement in business administration. Miss Orchid received hers in secretarial science.

JAMES R. COLEMAN of Kentfield, who was one of the original developers and general manager of the Sears Point International Raceway in Sonoma County, is president and director of the new Sacramento International Raceways, Inc., which is expected to have its track ready for action this spring.

JOHN V. BOITO of San Rafael, who was financial advisor and insurance consultant for the Sears Point project is also with Sacramento International as secretary-treasurer and director. Coleman's brother DAVID, a Marin architect, is providing architectural services for the raceways.

Sacramento International is now offering its stock to the public.

BUSINESS OPENS IN NEW TIRE SHOP

Gill Thompson

TWO MARIN MEN, Lewis F. Gill of Kentfield and Alva E. Thompson of San Rafael have become vice president and treasurer respectively of a new corporation, Lighting Systems, Inc., manufacturers representatives specializing in outdoor and indoor lighting. They were formerly two of the three principals in Lighting Associates, Inc., which has been absorbed into Lighting Systems. The new agency is located at 151 Union Street, San Francisco.

EDWARD JAMES O'NEILL of Mill Valley has been promoted to assistant vice president, San Francisco loan review department, of United California Bank. He joined the bank in 1960 and has worked in several branchs.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Honeywell Inc. has obtained a $4.3 million contract to modify Ioseidon missile components and a $1.4 million Army order for fuse parts.

Pricse Close Lower In Light Trade Day

Analysts observed that Wall Street was not too confident that monetary policy has shifted toward ease and that the prime interest rate would be lowered soon. Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, Wednesday suggested that monetary policy has been relaxed a bit and said that the hoped lower rates were in the offing.

"Traders have been burned too often in the past by false hopes of easier credit, and now they want to see concrete evidence," one analyst remarked.

Lucien Hooper, senior analyst for W.E. Hutton & Co. brokerage, said, "It's probably the right time to put money in the stock market, but you can't convince people of it."

Most point-sized movers in the electronics were in retreat, while a few oils also dropped a point or more.

Steels, chemicals and motors, however, generally traded in fractions and in both directions. Weekly automobile production is expected to be slightly below a week ago, and well under the year ago period.

Among the most active stocks was Dresser Industries, up 1-8 near the close on 127,500 shares. Other actives near the close were Ralston Purina, 121,500 shares, 1-8 higher; and Champion Spark Plug, 102,900 shares, also 1-8 higher. Other heavily traded stocks, included Carpenter Technology off 1-4 near the close, AMP Inc., down 5-8; International Telephone, 3-8 lower; and Swingling Inc. up 1 7-8.

San Marin Club Is Sold; Buyer Secret

Sale of the San Marin Club which once was offered to the City of Novato for $295,000 has been announced in a letter to the San Marin improvement association.

Commonwealth United Corp., parent company of Sunset International Petroleum Corp. which constructed and operates the club, said that the sale is now in escrow. It did not name the buyer in the letter to the San Marin Improvement Association, according to publicity chairman Bruce Smith.

Daniel Poliak, president of Argus Real Estate, agent in the transaction said that he could not ethically disclose the buyer of the club until the transaction is completed.

The club consists of the clubhouse with two handball courts, four tennis courts and swimming pool on 6.5 acres at the end of San Andreas Drive. It now has 200 families as members, according to manager Sue Hogan.

The club was offered to Novato by Sunset International in April 1968 for $295,000 A study was made be the staff and parks and recreation commission, who recommended the purchase.

Then in May of last year, the city council had a public hearing at which Sunset wanted an immediate answer from the city as it had another buyer interested in the property. The council turned it down at that time.

Charge Of Assault, Battery Dismissed

A charge of assault and battery against John J. Cannon, 43, Lombardi Avenue, Petaluma, has been dropped in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Judge Alexander J.McMahon took the dismissal under consideration last Aug. 8 for review in March based on a promised reconcilliation with his wife. Cannon, a San Francisco policeman, had been arrested for beating his wife in the front yard of their home.

Airline Hostess Reports Attack Attempt Is Made

A 23-year-old airline hostess yesterday fought off a would-be rapist wearing a nylon stocking over his face who admitted being high on drugs, according to San Rafael police.

The woman told police the man, about 25 to 30 who spoke with a Latin American accent, grabbed her as she entered her front door at 12:50 p.m., pushed her to a nearby bed and attempted to remove her jeans.

The attacker, holding a knife in his left hand, was pushed away after a struggle, she said. He then threatened to tie her up, but when she protested, said "I'm sorry, but I'm hooked. I made a mistake. . .I'm sorry."

Houseboats' Owners Lose Court Fight

Marin's floating home ordinance, which requires an occupancy permit before a houseboat can be occupied, is constitutional, the District Court of Appeals in San Francisco has ruled.

The appellate court, headed by Judge Murray Draper, ruled in favor of the county and against Alexis Tellis, Joan Buys and Douglas McCoy, houseboat owners in Richardson Bay.

In October of 1968, the county charged the three with violating the countys' floating home ordinance, which requires an occupancy permit for houseboats. The three appealed from Municipal Court to Superior Court, then to the District Court of Appeals in San Francisco.

The appellate court said the ordinance is an exercise of the police power, designed to insure public safety, and is thus within the county's power to enforce.

Federal jurisdiction over admiralty and maritime matters does not proscribe reasonable local health regulations, said the court.

The court rejected Tellis's argument that the ordinance discriminates between living quarters on land and on water. In the disposal of sewage, "this ordinance but extends to floating homes the same rules applicable to those on land foundations," the court declared.

We Search For Reasons Where There Can Be None

Why? Nobody knows.

Nobody has even attempted to offer an explanation.

ON FEB. 25 in the Santa Barbara suburb of Isla Vista, windows of virtually all commercial establishments were broken and a bank was burned to the ground.

Why? Nobody knows.

There have been various "explanations." Students at University of California, Santa Barbara, have said they were gouged by landlords, harrased by police, that Isla Vista was a "student ghetto."

But these are not reasons. They are, at best, lame excuses.

ON FEB. 14 in San Rafael, nearly all windows of the Independent-Journal Building were broken and a delivery van was set afire.

Why? Nobody knows.

The building was ringed by demonstrators in a show of support for a strike by San Francisco Typographical Union 21. But breaking the windows did nothing toward ending the strike. Instead, it worsened the chance of settling it.

MANY STORE windows in San Rafael, Mill Valley, Kentfield and Novato have been broken during the last two months.

Why? Nobody knows.

In each case, the window breaking has followed letters and telephone calls to the merchant demanding that he withdraw advertising from the Independent-Journal. In each case, he had refused to do so.

But the striking union and the Marin County Labor Council, which includes all AFL-CIO unions in the county, have denied that union members broke the windows.

"No union member has any part of it," Charles B. Weers, labor council secretary, told the San Rafael Lions Club last week.

Yet, if the windows were not borken in reprisal for advertising in the newspaper, there appears no excuse whatever for breaking them—not even a lame one.

AT SAN RAFAEL High School, at Isla Vista, at the Independent-Journal Building, and at all the damaged stores in Marin County, the vandalism comes back to the same thing: There is no reason.

There cannot be a reason.

Damaging the high school building cannot solve any complaint any student may have against the school.

Breaking windows and burning down a bank cannot solve any complaint any U.C. Santa Barbara student has against the university, the landlords, the police, or society in general.

THESE ARE BUT scattered incidents of the resort to senseless violence that is disgracing the United States.

A small child, when denied something, will scream and throw things. An adolescent or an adult is supposed to know better. He is supposed to have learned self-control and respect for other people and their property.

There is no excuse for the violence that is degrading our nation. But perhaps all of us should ask ourselves this question: Have we really learned, and have we really taught our children, the difference between civilized man and aboriginal savage?

It appears obvious that many of us, if we are honest, will have to answer "no."

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Maybe New Laws Are Needed To Preserve Political Campaigns

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO,-(CNS)-At the expense of being considered "old-fashioned," a few suggestions to the state legislature might be mad.

One of these could be the consideration of a new section of the criminal code, which would impose heavy penalties for instituting and participating in the popular sport of harassing political candidates.

This so-called sport has become more and more popular throughout the years, and reached a high point recently when a mob of unruly students attempted to disrupt a campaign meeting participated in by Gov. Ronald Reagan, who was beginning his campaign for re-election.

IT'S A LONG TIME until next November, a lot of campaigning will be going on by a lot of different candidates, and if the public has to be treated to an impolite demonstration every time there's a speech or a tour, the entire usefulness of the political campaign will be lost.

Regardless of who the candidate is, Republican, Democrat, or Independent, he is entitled to speak his piece, without interruption by hecklers, or egg throwing students, rabble-rousers, dupes of the Communist campaign for political dissension, or anyone else with an axe to grind.

It is only common courtesy to allow a candidate to speak, whether one agrees with the candidate or not. And it is a principle of government by the democratic process that the right of expression is at least tacitly guaranteed, if not specifically written out.

Thus, when there are continuous interruptions by howling, cursing, filthy shouting mobs of young people purporting to be students of state-supported educational institutions, it would appear that the state legislature should take some action to assure continuance of the democratic principles under which this state is supposedly run.

We say supposedly, for it is not being run on democratic principles, but rather a toleration of activities on the part of agitators, students and others which in past history have led to revolutions and dictatorships in other countries of the world. It is not too far-fetched to think ahead to the time when it can happen here as well.

TWO MATTERS need accomplishing, at least before the roots of the problem can be attacked. One is a firmer hand in dealing with the perpetrators of the various offenses. Second is a determination of who perpetrates incidents, and why they are perpetrated.

The legislature, as the governing body of California, has the responsibility of finding facts, and then enacting laws to correct situations. It has neither found any facts, nor has it enacted any laws designed to halt the practice of agitation against political candidates.

Disrupting a political meeting can be called a criminal act, and some laws on the books at present could be used were the penalties for violation tough enough. But stronger laws are needed to deal with these "offenses against decency," as they grow more and more into expected events when a candidate tries to tell his story to an audience.

Not only does the candidate have the right to speak, but even more important, the audience has the right to hear!

Forester Disturbed By Deer Hunt Bill

I'm scared!

Yesterday (March 11) I participated in an Assembly Hearing at Sacramento before the Natural Resources and Conservation Committee, chaired by George Milias. Here are considered those bills concerned with our all-important environment, about which there has been talk lately.

The bill being considered was AB23 by Frank Belotti. Its effect would be to give the veto power for "depredation" deer hunts to county supervisors and take the final decision from the Fish and Game Commission. The department's professional and technical expertise would be subject to overrule by local elected officials without local expertise. The testimony before the committee brought out clearly these facts:

1. These "depredation" hunts on private or public lands are ordered only where there is clearly established damage to property. They are the last resort action when deer have exceeded the habitat limitation and in that time and place are doing significant harm to crops, and the state is unable to prevent such damage. . .

2. The alternatives are to have overpopulation — (a) die off from starvation, disease, and malnutrition, or (b) have the excess population above the environmental limitation mercifully removed by hunters to whom the removal provides some combination of sport, food, recreation, and exercise. . .

The busy committee, with a full calendar of bills ahead of it, voted the bill out "do pass" with a few "ayes" and only one audible "no". The bill now goes to the full Assembly and then to the Senate. Hopefully, the communication process will work better than it did today!

We failed to communicate that every population must be controlled in all animals (including man) or the inevitable result is die-off. That the quality of life for deer and for man is important and that death from malnutrition and starvation and disease is a pretty poor quality level! That deer like men can and do seriously damage their environment before that die-off, and that the habitat (environment) can support fewer animals after each population peak and die-off!. . .

Music Festival Deserved Notice

It is really a shame that we do not have a newspaper in Marin County that thinks enough of our young people to recognize their efforts to accomplish something worth while.

I am referring to the Marin County Elementary School Honor Festival (including the orchestra, band and chorus) presenting a concert Sunday night, March 15, at the College of Marin gymnasium. There were 364 boys and girls, junior high school level, from every school district in the county involved in this festival, resulting in a beautiful performance that would have stirred the heart of anyone in the county who heard them.

There was a small article in your paper one day the week before about this music festival but no follow up of any kind. I am sure had these 364 young people appeared on the courthouse lawn with rocks, bottles and sticks in their hands, and looking like riff-raff, the I.-J. would have had camera men and reporters following them all over town, but not one camera or reporter was at this gymnasium to cover this outstanding performance these kids worked so hard on.

It so happens they put in 13 hours rehearsal time (in four sessions) from the time they got out of school Friday until Sunday night, which meant there were also 364 sets of parents who were getting them from all over the county to the College of Marin. . .

My thanks to the music directors and the parents, but most of all to this great bunch of girls and boys who worked so hard and did such an outstanding job on this music festival.

Reagan In Special Interest Role

On Paul E. Peterzell's article of March 16:

Thank you for your reflection of the reality of California's transit problems and what I perceive to be a statement about the big-business-dollar sensitivity of Ronald Reagan, governor of our perhaps soon-to-be "late great state."

The question posed is simple: Can we tolerate a governor that acts like an auto lobbiest, among other things, and budgets our money more than 3,000 to one in favor of highways over mass transit when our people and trees are choking to death from the automobiles already here.

Reagan's great averring of the self-sufficiency of the one man-one car combination is in complete conflict with the continued self-sufficiency of the whole and an archetype 1910 answer to a 1970 problem. Spending $800 million for highways this year only obviates spending 900 next year in the stultifying and self-defeating race to appear one step ahead of the state-wide traffic jam that all but the tunnel visioned can foresee.

We must open our minds to ideas that truly have the continued survival and happiness of the whole population in mind and decipher for what it is, the specious rhetoric of "special interest" advocates.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

Julio Cortazar, Argentinian novelist and satirist, tells about the postmistress in a small town outside Buenos Aires who achieved popularity in an unusual way. When anybody came in to buy a stamp she gave him as a bonus a shot of vodka or a breaded veal cutlet. She also coated parcel post packages with tar and feathers, pointing out that this kept the string from showing. Unappreciative town officials finally persuaded her to resign her job. The next day the price of breaded veal cutlets went up 400 per cent.

Federal Snoops Now May Read Your Letters From Overseas

WASHINGTON — The citizen's right of privacy is steadily chipped away with the reason that mounting violence justifies any action from wire tapping to "no knock" police entry. The rise of violence and crime is undeniable. Yet, whether the cure is a cure and whether the remedy may not be more of a threat to free Americans than the disease are surely debatable.

The latest chip to be knocked off is comparatively small and yet it is revealing of the steady trend and toward a Big Brother-is-watching-you way of life. A new regulation issued by the Post Office is a form of "no knock" applied to the mails.

ANY POSTAL CLERK is given the authority to refer any piece of mail, whether sealed or unsealed, arriving from overseas to the Treasury Department's customs bureau. The treasury is drafting new rules to put envelopes in the same category with packages and parcels. Therefore, they may be opened and inspected.

Merchandise entering the country has, of course, always been subject to customs inspection. But those who have studied the new ruling believe that this never applied to first-class mail. The only law cited to justify this latest invasion of privacy is an 1866 tariff act allowing customs officers "to search any trunk or envelope. . .in which he may have a reasonable cause to suspect there is merchandise which was imported contrary to law."

The new regulation is a broad net capable of sweeping in the big fish that may be suspect and myriad little fish as well. The mail from Cosa Nostra agents operating abroad, helping to frame the syndicates that smuggle in heroin, is a source of invaluable information except that these agents are not so naive as to write down their plans in a letter to be sent through the mails. Letters from one's children traveling abroad or from relatives overseas fall into the same net and are just as likely to be read by customs officials. While the regulation does not apply to domestic mail, the powers of the Post Office Department are such that a stroke of the pen — as in the instance of overseas mail — could bring all mail under Big Brother's eye.

A DEPARTMENT spokesman gives as the reason for the new ruling the attempt to check what is described as a flood of pornography from abroad. Mailing lists purchased by the purveyors of this hardcore pornography are used to distribute teasers in large numbers to addresses of individuals across the country. And the individuals, in turn, enter angry protests to the Post Office Department.

Pornography wholesalers in this country flood the mails with teasers sent to indiscriminate mailing lists, according to the department. Curtailing the domestic operation of the merchants of smut has proved difficult to downright impossible. Virtually every newsstand today has literature that stops just short of being hard-core pornography and that a few years ago would have been on the banned list.

THE POST OFFICE Department has long been concerned over the commercial exploitation of pornography through the mails. President Eisenhower's postmaster general, Arthur Summerfield, put together a "chamber of horrors" of marginal and hard-core stuff, including several films. He gave members of Congress guided tours of his collection. There is little evidence that his campaign resulted in any slowdown in the pornography market.

Only a congressional committee can put the searching questions as to the motivation and the consequences of the new ruling. What about the Universal Postal Union and our postal treaties — do they authorize this invasion or prohibit it? Who initiated the changes? Was there a rush order from above? An alert committee should get some revealing answers.

Signs Of Cooling Off Appear In Middle East

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign New Analyst

Despite the lack of concrete evidence, there is persistent speculation that something is cooking on the Middle Eastern stove, and that the Big Four may have made some slight progress toward a formula for a settlement.

Fueling the speculation have been these:

—President Nixon's delay in announcing his decision on Israel's request for 35 more Phantom fighter-bombers and more than 100 Skyhawk jet fighters. In late January the President promised his decision in 30 days.

—The return of Mideast mediator Gunnar V. Jarring to the United Nations after a long absence and his weekend round of talks with Arab representatives.

—French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann's mention of a "thaw" in the Big Four discussions and his assertion that no one among the Big Four expected the Israelis to withdraw completely from territory taken in the 1967 war prior to a settlement.

Both the Soviet Union and France had been insisting earlier on immediate and unconditional Israeli withdrawal.

AGAINST THESE possibly hopeful signs are these indicating the half-war continues to heat up:

—Increased guerrilla activity against Israel from Lebanon, suggesting Israel might soon face active fighting on all its land fronts with Lebanon, Syria, Jordan and Egypt.

—Disclosure that Egypt had set up four "offensive" air bases in Syria over the opposition of Syrian President Dr. Noureddin Al-Atassi but with the support of strongman Defense Minister Lt. Gen. Hafez A-Assad.

NIXON'S DELAY in answering Israel's request for more war planes has been attributed variously to preoccupation with the stepped up fighting in Laos, to a desire to maintain at least "incorrect" relations with the Arabs and to a possible agreement by which the United States, France and the Soviet Union could at least delay promised weapons shipments to either side in the hope a settlement could be reached. Both the Soviet Union and the United States are publicly committed to deliver to their mideast "clients" whatever supplies are needed for their defense.

Among the belligerents it appears obvious that both sides rapidly are losing whatever maneuvering space they may have. Israel is building fortified settlements in the occupied areas which they will become increasingly reluctant to give up.

Jordan and Egypt have shown guarded interest in the peace plan put forward by Sec of State William P. Rogers suggesting minor territorial adjustments. But to accept it and survive they must be able to tell their people it was forced on them by the Big Four.

Clergymen Learn About Bias —A Few Of Them Do, That Is

Six Marin clergymen, each accompanied by four or five of his parishioners, are attending a training program in Mill Valley titled "Combating White Racism." They will complete the last session May 2, and return to their congregations to spread what they have learned among their fellows.

That's good. Hundreds of signs in America of late have pointed to something black men have always known —that in ways white people don't even think about, our society is biased against black people. In these sessions, sponsored by the county human rights commission and the United Church of Christ in Northern California, those biases will be laid out and talked about.

WHAT ISN'T so good is this. The human rights staff called the ministers of 57 Marin churches, asking if they wanted to take part in the program. Six said yes.

Ten per cent isn't going to be nearly good enough to meet the crisis of alienation that is rising in this country. Even in marvelous Marin, ten per cent won't be nearly good enough.

They'll probably be giving the program again. Maybe next time more people will get in and find out what's going on.

REMEMBER Ralph de Jesus, a 12-year-old heroin addict who testified about his drug use before a legislative hearing last month in New York? Afterward, he was put in a home for narcotics rehabilitation.

They put him out again the other day. The director said he didn't fit with the teen-age addicts. "He literally needed 'The Three Bears' told to him every night," the director said.

So Ralph is back out on the street, scoring for smack with no one to read him anything, except maybe his constitutional rights next time he's arrested.

And then New York will spend thousands of dollars to put him through juvenile courts, detention homes, and the rest of it. It would have taken so little to give him a chance. Our society seems to be far better at killing than at healing.

AT COLLEGE of Marin, it looks as if the next move to save the environment will be a calmer affair than last year's frenzied assault on army flood control bulldozers.

At tonight's college board meeting, the biology department will ask that a 2.3-acre oxbow area of the old Corte Madera Creek bed be held as a nature study preserve. The only threat is a request from Ross Valley Sanitary District to use part of the area for a sewage pump station.

The board can make a few points with conservationists by setting the area aside, and it would be a good thing esthetically.

The creekbanks are rank in weeds, berry bushes, big eucalyptus and acacia, and the area is crawling with little brown birds and an occsional mallard duck. It would be nice to have one remaining area at the college that isn't being tamed and manicured.

Women Are Right: Every Man Should Liberate More Of Them

NEW YORK—One of the many revolutions that has to be dealt with this year is the Women's Liberation Movement. Some men are treating it as a joke, but many men are taking it seriously.

My friend Rowland said to me the other evening at a bar in New York City, "I don't know what to do."

"Why?" I asked.

"I love my wife, but I believe in the Women's Liberation Movement."

"What do you mean?"

"WELL, THE WOMEN are right. They say that marriage is wrong and that no woman should be tied to any one man."

"Is that what they say?"

"Of course, and if you see it from their point of view, why should only one woman have access to me, when there are so many others that are just as deserving?"

"Rowland," I said, "are you sure that the Women's Liberation Movement was formed to share husbands?"

"Certainly. Most of us have been treating other women with 'benign neglect' for years, and now we're paying the penalty. By maintaining the status quo at home, we have encouraged less fortunate women to radicalize and try to win, through revolution, what they couldn't win through elections. You can't blame them for wanting a piece of the action."

"YOU'RE A TRUE liberal, Rowly," I said.

"I've become a realist," he said. "For years, like most married men, I was blinded to the oppression of women around me. I knew they were in chains, but I was afraid to speak up and to act on their behalf. I rationalized by saying, 'If I can keep my wife happy, I'm doing enough.' But I was living a lie. The only road to true equality is to make every woman happy, regardless of the sacrifices it entails."

"That's beautiful," I said.

"When women ask to be liberated," Rowland said, "they are asking to be treated as human beings, no more, no less. They want dignity, understanding and someone who cares. If that demands a revolution, then I say I will become part of their revolution."

"YOU'RE NOT advocating violence, are you?"

"I'm not for violence per se," Rowly said. "But if a woman becomes violent over me, I'm not going to turn her over to the authorities."

"I should hope not," I said. "How many women do you hope to liberate?"

"I'm not as young as I used to be," Rowland said, "but I'll liberate as many as the good Lord will let me."

"You're a saint, Rowland. A saint."

"I'm only doing what is right," he said modestly. "There comes a time in a man's life when he must stand up and be counted."

"Have you discussed this with your wife?"

"That's what I've been trying to tell you. I'm staying in town by myself tonight."

Drug Suspect Is Arrested

A Fairfax man has been arrested on suspicion of having marijuana after being stopped for running a stop sign, San Anselmo police reported today.

Michael Francis Denning, 20, of 19 Hillside Avenue, was booked at Marin County Jail Tuesday and released on his own recognizance to appear Tuesday in municipal court.

Police said he went through a stop at Butterfield Road and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at 12:45 p.m. Tuesday. When he was stopped by a patrolman, a bag of suspected marijuana fell from his pocket as he produced identification, police said. Another bag of suspected pot was found in his pocket when he was searched, according to police.

Case Continued On Burglary Charges

Nicholas Komens, 19, of San Francisc , has been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on three counts of burglarizing Mill Valley residences on Jan. 30 and Jan 21 and possessing stolen property on Jan. 21.

His case was continued Tuesday until March 31 for a report from probation officers as to whether he is acceptable to juvenile court.

School Tax Hike Loses In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) —Voters in the nation's second largest school district slapped down by nearly a 4-to-1 margin a property tax increase plan that officials termed unprecedented but necessary to head off financial crisis.

Tuesday's resounding setback at the polls raised the possibility of a strike by the city's 25,000 teachers and officials feared classroom cutbacks — saying the present $.7 billion budget is too little.

The final vote from all 889 precincts stood 356,661 against and 99,134 for, representing about 34 per cent of the district's 1.3 million eligible voters.

School officials had warned without the proposed additional funds the district would face a $47 million deficit that in the future would force larger classes, shorter school days and perhaps a curtailed school year.

The plan was also designed to boost salaries of teachers, whose leaders have mentioned the possibility of a mass teacher walkout if demands go unmet at upcoming negotiations.

The proposal, advanced by the Board of Education and supported by the teachers' union, would have upped the property tax by $1.31 per $100 assessed property evaluation, for a three-year period.

Injuries Minor To Passenger

A 13-year-old girl received minor injuries Tuesday when a car she was a passenger in left the roadway, rolled over and landed on the patio of a San Rafael home, police reported yesterday.

According to police driver Cortney Gorden Balzan, 21, of 1201 Grand Avenue lost control of his car at 11:30 p.m. in front of the home of Mineen Jackson at 60 Ridge Road. The car plummeted four feet to Mrs. Jackson's patio, police said.

Master Sewage Plan Sought In BCDC Bill

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill requiring the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission to draw plans for carrying out a regional waste water treatment system was introduced yesterday by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond.

The bill directs the BCDC to report back to the 1973 Legislature with its recommendations.

Knox, who last year authored legislation making the BCDC a permanent body, said the plans were needed to implement the state's 1968 study of water quality in the Bay and Delta.

That study, done by Kaiser Engineers, recommended formation of a new regional agency to build a multi-billion-dollar system to collect and treat industrial waste water and sewage. The study's recommendations, however, received a cool reception from Bay Area officials, and largely have been shelved.

Knox said that "before we can proceed to construct the type of facilities recommended in the Bay-Delta study, we must have a specific plan which describes in detail the role of each city, county and sewer agency in the Bay Area."

Knox's bill did not estimate the cost of having BCDC do the planning work, but a spokesman for the assemblyman said the needed funds either would be made apart of the bill or added to the state's budget.

Knox previously introduced a bill directing BCDC to devise a plan by next year to have its members directly elected by the voters.

Murder Suspect Faces Charge Of Air Piracy

BOSTON (AP) — U.S. Atty. Herbert F. Travers Jr. says a short order cook charged with murder in the aerial gunshot slaying of an airliner copilot also may be accused under the federal Air Piracy Act.

Conviction on either charge could bring a death penalty.

The alleged assailant, John J. DiVivo, 27, of West New York, N.J., remained under heavy sedation at Massachusetts General Hospital after removal of a bullet from his stomach Wednesday. He also was wounded in the chest and right arm during the mile-high cockpit struggle on an Eastern Airlines plane Tuesday night.

Doctors described his condition as satisfactory.

Also in satisfactory condition was pilot Robert M. Wilbur Jr., 35, of Fair Lawn, N.J., who landed the twin-jet DC9, carrying 66 passengers and a crew of five, at Logan International Airport although shot in both arms.

Drug Arraignment

Richard Dale Warman and Harry David Biedak, both 19-year-old San Franciscans, have been arraigned in Marin Municipal Court on charges of possessing marijuana in Marin on March 14. Their case was continued to next Tuesday for entry of pleas.

New York Aids 'Earth Day'

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay has banned all noontime traffic April 22 on Fifth Avenue, the city's fashionable main street, in support of a nationwide "Earth Day" protest of pollution.

A 45-block stretch of the Manhattan avenue will be closed to vehicles from noon until 2 p.m. so that "one of the most beautiful streets in the world will become for this one day, at least, a pedestrian mall for our citizens to enjoy," Lindsay said Wednesday.

The mayor also announced the closing of Manhattan's 14th Street from 2nd to 7th avenues between noon and midnight as part of the protest.

CAFTAN AND CARDAN

Touches Of East By Marin Designer

By PAT BALMES

"Beautiful women demand less material on their skin," says Egyptian couturiere Seham Eldin of Mill Valley.

"Clothes either make you feel free or locked in. In the future women will want light clothing like the desert Bedouin. If she is beautiful, why should she hide it? If we admire Greek sculpture, why shouldn't we be able to admire a beautiful woman's body?"

Seham, wife of the former Egyptian Consul in San Francisco, says, "When we decided to give up politics and live away from Egypt, I wanted to do something. rad quite a variety of choices in the United States.

"We love love Marin County and intend to become American citizens," says the petite mother of three. Her dress-designing workshop is named La Coquette for Seham's ideal, "a woman who could be a flirt while elegant and feminine".

"FOUAD AND I were married in Cairo in 1953 when he was in the diplomatic service of Egypt," says the niece of the former Egyptian Ambassador to Japan and Australia. The couple traveled in Europe, South Africa and the Middle East. Tracing the diplomat's nomadic life, each child's birthplace was a different country: Hesham, 17 in Egypt; Sahar, 13 in South Africa and nine-year-old Kholood in the United States. Today Mr. Scrag Eldin has an import-export business.

Seham translates the styles of cotton work clothes of farmers, bartenders and priests into opulent hostess gowns, opera clothes and lounging outfits by using Middle East silks and American sheer synthetics. U. S. synthetics are half the price of similar overseas materials, according to the Egyptian designer.

The simple pattern of the caftan is copied from a waiter's long cotton gown with three-quarter sleeves and a cummerbund. "I couldn't wear the style to entertain in Egypt," laughs red-haired Seham. "I would be mistaken for the souffragy (bartender)-" She feels the caftan,

MRS. RAY WINFREY of Mill Valley shows a hand-crocheted dress of silver thread over silver taffeta which was a gift to couturiere Seham Eldin from the wife of the Egyptian delegate to the United Nations, Mrs. Ahmad Khalil. Jennifer Winfrey pours Turkish coffee to enjoy with baklava, a pastry of honey and nuts. Mrs. Winfrey was born in Alexandria, Egypt and is the daughter of Air Marshal Sir Norman and Lady Coslett of London. Her father was stationed near Cairo before World War II.

EGYPTIAN COUTURIERE Seham Eldin of Mill Valley admires yellow amber beads of the Bedouin girl. She wears the native Cardan jewelry and Cleopatra's hairstyle. "Loose, long sleeves of chiffon make a woman feel feminine," she says.

MRS. THEODORE HARRIS of Belvedere displays the mixture of Eastern materials in Western pattern. The sari evening gown is in beige with gold embroidery. Her golden earrings and halter chains are copied from the ancient jewelry of the Bedouin girl.

The Warm Up: Warm up your golf style with the newest golf fashion, the tunic. Skimming low and easy over shorts, this is a great disguise for figure problems. To vary your wardrobe, the March issue of Woman Golfer suggests a trim golf battle jacket that teams up with new short flaring culottes.

The Trimmings: Low-slung belts, tiny head-hugging crocheted caps and high-power scarves and zip to the sportswear scene.

The Score: For a super-femme look, flash back to the '30s in elongated jackets over flippy pleated skirts and tunic-plus-pants looks. After 5, the chemise returns, this time in softer, slinkier fabrics and closer-to-the body shapes.

Long Pants Basic In The Wardrobe

Pants are a basic part of the spring wardrobe. The newest long pants are straight. Short pants make more news. . .from midthigh to the miniest shorts. Some of the newest details are high waists and pleats. Wear them with. . .the new shrug tops, the tunics, the long skirt, the long coats. Go for the total look.

Egyptian-Born Seham Eldin Puts Middle East In Style

first introduced to Washington society by the wife of the Kuwait Ambassador, has been exploited in inexpensive fabrics for bathrobes. "It should be very gracious. A floating hostess gown in, say, synthetic chiffon."

Sarah Vaughan, the singer, noticed Seham's craftan of gorgeous silk and embroidery in a Strawberry shopping center store window and ordered caftans for home and professional entertaining.

WHEN MIDDLE Eastern gowns were introduced to Gumps, the buyer asked Mrs. Eldin to draw the simple lines of the long collarless gown of the nomadic farm worker (Fellaha) and the abba, a huge open coat of goat's wool which protects from the burning sun but lets in the desert breezes.

The cardan, ancient metal jewelry of the Bedouin, is copied in gold and silver by rich Egyptians. The chains and coins of nomad's headdresses are now used to fill modern plunging necklines. Seham mused about importing the heavy jewelry and noserings of south Egypt where Moslem women still cover their faces when they see a man on the street.

Beading on caftans imported from Egypt is done by inexpensive labor, mostly children, and cannot be easily duplicated here. "Egyptian beading is very much like beading of American Indians, Mexicans and Africans," says the Egyptian seamstress. She substitutes braid on garments made in her sunny Reed Street workroom in Strawberry.

THE WALL is decorated with a fellaha's feast-day veil of lace and silver thread. The farm girl wears an identical veil, but of cotton, daily in the fields. Seham copies this for cocktail wear. Heavy chain and coin necklaces hang on the wall. Also displayed is an applique of a pharoah in a barge, an example of wall hangings made on tent cloth popular in Egyptian homes.

"I'm not an original designer," insists Seham ("arrow of cupid" in Arabic). "I combine ancient styles with modern American patterns. I adapt, I borrow, I copy from history," she explains, pointing out some drawings found on a pharoah's tomb.

A BEADED TOP made by Seham and a harem skirt in purple are worn by Mrs. Martin Swig of Mill Valley. The orange veil is copied from the veils of Moslem women in South Egypt who still cover their faces when they see a man on the street.

A NAVY IMPORTED silk caftan with hand-beading and embroidery is worn here by Mrs. Edwin Wylie. In Egypt the fine hand-work is done by inexpensive labor, largely children. In Marin Seham copies the designs in braids and beads. Mrs. Wylie plans to take along some of Seham's fashions when she accompanies her surgeon husband to Australia next month, where he will become a visiting professor at the University of Australia. Little Playtimers

As warmer weather arrives, little ladies turn out in apron dresses and little halter neck shifts in crisp, cool cottons for those busy play days.

In The Pocket

See-Through Is Abandoned In Most Italian Fashion Houses

Valentino tried. He dropped skirts to the calf and ankle and covered up the arms. He also abandoned most of the see-through look.

But next door to his Rome headquarters, the American boutique of La Mendola showed a summer line that finished with an eye-popping evening skirt. Just a full silk skirt. No top at all.

A six-foot-tall model caused a wild scramble by photographers and cheers from men in the audience—and gasps from the women—when she dropped the pink panels draped over her shoulders. That left the back bare. Another shrug and down came the rest.

Other examples are less extreme, but there was plenty of flesh at showings, even at houses where the hemlines fell far below the knee.

Federico Forquet brought back the bare-backed halter top for evening wear. He also slashed deep V's in other gowns —which came off to reveal equally low-cut mini-dresses. There also were slinky white damask evening suits with deep V necklines and slits above the knee.

Dabs Of Long Length Leave Lasting Impression

Pants were the biggest casualty. Although Mila Schon and De Barentzen continued to champion them, the majority of houses showed just a few pants outfits for sportswear.

The Italian collections are always strong on fabric news, and these shows were no exception. The strongest influence was once again the 30s and the angular geometric of the Bauhaus.

Colors were spread over a considerable range, with bright blues the newest. Considering these were summer fashions, somber shades remained surprisingly strong, especially chocolate brown and black. Beige did well and had big backing from both Valentino and De Barentzen.

Men's wear, which opened the fashion week, struck a calmer note than usual, aiming more at wearable, sellable clothes than the gimmicks and the laughs.

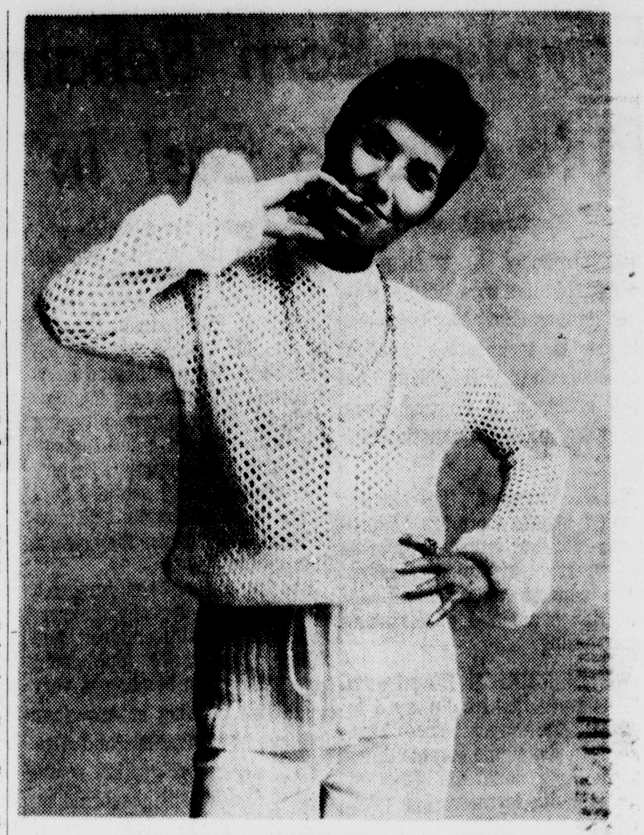
The keynote was still casuals, with the liesure look continuing to gain ground. The line was longer and looser than last year's.

Shirtmaker Samo's new styles, were typical. Gone were the skin-fitting, over-shaped skirts that were the rage last summer. Also out was the see-through look in lace or chiffon.

Instead Samo showed open-collared or scoop-necked tunic shirts coming down well round the hips and anchored with metal belts. Sleeves were long and fairly full. They came in dark crepe with a preference for chocolate and wine-red shades.

Tiny Toppers

Even the maxi coat comes in pint-size styles to ward off a rainstorm along with bright printy or knit ponchos and tunics over pants and jumpsuits.



PACE FOR LACE

Sandals Open Up

Bill Miller's Theater Suit

By WALTER LOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bill Miller has been right so many times on his introductions of avant garde styles for men that when he has something to say on the subject people stop to listen. This time he has come up with what might be called the theater suit for almost formal occasions.

The coat is frockcoat length in rich fabrics that give it a somewhat formal appearance and is designed to augment business suits designed for business, and sports wear designed for sports. It is for such things as cocktail parties and the theater, but is not as formal as a tuxedo.

"WHAT I think a man is seeking is variety, and a distinct new length in a jacket will give a distinct new look," Miller said. "It is not to replace existing wardrobes but to augment them. You have single-breasteds for one look double-breasteds for another. Now you can vary the length for another change."

Miller, who designs for the Village Squire, pioneered in such items as the Edwardian suit and bell bottom trousers for youths. Plus Nehru jackets, turtlenecks for dress, pendant jewelry for men to wear with them and scores of other items.

"You've seen this length in walking suits," he said. "But most of them were in overcoat length and in heavy tweeds for country wear. This is the first time I've seen this done in suiting for party wear. But you could not keep the jackets of a walking suit on indoors—it was too hot. Even then we did very nicely with them in the store."

THE ACCESSORIES for the theater suit are nothing outlandish—shirts and ties very much like shirts and ties worn with business suits, for example. Miller also recommends an Ascot shirt which looks great with the coat and a bright handkerchief for the breast pocket. With it he was wearing two tone hightop button shoes—made with a concealed zipper.

One coat in the new line had very wide peak lapels and was a high button, three-button jacket. The length was just above the knee (37 inches) and the back treatment was unusual—two 18 inch non-pressed inverted pleats to give flare, and with darts for shaping. A similar model was a four-button double-breasted.

That coat came in worsted flannel and in whipcord, but for an even dressier look Miller designed a six-button double-breasted in navy gabardine with the buttons forming a V shape on the chest, only the lower one buttoning. It had a 5½ inch wide lapel. There were five inverted pleats in the back below the split waist and a back in four panels. Another version was in navy wide wale corduroy.

Another of the frock coats was strictly a show piece—an eye catching garment that receives applause when seen on a runway at a fashion show but one not very many people dare to wear. This on was in a multicolor tartan plaid in mohair and wool. There was a sailor shawl collar which high diagonal breast pockets partly covered by the lapels.

ANOTHER OFFBEAT garment was a Suffolk sports jacket which, presumably, is the opposite of a Norfolk sports jacket. This one was in handwoven Peruvian wool and colored with special batik dye that made it into a series of tan, yellow, brown and dark tan splotches. The Norfolk straps which normally are verticle were curved around the back to form the pockets. The back had the two normal straps plus pleats. The cuffs formed a half crescent curling up to a point and had five fancy buttons.

Miller also showed a new form of the old cardigan jacket. This one was a two-button double-breasted in wide wale corduroy in gray. There were three scalloped flaps over the front pockets and the back had a row of pleats under a V-shaped yoke to give flare.

With exception of the double-breasted flannel party coat the other items are for spring 1970. Pants in the spring colletcion were belled and both with and without pleats. The knee was slightly wider, 19 instead of 18 inches, and the pants were 20 to 21 inches at the bottom. Some had cuffs, some did not.

Choose Travel Clothes For Both Fashion And Function

By AP NEWSFEATURES

Travel clothes should be both functional and fashionable.

Shapes must be easy, natural and unconstricted. Can you imagine a woman wearing a skirt so tight she barely could take a step, jumping from stone to stone or climbing old winding staircases to see a 200-year-old fortress?

To be chic and pretty in spring, 1970, is to be fresh, carefree, and lovely. The bright colors and subtle detailings of Irish linen dresses make them naturals for lolling in nostalgia among old ruins, forts and bazaars of bygone eras—either on the auld sod or on soil closer to home. Their soft simplicity won't trip you up in any port.

Dress Square Until You Get The Job

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's businessmen have become increasingly tolerant of beards, mini-skirts and other "now" styles on current employes but they often refuse to hire job applicants sporting the mod look.

By NORMAN KEMPSTER

A survey, sponsored jointly by the American Society for Personnel Administration and the Bureau of National Affairs Inc., drew responses for more than 150 personnel executives from a cross-section of American business. These were the results:

—ALMOST 80 per cent of the employers would refuse to hire a bearded job applicant, but would take a clean-shaven individual if other things were equal. But 80 per cent of the firms either had no objection to a beard on an already-hired employee or would object only in extreme cases.

—Almost 60 per cent of the companies said they would be likely to reject a woman applicant who appeared in a mini-skirt but 45 per cent of the enployers said they have no objection to mini-skirts on employes. Another 41 per cent said they have no set rule.

—About 90 per cent of the employers said they would turn down a male applicant with shoulder-length hair and the same percentage said they also object to their employes wearing long hair.

—LONG SIDEBURNS and mustaches have won general acceptance.

—Fifty per cent of the firms absolutely forbid see-through blouses on employes and almost all indicated they would be unlikely to hire a woman applicant who appeared in one.

—Afro hairstyle on a black applicant would be acceptable by 47 per cent of the companies for women and 41 per cent for men. It would be regarded as a negative factor for both sexes by 42 per cent of the companies and 16 per cent said they would flatly refuse to hire a man wearing one and 11 per cent said they would reject such a woman.

Style Lag: Soviet Mini Battle

By ANTHONY C. COLLINGS

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia is still fighting the battle of the miniskirt, even as the vogue of thigh-high hemlines begins to waver elsewhere.

"What is subversive about them?"

MRS. LEVASHOVA is one of this country's top fashion designers, and she put in a word for style conscious girls whose hems shock their parents. Russians don't react calmly to such trends, she said, and waste hours in "deep family dramas over the length and shape of skirts."

When her fashion designer bureau came up with a short-skirted dress, Mrs. Levashova said, only two shops risked selling them. The 200 dresses they stocked "sold out extraordinarily fast," yet the state—which makes dresses as well as everything else here—failed to produce any more.

EVEN THE fashions that do finally emerge from the state's painfully slow dress manufacturers are often as much as three years out of date, she said.

Writing in Komsomolskaya Pravda, organ of the Communist Youth League, Mrs. Levashova sympathized with young people who are frustrated by the poor assortment of clothes and the relatively high prices.

Typical of the unattractive clothes lying unbought in stores are dowdy, flower-print dresses, drab and crudely made purses and thick, coarse stockings.

If a Moscow secretary wants to rise above the generally low level of fashion she must spend 40 rubles—two weeks' pay—for the few high-fashion shoes on sale.

IT COSTS HER 10 rubles to buy a fancy party dress. The ruble is officially valued at $1.11.

Mrs. Levashova proposed the state open special fashion shops for young people, with a good assortment of pretty clothes at prices a secretary could afford. As a scientific touch, Mrs. Levashova said sociologists could mingle with the shoppers to study their tastes and report back to state clothing planners.

Under her proposal each shop would have small television sets to show possible combinations of fashion accessories, and daily fashion shows.

Russian men aren't much better off. A recent press article said the number of good Moscow tailors "can be counted on your fingers." A new mass-production system cuts costs but has 30 different tailors sewing in 30 different styles on each suit, the article said.

THE SOVIET satirical magazine "Krokodil" comments on Russian and foreign fashions with this cartoon: The salesman says, "I can offer you an imported jacket if you pay a small customs duty." Many unattractive fashions produced in the Soviet Union lie unbought in the stores.

Shoulder Bags Still Favored

Fashion-minded women all over the country are shouldering handsome bags—a wardrobe favorite for lots of reasons.

Besides the fashion-right look of the shoulder bag this spring, it's the ideal bag for the busy gal. Just pack away all the necessities of life and still have both hands free.

The popularity of pants has been important in keeping the shoulder bag up front. Top styles are the soft-constructed leather pouches and deep envelopes.

There are lost of pockets, flaps and belted effects. Straps are of wide bands of leather, chain or cord.

Many Women Wear Wrong Size Jewelry, Designer Says

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Marianne Ostier, who has been designing jewelry for 31 years, finds it second nature to look at the jewelry worn by every woman she sees. And often she'd like to — but doesn't-step up and say,"No, no, you ought to be wearing . . ."

A lot of the mistakes she sees have to do with proportion, Mrs. Ostier says. "If someone with a short neck wears long ear clips, the neck looks still shorter. If the woman with a long neck wears small ear clips that go up into the face, her neck appears too long.

"IF A WOMAN has short hands and wears a very small round ring, her hands look much shorter. With a high ring, you can elongate the finger. The marquis shape, widest in the center and tapering to a point at each end, is ideal for short fingers.

"And a bracelet that is worn on a heavy wrist should be a big bracelet, to make the wrist look smaller."

Although Mrs. Ostier often uses diamonds in her designs, she feels diamonds don't do that much for a woman. They show a lot of glitter. But colored stones have much more influence on a woman.

"Eighteen-carat gold is a soft color and becoming to wear; sometimes it has one or two diamonds to accentuate it," she says.

Mrs. Ostier advises women to consider their profile when choosing jewelry to wear around the face. It is her opinion that button earrings do nothing for the profile.

A SCULPTOR when she married a jeweler in Austria, Mrs. Ostier went back to school to learn jewelry design. One of her first ideas—which proved one of her most successful and the most copied—was that the application of sculpting ideas could move jewelry away from flatness. Diamonds used to be set down into the metal, greatly reducing their sparkle because little light could get to them.

She began using metal on more than one plane and she set stones up on stems, so that a flower pin, for example, took the shape of a real flower instead of being as flat as the photograph of a flowers.

The Ostiers moved their jewelry business to the United States in 1941, and she has been carrying it on alone since her husband's death two years ago. But business details, which were her husband's province, so frustrated her that she decided to close shop.

Her jewelry pieces are one-of-a kind, "because I always had enough ideas to go on to something new." However, in the sale was a diamond starburst broach similar to one given to Julie Nixon Eisenhower for a wedding present.

HER FAVORITE color is purple and the jewelry stones she usually wears are amethyst and turquoise, both of which are becoming with soft purple dresses and both of which are flattering to her skin color. The turquoise also brings out the green of her eyes.

Neither amethyst nor turquoise are among the five gem stones Mrs. Ostier listed eight years ago in her book, "Jewels and the Woman." They are diamond, ruby, emerald, sapphire and pearl.

She says: "With jewelry one has more possibilities to stress one's own type than with anything else. The aim of jewelry is to make women look more beautiful, to flatter them. I'm so conscious of color and becomingness; if one wears something that is becoming, one is much more comfortable than showing wealth."

DIOR DECREES:

If You Want To Be Ahead, Think Long

Women are going to resist like mad—but in a year or so they'll all be wearing long skirts.

Authoritative Christian Dior, whose word is law in the fashion world, gave the green light to the mid-calf skirt in the spring-summer 1970 collections.

If you want to be in the fashion forefront, think long. Dior gave buyers the new look they need to make present short hemlines obsolete and the word is that within a few months, you'll be cleaning out your closet.

Marc Bohan, Dior's Paris designer, said good-bye to minis by coming out with a powerful collection of slim-Jim midis with round necks, slim elbow-length sleeves and narrow skirts. The austere look, more than vaguely reminiscent of a proper British governess, was belted in snakeskin.

Since serious clothes have electrified the current French fashion scene, accessories are more meaningful than ever. Dior's clothes are on the verge of being as depressing as some parochial school uniforms--but they are a visual relief from the brassy look of minis.

Dior has showed the wide-brimmed matador hat or a man's fedora with the brim turned down. And if you think the new midis will bring back spiked heels, you're dead wrong. Dior's dark stockings, sometimes delicately patterned, were worn with slip-on pumps with low, thick, round heels.

Miss Prim, complete with granny chignon at the nape of her neck, has really hit the fashion scene with a resounding bang. Dior ladies don't come on strong. Actually they're mournful.

Dior's midi suits—done in somber brown, navy or beige—featured slim, wrap-on skirts with bolero jackets topped just short of the waist. The classic man's shirt, tailored in crepe, went underneath.

All this may sound ordinary, but it's possible to spot a Dior a mile away. Bohan outlined his suits in colored snakeskin strips, which is the Dior 1970 signature. Even the most gauzy, slithery chiffon gown had incongruous leather bands running horizontally across the bodice.

Pantsuits, very scarce in the Paris collections which have focused sharply on the hemline, made a big comeback at Dior. If you can't stand midis, pants are the ultimate escape hatch.

But Dior's trousers were so deceptively simple that they literally defied the word "couture." Think in terms of a collarless tunic with shirtsleeves. Add straight stovepipe pants. That's it. You could almost make it yourself.

Dior, like many of the other top Paris houses, says that flamboyant clothes don't jibe with the troubled times and that ostentatiousness is gross. Hence, the onslaught of sober clothes in a no-nonsense mood. Reportedly rich Europeans don't want to look "obviously rich" any more—and designers like Dior are taking the cue.

You're probably bored to death with the fact that something as classic as the shirtsleeve dress is in the Paris limelight. But Dior, like every other French designer, is on the shirt binge. Dior's have billowy sleeves, taut bodices and slim skirts. But the real status shirtdress had a midi kiltie skirt.

Last season it was the Gucci-Pucci syndrome. This year it's a Dior or Saint Laurent kiltie. Nothing, but nothing, is considered more chic.

Dior's evening clothes didn't change the mood of sobriety. The same silhouettes were interpreted in silks, crepes and printed silk organzas. But dressy shirtdresses dripped tasels or feathers at the hemline.

But you don't have to worry extensively about peplums.

The thing that should be foremost in your mind is long skirts. All the fashion powers are planning to push it hard in 1970—the stores, the manufacturers, the designers.

The consensus in Paris is that the look isn't new but it certainly is cahange from the sight of terrible legs that should never have been made public.

Thinking Bold

TOTAL FASHION

Subtract the sleeves from a Stevens Blentempo twill battle jacket, and fill the void with a highly visible, printed voile shirt. Add better than average tailoring details to pleated straight line slacks, and you have the new California multiples, being sold in boutiques across the country.

Resort And Spring Fashions Combined In Brooks Boutique

NEW YORK (AP) — Donald Brooks fans will jump for joy at the news of his boutique collection. And thanks to the $75 to $250 price range of the clothes in the collection, the woman who previously could afford only to look at, but not wear, her dream designer's creation, can do her celebrating in a Brooks-designed outfit.

The boutique collection, which blends resort and spring fashions, utilizes many fabrics, including printed silks especially designed by Julian Tomchin, unused colored linens and matte jerseys. Even weather can't prevent a dedicated Brooks fan from showing off her designs—raincoats and rainsuits, as well as the more-to-be-expected beach shifts, are included in the collection.

BLACK AND WHITE cotton plaids are big with Brooks. Bias plaid dresses come with their own accessories-poker chip scarves and black leather pull-through hip belts. Plaid hip-hugging trousers are topped by an overblouse of black matte jersey belted with red, black and white leather tie.

Gals who go for prints will want to note the tunic dress or trousers with a tunic top executed in a black, red and white puzzle print on silk linen. Red crepe makes its mark in a shirtsleeve shift with front verticle tucking running from neck to hem. The black poker chip belt worn with this outfit really isn't a gamble at all—it's sure to be a success.

LEMON YELLOW and poppy red with dashes of black and white form a third color grouping. Especially eyecatching is a poppy red poplin raincoat with yellow top stitching worn over yellow wool jersey trousers and overblouse which is belted with chain and woven red leather. A red poplin rainsuit is sure to provoke both rainy and sunny day smiles.

What's spring without flowers? Daisies, poppies and dandelions in pink, blue, white and burnt orange adorn bare midriff halter top pajamas, full skirts and pants worn with cotton-wrap blouses and vests. Slit above the knee, the resortwear informals are lined in pink polished cotton.

BRASS BAMBOO belts, cuff links and/or buttons accent white crash linen beach shifts. Jumpsuits are everywhere, in both jersey and linen. One eyecatcher, a blue jumpsuit, is completely covered with silver nailheads and belted with metal hinges laced with red suede. Handkerchief hemlines in jumpsuits are another Brooks' boutique collection trademark.

Metal flake reptile stretch belts, leather ties, matching rainscarves, spaghetti-fringed vests and pants and skirts worn with halter tops or shirt-type blouses in multi, multicolors splashed on silk, complete the diversified Brooks' boutique collection.

Amigos have discovered the poncho again for sportswear fun. In knits, Aztec printed cottons, and fringe blanket styles they top bells, minis and maxis.

CARDIN AND GIVENCHY:

Beautiful, Original Prints

By JOAN DEPPA

PARIS (UPI) — Hubert Givenchy and Pierre Cardin normally are fashion worlds apart, but they showed collections with something very important in common: beautiful, original prints.

Both designers confirmed what has become almost a rule of thumb in the Paris spring-summer fashions shown so far: The houses that design their own fabrics have good collections; the ones that only choose from manufacturers' samples do not.

Both preferred geometric prints most of the time but there the exception was almost as interesting as the rule.

Givenchy sketched big butterflies in black on a white background of Georgette crepe and satin fabrics, then splotched color over them—red over one butterfly, turquoise over another, yellow over another, until the dress was a riot of color.

CARDIN DID a big red glen plaid painted on a white background with polka dots daubed in the empty squares. After the monotonous polka dots at Dior, Cardin's whimsical use of them was a relief.

The Givenchy success was stunning, coming after so many seasons when he seemed only to resurrect clothes from Audrey Hepburn's closet. This year Audrey will have to come back and buy, buy, buy, because the look is so slim trim and completely modern. There is not one garment with the bulky raglan shoulders that were his trademark for years.

LIKE CHANEL, who pared her famous suits down to such a fine point they are making yet another comeback, Givenchy streamlined his entire line.

Gone were all the ugly hats and what used to be the invariable strand of pearls of beads. Gone was all the padding and stiff seam construction.

Givenchy finally discovered the set-in sleeve and narrow shoulders, the beauty of jersey for evening, the fun of suede.

He varied the hemline enough to make it interesting, but not to extremes. In fact, his most important hemline for day just covered the knee — just like Chanel's.

Cardin had so many ideas that it was hard to keep track of them, but many of the most important featured trousers, an idea he used to loathe for women.

Cardin was also busy making the longest skirts in town — except when he was making the shortest. His long daytime look brushed the ankle and his short look for all sorts of times brushed the bottom of the behind.

THE STRONG LOOK

There's The Right Knit For Every Type Figure

By ARLEEN ABRAHAMS
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Everyone want to wear a knit these days. Why not? They're the greatest fashions going.

To make the most of knits, you have to know your figure type and the kinds of knits to wear.

Knits are body-conscious. But if your figure is less than perfect, there's no need to despair. Today's knits come in so many different weights, textures and degrees of clinginess that there's a knit for every figure type.

If you're tall, slim and sleek, or small-boned and firm, take advantage of your figure and show it off. The new slinky knits are for you—especially those lightweights knits that just pour over the body.

If your waist is small and your midriff is nice and flat (lucky girl) play up this feature —in a dress that makes a point of the wide cinched waist, in belted contrast or the newest '40s touch of smocking.

What if your mirror tells you you're not ready? Don't give up. The clingers still can be for you. Some of the best of the new easy little dresses are designed to be tied at the waist and lightly bloused—and that soft blouson effect does wonders to cover extra inches.

For fuller figures, double knits are best—soft and wearable, but with a little extra body —perhaps a lightly textured surface. Try these in some of the new long-line looks: low pull-down tunics, long easy cardigans and gently shaped dresses. Long loose vests are good, too. If your legs are your best asset, the flip little pleated skirts are for you.

Pants, too, are more varied than ever this season. That means there are many flattering looks from which to choose. Legs are going straighter but there's more detail—new seaming, new cuts, and new kinds of tops to go with them that create a whole new dress-up category in a soft, feminine mood. A case in point is the loose, full-legged pant with its '40s inspired fitted peplum jacket that's ideal for after dark.

Today there's a knit for every occasion and a knit for everyone. It's all in knowing which ones are right so they can make the most of what you have.

BRIDAL LACE AND RIBBONS

Look For The Leggiest Style Season In Years

By Associated Press

For both mother and daughter, 1970 will be the leggiest season in years. Never has there been so much excitement in hosiery, especially since today's hosiery is not just leg covering but body covering and outerwear too.

On important evening occasions, today's "moon goddess" will wear a hooded, silver glitter bodysuit. The very contemporary moon siren will treat the bodysuit as a second skin, wearing it as it, with just a long pendant hanging from the neck, as an attention-getting accessory. Or, she'll team it with a short, swingy skirt for a two-piece ensemble.

The subtle, supple embroidered floral and zodiac designs on the instep or on the side of the leg in sheerest watery browns, gold and pales are very much part of today. Chiffons and crepes, the "in" fabrics for spring, especially take to the new subtle leg look.

Little girls can copy mother or sport their very own look. Can anything be more delicate on little legs than knee socks? Shiny solid, opaques, snowflake-like crochets in all the hues, look as fresh as newly fallen snow. And little girls have their own pantyhose, too! Their fuzzy wool panels are soft as cotton candy. Strips of lace in pales delight both mother and daughter.

Whatever the styling, color is everywhere-fir greens, Chinese reds. midnight blues, sparkling golds and frosty pastels, all bursting with high intensity. Strong, clear screen-printed designs of florals, geometrics and argyles do a super job of livening up an understated party dress.

Supporting Fashion

Supporting the braless movement are little over bras. The bolero type tops fit snuggly over skinny ribs and jumpsuits, for maximum look provided with minimnu coverage.

The Mini Dress Teams With Maxi Or Midi Coat For '70

NEW YORK (UPI) — The combination of mini dress with midi or maxi coat is a 1970 look. That's the long and short of it, the last word on hemlines for the new season. As the forecasters detail things: "The hemline rise or fall that once took seven years between extremes will occur in the space of one day as a woman changes from day five inches above the knee to evening 14, 10 or eight inches from the floor.

"Most designers believe equally in the short daytime skirt, from three to five inches above the knee, and the calf or ankle length for festive clothes. The floor length evening dress is actively relegating the evening pajama to the role of a classic.

"Like travel pants and the shirt dress, every fashionable woman counts pajamas as a basic, but they are no longer a sensation. Pants for day and evening are straight and fitted tight through hips and thigh."

These were excerpts from the spring forecast as the American week-long series of fashion shows for visiting press, radio and television representatives:

THE FORECAST looked back through the 1960's—the mini skirt, the youth mania, the male fashion riot, jump suits, space helmets, space inspired fabrics Pop and Op art crazes and the serious scientific advances made in vinyls, no-iron fabrics, new blends, weather and crease-proof finishes.

The 1960s were the years of "Who am I?" plaguing the nation. The 1970s' statement is "I am me," or the individual taste of the woman rules in a decade in which we'll repeatedly hear the word mass.

"Unprecedented mass housing, mass transport, and massive efforts to balance a tottering world"—these are words the forecasters used.

"Clothes will function as environment for work and action, and also represent escape, persure."

Now for some specific trends from the spring collections: Day and sports clothes are classic, uncontrived, mostly straight and simple, fairly loose yet showing the body. Day shapes include the shirtwaist, the shirt, the simple suit, the tubular coat, the pants-suit with a long tunic, the maxi coat over a short dress or pants and shirt.

The 1970 silhouettes are close through the shoulders, long through the waist, flared at the hem by pleats or flounces. Belts are always soft and non-cinching, fairly narrow and set low on the hipbone.

Necklines are no longer high, but the throat is almost always wrapped with a long scarf. Many coats and suits are collarless, with the cardigan look, and many dresses have low rounded necks with or without rim. Suit jackets are elongated in lines, fingertip or almost touching the hem of the skirt.

Death Of The Miniskirt Will Cost Plenty This Year, Warns Designer

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Men, the hustlers of feminine fashion will fleece you of a minimum of a thousand dollars in the next year or so, according to couturier Ray Aghayan.

Aghayan designs feminine wardrobes for television and motion pictures, and in some cases male atire. He is a nominee for an Oscar this year for best costume design.

The death of the miniskirt is imminent, he says. And it's going to cost you.

Aghayan said, "The midi for middle of the calf look is the coming thing in fashion. That means skirts will be about 12 inches or so below the knee.' '

"The very short skirt," he continued, "is good-looking on the very young. Girls 19 and under."

Aghayan has been circumspect in designing clothes for females in television. A miniskirt today is fashionable. In reruns five years from now she will be as dated as Claudette Colbert in her ankle-length skirts from the 1930s.

"When I design clothes for a TV actress I'm aware there may be as many as 25 million women watching and being influenced," he said. "If a certain actress is seen often enough she can set a fashion pace."

Aghayan reckoned that a modest wardrobe of 10 or so new things would cost the averag female more likely her husband $1,000 to make the change from the old look to the new.

Clock Designs Are Big Stocking News

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

The message for spring from stocking manufacturers is clock designs-both on new sheer knee socks and the popular pantyhose.

In addition to clock ornamented pantyhose there are some that sport racing stripes. And you don't have to be a member of the horsey set to enjoy the colorful side stripes-black, white, brown, navy, pink, periwinkle, blue, melon, violet.

The popular bodystockings, that provide the irreducible minimum dressing effort in underpinnings, are also available in new prints, lace and rib designs bright colors go merrily from toe to neck. Young people may wear the bodystocking as outerwear or add a skirt, vest or jewelry. Let's say that a little something added will give the outfit individuality.

IT WAS the pace setting under-20 set who started the trend to bodystockings and pantyhose. The Establishment quickly took a look-see. Thin types could work themselves into the hip-hugging pantyhose, but hippier homemakers had difficulty when they tried to fit the panty part around their capacious posteriors. That problem has been eased in the last year. Now there are pantyhose in every size to fit the petite 4-foot-10-inch girl or the tall girl over 5-foot-6-as well as those plump ladies who like to refer to their bulges as feminine curves.

SPRING JUMPSUIT

From Moreau, this wool jersey jumpsuit has a high stand-up collar, hidden buttoning and a waist dropped to the hips, marked by a green toile band matching those on the trouser leg ends. The collar and revers are also green.

Courreges Raises Eyebrows As Raquel Welch Models

PARIS (UPI)—Most of the Paris fashion world already has set out to prove that the mini was some strange aberration of the swinging sixties and had nothing to do with the new decade.

Andres Courreges, as independent as ever, paid no more attention than he did back in the mid-1960s when he first started raising chic eyebrows with his short-skirted dresses and neatly constructed trouser suits.

As if to prove his current contention that fashion should glorify healthy, curvaceous figures he had movie sex symbol Raquel Welch model a low-necklined jump suit for the cover of Paris Match.

Miss Welch fills the deep horseshoe neckline even more amply than the bouncy young beauties who were modelling Courreges clothes, but the bald-headed designer with glitering eyes makes no secret of the fact all of his models would have figures like sex symbols if he could find them.

The curvaceous actress and many other women would have trouble fitting into most of the current crop of clothes, which seem dedicated to the proposition of bringing back words like "chic, elegance, grace and charm."

The nearest thing to a compromise between Courreges and the chic school of fashion was provided by the first black couturier in Paris fashion history, a 26-year-old American named Jay Jaxon.

Jaxon, who was born and educated in New York City, was the new chief designer for Jean-Louis Scherrer, an old house which used to have old ideas.

But the young Negro changed all that with lots of neat, little dresses two to three inches above the knee and some of the best longer skirts in town.

His most striking items were in suede, a material he handles imaginatvely and effectively, cutting a long vest into a checker-board design of dark and light brown suede squares, which grow progressively wider toward the hem and end with a dark brown suede fringe that just misses the floor.

Ropes And Beads, Pearls And Chains

The new spring and summer jewelry is so full of ropes of pearls, chains and beads in a riot of colors that a woman can capture her man simply by looping him in.

The rope trend comes from the "versatility for creating dramatic effects," says the Jewelry Industry Council, a trade organization.

Spokesmen for the Cultured Pearl Associations, also a trade group, add that models themselves have been a factor. They take their own ropes to wear doing a designer's fashion show, the designer likes the look, starts featuring it, and other designers climb on the bandwagon.

The ropes are versatile, that's for sure. Some of the models in New York's ready-to wear market combine the long ones—60 inches—for 120 inches of pearl to wind around the throat and in graduated strands downward to the waist and below.

ALSO SHOWING are eight, nine, and even 10 strands worn around the throat for that old-time choker or dog collar effect. Wear the ropes hanging down the back instead of the front. Use them as a belt. Or, fill in a low cut dress with a bib of jewelry.

At the pearl association's fashion show recently the ropes were shown with the most casual of daytime dresses and trousers to the most formal evening wear.

The jewelry council, in a rundown of major trends in other jewelry, said sculptured looking items abound. So do Victorian items, to go along with the trend to nostalgia in other feminine apparel. It is here that chokers, bibs and dog collar necklaces, plus enamel and filigree pins come in.

As for hair ornaments, barettes are coming back strongly, even to jewelled loops for pony tails.

The armor look continues. One group comes in gold, silver, a combination of silver and brass, or a combination of silver and black enamel. This group includes belts, necklaces, arm bracelets, and earrings.

In colors, almost anything goes. They include the deep, dark reds and blues, sometimes combined with stark white, and edlicate shades of pink, yellow or green. Some firms combine coral and turquoise for an "Indian" feeling.

Fine cultured pearl rings are being made in two sizes, one for the index finger, the other for the middle finger. Other stones being used include amethyst, garnet, tourmaline, turquoise and onyx.

The Monster Maxi Coat Sweeps On Into Style

By NADEANE WALKER

LONDON (AP) — The maxicoat has overtaken and passed the mini in the fashion popularity sweepstakes and looks like a runaway winner. You might call it the granny look.

"We are selling six maxicoats to every four short coats," the manager of one department store coat department reports.

"Anybody who is still holding out will soon be in maxis," its spokeswoman said confidently.

BUT FASHION has split personality, and many a maxicoat covers a miniskirt. The picture may shortly change, though, for long dresses and long day skirts have appeared in shops in the past month.

The manufacturer of one budget price range says: "we brought out a limited production of long skirts six weeks ago, and they are selling very well, surprisingly well. We make one that is slit to the knee in front, a pleated one, a belted one and a buttoned one, all in woolens. They sell best in London, but they also sell in the provinces."

Some fashion buffs believe the midcalf length coat will eventually beat the less practical ankle or ground length. For one thing, dry cleaners who used to charge by the inch on minis are really cleaning up on maxis, for which they charge double the price of a regular length coat.

"Maxis started as the new thing for 16 to 25 year olds, but now they're literally for everybody," said a department store spokeswoman.

"LOTS OF middle-aged housewives are buying them. They're a great look, particularly the midcalf length. Women will pay any amount for a maxicoat, but they're a bit cautious about spending much on a maxiskirt." The most popular price range for maxicoats seems to be about 20 pounds $48. Budget maxiskirts cost around four pounds $9.60.

Manufacturers and retailers have good reason to be pleased about the success of the maxicoat, for it is estimated that while a maxi only costs 25 per cent more to make than a mini, it usually sells at twice the price.

Mary Quant, who launched the London miniskirt, showed maxis, minis and midis in her latest collection, and said afterwards that she is quite happy to see the three coexisting.

"The mini has become fashion classic, and will never disappear completely," she said.

RED-HOT TRICOLOR

The Battle Jacket

Doggone It

Deep And Bright Tones For Spring

Spring's dress shirts continue the trend to deep tones and bright colors, sometimes patterned, often complemented by a wide tie in a coordinated hue.

Prediction Is The Maxi Coat For Early Spring, Hems Up For Summer

Will spring fashions be short, long or inbetween?

What about the maxi?

More than midi ever did, maxi stepped off the designing board into the streets last fall and winter.

Maxi coats met rousing acceptance, especially among the younger set. Maxi evening coats appealed to fashionables of all ages.

In a short spring with an early Easter, will maxi win again? It, and the midi length, are being offered.

Since summer is due to start right after Easter, at least in fashion thinking, most people are likely to be considering short rather than meditating maxi.

Shorter lengths win general favor—just as they did in dresses to wear under maxi-coats.

Queen's Designer Drops The Hemline

LONDON (AP)—Designer Hardy Amies dropped hemlines to mid-calf at the opening of London's 1970 spring and summer high fashion showings.

But Amies, who makes some of the queen's clothes, was clearly not going to leave himself out on a limb on the hemline issue.

"The designer can only suggest," he noted on the show program. His own suggestion was skirts that just clear the knee for tweeds, with the longer length for softer materials cut on the bias. The only all-the-way-to-the-floor maxis he showed were for evening.

The three-piece classic suit made a big comeback and there was more than a hint of Chanel in many of the boxy jackets with four flapped pockets.

Amies colors are navy and white above all, with yellows, gray, green, off white and apricot. There are many three-toned checks and prints, and materials are either roughly textured tweeds or smooth flat gabardines, jerseys and flannels.

The trouser suit marched on in the Amies collection, this time with shorter shirt style jackets, or elongated sleeveless waistcoats that nearly touched the ankle.

The Gypsy carried on, too, in full skirted, small waisted formals with long puffed sleeves. Many of these were in floral or paisley chiffon prints. A few frothed with ruffles at wrist and neckline.

There was one group of long tunic tops with pleated skirts. A-line coats went over matching sculpted dresses for day wear. Yokes were a big thing-simply outlined with seaming for daytime, but beaded and embroidered for evening. Trousers were wide, but never bell-bottomed.

Dressing Up For Easter Ancient Idea

Our custom of "dressing up" on Easter dates back to ancient times, but with a justifiable reason: this was the season of newness and for a fresh start.

In 1970 fashion arbiters may be taking advantage of a perfectly legitimate urge to doff the old and on the new — but whatever the background, whatever the reason, most women, and men, too, find that fashion is fun.

Certainly the most glamorous of Easter customs is the Easter parade. In many cities and, especially in New York, where it is usually televised, everyone looks forward to this show of finery. This custom is older than many people imagine. It was an ancient superstition that a new garment should be worn at Easter to bring good luck throughout the year.

Also, in the early days of Christianity, new converts were baptized on Holy Saturday. On Easter Sunday, they would wear their new baptismal robes to church.

FOR THE TENNIS SET

Called "Rally," this tennis dress is smart for Marin tennis courts with its clean and crisp lines. It has all the fashion newness of 1970 with its use of white with black trim. It's by Head Sportswear, available at Stan's for Sports in San Rafael, Novato and Mill Valley.

Accessories People Wondering What's Next

BY JANE ROGERS

London Express Service

London—It's not really so surprising that men complain that they can never understand women and the way they think. That small worried band of people who control the fashion trade—the designers, manufacturers and store buyers—are all wondering what on earth we are going to do next.

Having emancipated us from long constricting skirts, tight waists, items like bras, belts and suspenders what do they find? Suddenly we all climb into maxis and are demanding stockings, rather than tights again.

For there's no doubt that the hosiery trade is about to go through another revolution and the underwear people too. With the return to a more feminine, less emancipated look, girls are tired of the all-in-one underwear, the simple dress that needs no accessories and are looking for things with all the glamor of the naughty nineties—and that includes stocking-tops, the new eye-stopping zone. Even some of the men are reluctantly beginning to admit that it is quite exciting to see a flash of knee occasionally instead of a steady diet of plump thigh day in, day out.

So look out for stockings again, and even suspener belts—for there is still a resistance to the solid foundation garments. Look too for stockings that stay up by themselves, with built-in elastic at the tops. Now they've improved the mechanics of this particular item, and they really do stay put instead of crawling down your leg just when you don't want them too.

New are mini-maxi stockings for wear under maxi skirts or trousers or, if you are sticking firmly to the mini as a form of knee sock.

They are sheer like ordinary stockings and come in the usual color range plus black and white but they stop just below the knee and stay put because they have a narrow knitted welt of elastic. They are less likely to run because they are not under so much tension as stockings that go over the knee-cap.

After the daring glimpse of bare leg, what next? I can tell you: underwear that needs a lot of attention, looks as though it has been hand-made for you, feels sensational when you put it on.

As a direct reaction against the dark sculptured lines of the bra-slip: step into it and you're almost dressed—there has suddenly been a big demand for fussy looking lingerie in slippery satins and crepes, bias cut to cling, lavishly trimmed with lace, delacte to handle.

GYPSY DREAMERS

This Is The Season To Put Hemline Where You Want It

By now every smart woman is aware that Spring '70 is an all-lengths fashion season. . .the mini, the maxi, the midi and the as-you-like-it. It's a season for the Individual to express herself (within the bounds of taste, and even that is negotiable!)

Since lengths no longer make the news, experts say it's the proportion that counts. . .the length in relation to the bodice, the sleeves, etc., etc.

Even so, skirts are predominantly still short. The "modest length" is from 4-6 inches above the knees, though some hemlines, it is plain to see, are much higher.

The midi coat (hovering about 10 inches above ankle) is seen in a few collections. One prominent American designer shows a midi coat worn with pants. An especially elegant costume: a navy wool crepe midi coat worn over a red sleeveless jumpsuit.

ONE SIGNIFICANT point: shapery. Them's that has shape should surely show it, and will, this Spring. For whatever, in the realm of fashion, there can be no doubt about a lady's shape this year.

Committing a crime against the "average woman", designers tend to ignore a woman's natural form. Not everyone looks like the skin-and-bone models prancing along the runway of these couture showings. Not everyone wants to. It may be difficult to wear some of the new dresses.

In one collection, daytime dresses are straight and simple, fairly loose yet showing the body shape. The dresses hug the upper torso, then begin to flare at the hip, sometimes pouring into pleats or flounces. Shawls and scarfs abound on every type of outfit from evening dresses to pants to suits to dresses. Belts are popular, but are always made of soft materials. They never pinch the waist. They they sit low on the hip-bone or ride high, Empire style. And fabrics are very soft and earther light.

MANY DESIGNERS are showing the "layered look". In a recent showing, models, like strippers, started down the runway in a maxi coat, took it off to reveal a long tunic over pants, then peeled it off to expose a halter top. Almost like the famed dance of the seven veils, the display of the four-piece suit shown by another designer. . .it includes a short jacket, a sleeveless tunic, a short skirt, and pants. Almost need a book-mark to tell where you are, in sequence—or at least, a program! A wardrobe ready for any occasion.

"The purple influence is going to invade all color," says one designer. "Spring purple is important as an accent as well as an all-over color scheme. There will be reflections of purple in softer and darker tones, in mauve to eggplant." Her sheer opaque pantyhose colors spring purple.

Glace cottons and nylon gleam, and new linen velvets and corded cotton dramatize the midnight scene. There's a new daytime softness, the matte finish of the Twenties seen in pink, teal and blue tapestry colors.

CATCHING RAYS

Clean lines and bright colors mark this new version of a skirted suit. Designed by Larry Fletcher for Rose Marie Reid, the suit comes in six different tri-color combinations. Don't let the side slits fool you. It is all one piece with a deep, low back made of Helenca for a hint of control.

The Jeopardy Of The Maxi

By CAROLYN A. BOWERS

NEW YORK (UPI)—"Super look", the fashion editors called it. Double jeopardy lurking in a hemline, I soon discovered.

The coat, yards and yards of sleek black cashmere, first tempted me from a department store display window. I was easy prey, and quickly owned a maxi.

BACK HOME WITH my treasure, and having had time to think, my impulse was to cry-I just didn't have the fashion individualism some call it "nerve" to wear the darn thing. If I had any sense I'd take it back.

Of course I didn't, and a couple of days later, dubious but determined, I donned the maxi, slung my orange and yellow five-foot long silk scarf around my neck and stepped out—tripping on the doorstep.

After several times almost falling flat on my face in the first 100 yards of so, I realized that my new fashionable monster would require a great deal of unanticipated attention—mainly lifting and holding.

The perils had begun. Stairways, escalators and revolving doors seemed to dare me to move. Getting on and off buses was a gamble every time.

To no avail, I resorted to cars whenever possible. Try getting out the back seat of a two-door automobile in a ladylike manner while wearing a maxi. It's almost impossible.

WHAT DO YOU say when someone obviously hostile to maxis stops you and asks, "Does it eat much?" or "How many times a day do you walk it?"

What happens to your fashion awareness when a little old lady remarks, "Miss, most of those Salvation Army uniforms really look horrible, but yours is very becoming."

Is a maxi worth the loss of a good friend?

There wasn't room for me and my maxi in the front seat of a sports car once, so I asked a friend sitting in the back to hold the coat. When we arrived at our destination, he was totally exhausted.

"This isn't a coat," he said, "It's a matress."

How do you soothe your ego when a handsome new friend is more fascinated by your coat than by you? Well, you can always hope you'll do better when the coat comes off.

All these perils being so, I'm still wearing my maxi and the simple reason is I love it.

It helps that I'm an elongated variety of female, nearly six feet tall. I've been told the combination is "spectacular." And what girl can resist that?

Gone Is The Super-Chic Gloss Of The Haute Couture Houses

By MARIAN CHRISTY
United Feature Syndicate

Whatever happened to French haute couture?

Gone is the delirious excitement, the superchic, the pizzazz. Designers are no longer catering to the individual client who can pay a small fortune for one dress—after all, self-indulgent millionaires are in a diminishing minority.

Instead the concentration is on clothes that can be mass-produced quickly and inexpensively by American stores and New York manufacturers whose economy is based on acquiring the fast buck.

The name of the game is commercialism.

Big clue to all of this played-down chic came when the House of Lanvin, which didn't show in July, came out with one understated fashion after another. Lanvin's heart is set on the midi hemline but also on such items as the side-slit chemise and shirtsleeve with a kiltie skirt.

MRS. BERNARD Lanvin, a beautiful brunette who was a former Ford model in New York, was wearing the prototype from the current collection—a black turtle-neck sweater with a brightly-colored midi kiltie, horizontally striped. As it turned out, this casual look was repeated in the collection with models wearing the same gear in different colors.

There is one excellent by-product of the current fashion situation: More women will be wearing more facsimiles of Paris fashion on their backs—even if they don't know it. Lanvin's clothes, for example, are wonderfully easy to wear.

Mrs. Lanvin — known as Maryll had her hand in the designing of the collection and it bears her stamp of individuality. There are lots of gabardine pants cut off at the mid-leg and worn with a skinny-ribbed turtle neck. Over this getup goes a sleeveless open front midi coat. It's the kind of nonchalant chic young women love.

Springtime can be chilly, so the Lanvin idea is to span the season by showing a black mink midi coat to toss over a leather jump-suit.

But the real bread-and-butter look at Lanvin isn't quite so sumptuous. More in keeping with the current mood is the short-sleeve wool blazer worn with a round-neck sleeveless sweater and a polka-dot silk midi kiltie.

NOW THAT fashion has gotten uncontrived and simple, designers are doing extravagant things with fabrics. Lanvin, for one, smashed together a polka-dotted jumpsuit with a Persian print sleeveless midi coat. These days, it's not at all unusual to see two unrelated patterns blended together in one outfit.

It may be that it's unreal to think that designers can come up with revolutionary new looks every six months.

The Lanvins, for one, have talked about once-a-year showings but none of the other Paris designers will back them up. And it's equally impractical to think that women are amenable to changing their wardrobe every six months.

So why continue on the current wave length when it doesn't have the old fire?

Emanuel Ungaro, a former protege of Courreges, showed his spring-summer collection, and he has gone soft—but not crazy.

Ungaro, best known for his tough man-tailoring, has gone '30s-mad and features a short-sleeved dress with a puffy blouson sitting on the hipbone and melting into a short skirt with a ripple of pleats.

It all looks so droopy and languid. If it wasn't some version of the old-fashioned blouson, it was the pin-tucked chemise with a wide leather belt sitting prim-

NEW YORK SHOWS SUMMER

There wasn't one midi dress in the whole Ungaro lot. But long coats ran rampant in the collection.

UNGARO'S CONCEPT of contemporary chic is the midi coat over the mini dress. Sometimes it was a flower-printed midi sleevesless crepe coat over a pink mini. Sometimes it was a white midi trenchcoat, with a capelet, over a brown linen bolero and hip-slung mini with a print cummerbund circling the bare torso.

It's a disconcerting combination of honking horns, pounding drums, unharmonious flute music and sounds from electronic machines. The "music," fashion and make-up reflects what Ungaro calls tomorrow's thinking.
